United Appeal

SIX ON TARGET FOR START OF DRIVE

By TED GASKELL

Six divisions of the United Red Feather-Red Cross appeal had filled their quotas and poured $9,000 into the appeal's coffers by the time the drive was officially opened at an 8 a.m. breakfast today.

Mayor Hugh Stephen officially opened the drive proclaiming October and November as United Appeal months. He stressed that this is the most important year in the appeal's history and urged the public to think of "mankind as a club to which we owe a subscription."

●

He named six divisions who earned achievement scrolls.

One of them was the staff of the Handicapped Children's Clinic, new agency this year, who donated its full quota of $365.

First returns in were from the department of revenue and taxation division with $1,870 from its 114 employees.

Others reaching 100 per cent are Imperial Equipment, $269.40; Smith Cedar Products, $2,925; Standard Furniture, $1,500 and participating for the first time, Woolco with $2,200.

G. F. Auchinleck, campaign chairman, told the 175 division chairmen and award winners from last year, that this is an Appeal which faces its toughest challenge ever faced in Victoria.

He was referring to the inclusion of the Red Cross in the United Appeal for the first time and the fact that the target this year is increased from $450,000 in 1966 to $600,000.

"Success in reaching the goal will prove that we are ready to take yet another major step towards establishing a truly United Appeal here in Victoria," he said, adding that in other parts of Canada where Red Cross and Red Feather have joined full support by communities has been received.

He urged canvassers and firm executives to concentrate on communication. He said the executive's attitude will be reflected in the employees' attitude. He told canvassers that knowledge of the 24 participating agencies is important and a correct and ready answer might mean the difference between a one dollar donation and $10.

●

"People like to know where their money is going. You can't sell United Appeal on the basis that it happens every fall like the World Series and is a good thing," he warned.

He reported that a number of companies had donated increased amounts this year. One was one third higher, another 75 per cent more, one 60 per cent and another gave 40 per cent more this year.

"Results to date indicated that we have not tackled a monster this year. The general public is behind us in our step towards a truly United Appeal and if we have a sense of urgency that will make us push a little harder, there is no doubt that we will go over the top," Mr. Auchinleck said.

Brown Urges Vietnam Talks

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — British Foreign Secretary George Brown called today for immediate peace talks on Vietnam, but said that North Vietnam has "declined to grasp the many opportunities to negotiate that have been offered."

In a wide-ranging policy speech before the 122-nation United Nations General Assembly, Brown appealed again for a settlement of the war on the basis of the Geneva conference on Indochina.

"Both the United States and South Vietnam have said that this basis would be acceptable to them," he said.

As co-chairman of the Geneva conference, the Soviet Union and Britain have the authority to bring Vietnam before that body. But Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko remained adamant against the idea when Brown sounded him out over the weekend.

Brown said during the last year abortive efforts to achieve a Vietnam settlement had been overshadowed by death and destruction.

"There has been no progress in the fighting," he said. "There has been no progress toward a solution."

The gloomy picture he painted reflected conclusions Brown and U.S. State Secretary Dean Rusk reached after private talks Monday that prospects for a Vietnam agreement at this stage are "none too bright."

Rusk and Gromyko conferred three hours Monday night and informants said the Soviet minister hinted he would not be too tough about Vietnam during the current assembly session.

Vietnam is expected to come under examination again tonight when the Big Four Foreign Ministers — Rusk, Brown, Gromyko and France's Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville—are guests of UN Secretary-General U Thant at a dinner discussion.

On the Israeli-Arab confrontation Brown reiterated Britain's

Carter Report 'Dead' Says B.C. Tax Expert

(See Also Page 3)

OTTAWA (CP)—A spokesman for the Vancouver Board of Trade, who spent nearly five hours Monday discussing the Carter royal commission report on taxation with the government, said today he is convinced the controversial Carter proposals are dead.

The government is more interested in reforming the present tax law framework than adopting the radically new proposals proposed by the commission last spring, said Jacques Barbeau, chairman of the Vancouver group's tax committee.

Mr. Barbeau said he came to this conclusion after he and a delegation spent 2½ hours Monday with Robert Bryce, deputy finance minister, and officials of the finance department studying the Carter plan, and then discussing the board's brief with Revenue Minister Benson, Energy Minister Pepin, and Resources Minister Laing for more than two hours.

"The ministers went to great lengths to emphasize that the Carter report is not the government's report, and that a white paper will be issued this winter which will not be the final outline of tax policy either.

"We got the impression that the white paper will still leave a great deal of room for debate and discussion. After talking to them, we've come to the conclusion that the government has thrown the Carter report out and now is looking at means to reform the present tax structure."

SPEAKS TO PRESS

Mr. Barbeau told a press conference the sweeping proposals of the royal commission headed by Toronto tax consultant Kenneth Carter "allows no regional differences."

"While we are not looking for concessions for British Columbia, the Carter proposals would have far less impact on, say, Ontario, than it would on the Maritime provinces or B.C., he said.

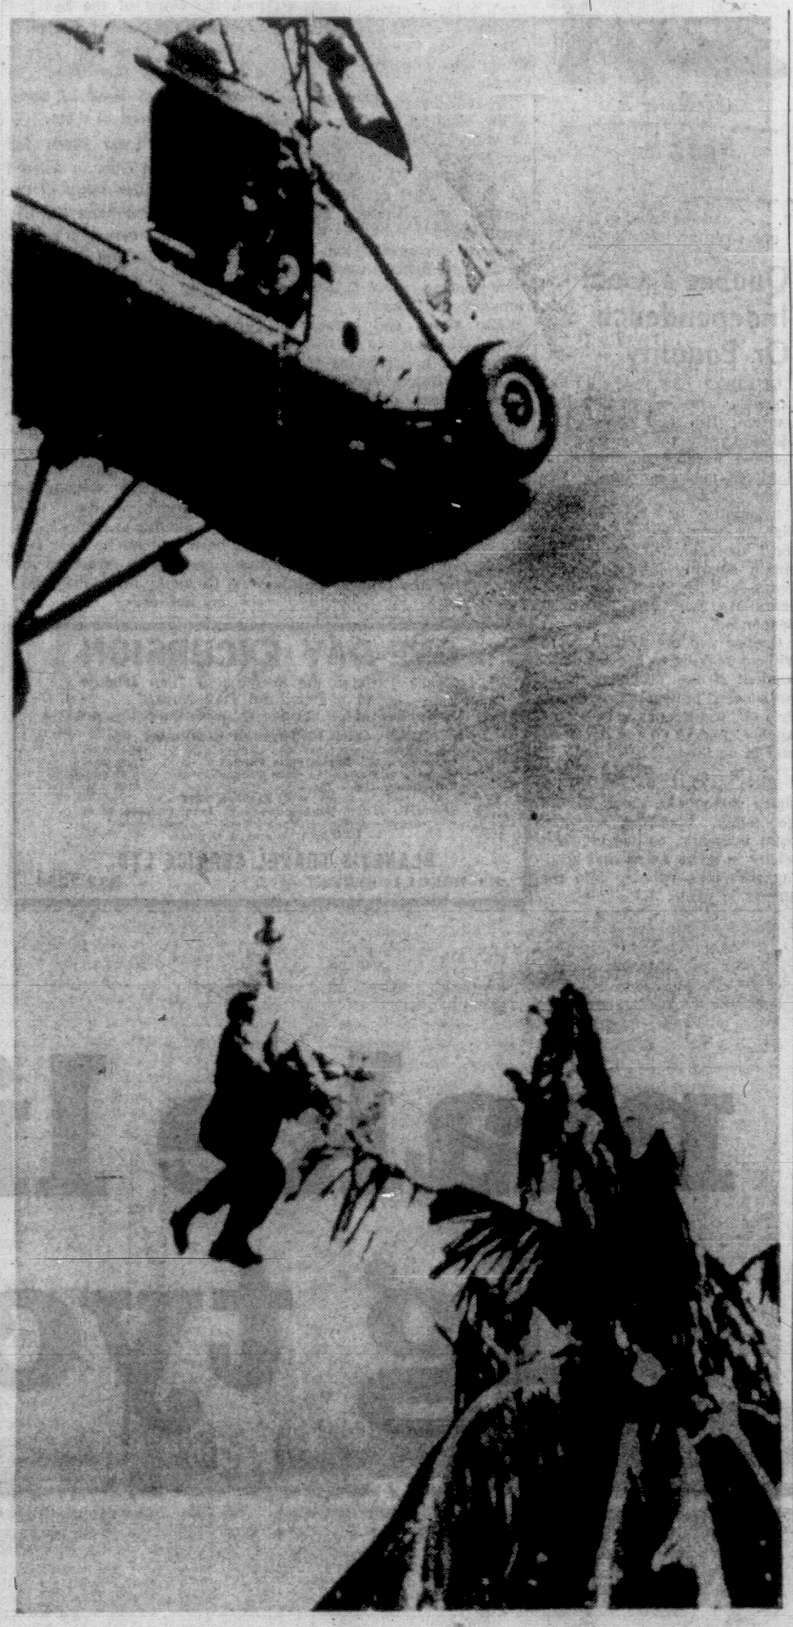

He cited as an example the

GIVES WORD TO LIBERAL CAUCUS

Pearson Plans to Stay Until Unity Issue Solved

By VICTOR J. MACKIE
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Prime Minister Pearson made it clear to a private Liberal caucus dinner over the weekend that he plans to remian as leader of the party until the national unity problems in Canada have been settled to his satisfaction.

Indications were today that Mr. Pearson is confident that the Quebec situation is now rapidly coming to a head and that it should be resolved within a year.

That would mean he would be retiring from the office of prime minister and national leader in the summer of 1968 and a national leadership convention would be held in the fall or in the winter of 1968-69.

Reports that the Liberal members of parliament and senators attending the dinner cheered a resolution endorsing his leadership and Mr. Pearson's declaration that he would be carrying on were described as "accurate" by several who attended the function.

About 100 to 125 attended the dinner. They had earlier listened in the caucus to Senator David Croll urge Mr. Pearson to settle once and for all the question of whether he would be retiring this fall or carrying on in office Senator Croll said the Liberal party was in a difficult situation because of the growing crop of rumors that Mr. Pearson would be soon retiring.

HAS QUEBEC CONFIDENCE

The caucus had discussed the "difficult" and "grave" situation in Quebec. The caucus had heard Justice Minister Pierre Elliot Trudeau declare that Prime Minister Pearson enjoyed the confidence of Quebec.

Mr. Pearson told the caucus he would deal with the rumors about his early retirement at the private dinner after the caucus.

He did. He indicated that he felt he had a mandate to unify the country and intended to carry on as leader until he had fulfilled that mandate.

His declaration was enthusiastically applauded. Members of Parliament after the dinner and Monday were privately discussing Mr. Pearson's indication that he would be continuing in office for some time to come.

There were differing interpretations however of just how far he had gone in his declaration

11 Children Die of Poisoning in Tijuana

TIJUANA, Mexico (AP) — Eleven children have died from a mystery illness that swept swiftly through poor neighborhoods of this city on the U.S. border. More than 200 persons are in hospital.

Health authorities on both sides of the border made allout efforts today to identify the cause of the ailment that appears to strike mainly at the young.

The authorities' first step was to check milk supplies. But the hunt for the death cause now has spread to water sources and other foodstuffs.

About 20 dairy operators, store owners and vendors were detained by police Monday as part of the investigation. No charges have been filed against them, but police questioned them in the search for the cause of the outbreak.

The dead youngsters, ranging in age from one to 11, come mostly from an area not far from the international border.

Deputy District Attorney Hector Veldivia confirmed that 11 children have died. Hospital authorities said several other children are critically ill.

Scores of children crammed the wards of the city's hospitals, some two to a bed. One hospital reported three dead and more than 60 ill. Doctors worked feverishly to save the ailing children, but said several of them would not survive.

Physicians used universal antidotes and anti-histamines to treat the poisoning, after pumping out the stomach of each child. They said milk was found in the stomach of every child treated.

Dr. Jorge Salas Cepeda said six adults were suffering from the same symptoms as the children. He said the victims suffer from vomiting, diarrhea and general weakness.

Pedro Luna Sanchez said his 10-year-old son developed the symptoms within a half hour after he had a breakfast of bread and milk.

Luna Sanchez, father of 11, said: "It seemed strange. Three other children who had milk from the same bottle did not become sick."

Sanchez said most of the victims seemed to come from a neighborhood known as Calonia Libertad, a hilly residential district that provides a home for many of Tijuana's poor.

Dr. James B. Askew, health director of San Diego, Calif., county said several milk samples have been sent to San Diego for analysis. He said it would be 48 hours before the results were known. San Diego is 15 miles from Tijuana.

The bodies of eight of the victims were sent to San Diego for post - mortem analysis.

Dr. Askew said he believes the poisoning was caused by a chemical poison, rather than a naturally occurring one such as bacteria.

"It's my understanding that the milk was delivered and consumed since Sunday," Dr. Askew said. "Any poisoning this soon would be too fast to be due to an infection.

"It could be any protoplasmic poison, from arsenic, to an insecticide to cyanide."

The first case of poisoning was reported early Monday at the Red Cross hospital. The number of cases increased rapidly until all three of Tijuana's hospitals and several clinics were swamped with sick children and worried parents.

TEXAS FLOOD HITS 200 MORE HOMES

HARLINGEN, Tex. (AP)—Rio Grande floodwaters surged into downtown Harlingen today and crept over roofs in some residential sections as runoff rainwater loosed by Hurricane Beulah thundered toward the Gulf of Mexico.

At least 200 homes, some of them in the $50,000 class, were inundated. More than 5,000 persons, or one out of eight in this southern Texas city of 41,000, were evacuated.

Damage estimates went past the $1,000,000,000 mark for devastation wrought since the gigantic storm, one of history's most powerful hurricanes, slammed into the Texas-Mexico coast Wednesday.

Early House Attack Stuns Government

By VICTOR J. MACKIE
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—Prime Minister L. B. Pearson and his government had a difficult two hours at the opening of the resumed Centennial session here Monday.

The opposition benches, Conservative, New Democratic Party, Creditiste and Social Credit—but particularly the Tories—pounded questions across at the government benches. They hit hard and continuously.

The government appeared to be caught off balance. Several of the key ministers were absent from the House—away on government business. But it left the burden on the shoulders of Mr. Pearson. It was a heavy load to carry.

The Conservatives, for the first time in many months, were a well-organized team. The NDP, which had hoped to seize the initiative from the Tories, found themselves hard pressed to keep up with the revived and belligerent Official Opposition.

Prime Minister Pearson, without External Affairs Minister Paul Martin (flying to New York) and with J. W. Pickersgill, no longer a member of the House, gone to take a post as head man with the Canadian Transport Commission, had to field many of the questions. He bore up well under the prolonged attack. At one point he grinned and shouted, "same old bunch."

This drew a laugh from both sides of the Commons. It was a bit of repartee John Diefenbaker used to hurl at the Grits when they were hammering him with questions when he was prime minister. Mr. Diefenbaker was not in the House. He is in Saskatchewan and will return to the Commons later.

The Conservatives immediately supported him.

In the Gallery, Stanfield Beamed

Seated in the opposition's gallery above the heads of the Liberal members and facing the Conservative benches, new national Conservative leader Robert Stanfield beamed over the permformance of his "boys." Michael Starr, the acting official opposition leader until Mr. Stanfield can get into the Commons, later chuckled outside the House over the discomfiture of the government.

"Did the government expect us to roll over and play dead?" he asked. Barry Mather (NDP—New Westminster) told newsmen after the question period, "I think the government looked pretty weak today."

Only 17 of its 27-member Cabinet were in their seats to answer questions. A total of 28 different subjects were dealt with in the questions. Some of them red-hot issues such as the housing shortage and the soaring cost-of-living.

Striving to handle numerous questions on the price of what and why had it fallen, Mr. Pearson wistfully said he wished Trade and Commerce Minister Robert Winters was in the House to handle the queries. He later explained that Mr. Winters was out of town on government business.

His good humor departed for a brief moment when T. C. Douglas, national leader of the NDP, dug up old election promises to remind Mr. Pearson that he had at one time assured the farmers they would be guaranteed $2 wheat. Mr. Pearson snappishly suggested the NDP leader should not unearth "old election controversies."

E. D. Fulton (PC—Kamloops) enquired immediately if the prime minister's dismissal of that old election promise was an indication of how all his election promises should be regarded?

Among the absentees on the Cabinet benches were Transport Minister Paul Hellyer, Finance Minister Mitchell Sharp, Labor Minister J. R. Nicholson and

Commons Approval Required

OTTAWA (CP) — The government served notice today it will raise first-class postal rates in Canada by 1 cent, to 5 cents for local in-town delivery, and to 6 cents for out-of-town letters.

The new rates are to become effective when passed by Parliament.

Rates for first class letters mailed to destinations abroad may also be increased, but these aren't controlled by the Post Office Act which the government is asking the Commons and Senate to amend. They are set by international agreement.

At present, first class letters for local or in-town delivery cost four cents for the first ounce and two cents for each additional ounce.

Out-of-town mail rates are five cents for the first ounce and three cents for each additional ounce.

COTE GAVE NOTICE

The notice given the Commons by Postmaster-General Cote said a measure would be introduced to amend the Post Office Act to increase "by one cent the postage rate for letters posted in Canada for delivery in Canada."

The government has previously announced it will also increase rates for newspapers and periodicals.

The post office had a deficit of about $30,000,000 in the 1965-66 fiscal year, the last year for which figures are available, the department sources said.

It would be the first change in first-class postal rates since 1954, when the rate was boosted to five cents from four for out-of-town letters and to four from three for local letters.

BOOST CONFIRMED

Senior post office officials said it is likely that the rates for postcards will go up as well. These could be changed by departmental regulation.

Parliament and the post office department were criticized by the public accounts committee of the House of Commons last October for paying insufficient attention to the loss incurred in handling second-class mail, the category covering newspapers and periodicals.

The committee declared it essential that ways be found to cover this loss "without this being done at the expense of other classes of mail, keeping in mind, however, the need of assistance to small independently owned newspapers circulating in rural areas."

Labor Peace Talks Set

OTTAWA (CP)—Plans for a government-sponsored series of regular meetings between senior labor and management representatives in federal industries were announced today by Labor Minister Nicholson

He said the aim is to promote a three-way discussion of labor relations problems before they reach the critical stage.

Analyst's Comments — Wednesday Entries

By HAL MALONE

FIRST RACE — Starlea and Coquahalla are the early steamrollers. Both gave way grudgingly. Chief Malarkey ran into a firecracker in Parisienne Pixie and if you look at the time he's a big danger. Satin's Kin and Ellabhal obviously like the track. The latter made a bold move against easier and is a possibility at a price. Jayie takes a class drop. So does Sikanni Chief but he may need a race over the track. In a cluster . . . STARLEA, Chief Malarkey, Satins Kin.

SECOND RACE — There isn't much to choose between Gernfield Extra and Jokellina. The former didn't break all that well but showed speed and tenacity. Jokellina switches from Sam to Ronald Arnold and may have an edge at the weights. If Miss Mystic goes with Bernfield Extra it would help Jokellina's chances; if Bernfield Extra can draw clear he might stick it out. Concise Answer has an outside chance if the leaders throw it up . . . JOKELLINA, Bernfield Extra, Miss Mystic.

THIRD RACE — If Chocolate Lily gets a free run we look for her and Primali to hook up early. Prince Scorpion is running out of excuses; he's been favored his last three outs and hasn't got the job done. But the spot isn't too hard. Highest Reward gets Harris and used to like the distance. Shodan acts like the mile is perfect but most invaders need a race to get acclimatized. The way she's travelling it's hard to see them holding off Punter's Joy in the stretch if Broomfield can get a clear path . . . PUNTER'S JOY, Prince Scorpion, Shodan.

FOURTH RACE — It will be interesting to see who they put on Velvet Morn. She was beaten by a good one in Alcaloe and if she runs that race back the marbles could be hers. Trineo has been running in the bushes; the package may weigh him down. Red Repulse has a modest charge. Mr. Dixon and Dark Susan like to grapple for the lead with the latter more tenacious. If Sly Alibi had a race over the track she might be the sound one. She may be even without an outing but it's asking a lot. Bo Jester, like Velvet Morn, grinds them down in the stretch. . . . VELVET MORN, Sly Alibi, Bo Jester.

FIFTH RACE — Pils Friday will probably try and steal a long lead and holds the key to the outcome. If they don't run with him they're dead; if they do they might succumb from fatigue. Jakes Special has won twice on the lead and should improve. Brown Wheat is better than her last shows. First Blessing drops and gets Frazier. Grand Idea could awaken under Phillips' baton. The Jones' had a sprint warmup and has met better. One to fear is Sir Silver Scot. He can lay close and come on . . . SIR SILVER SCOT, Pils Friday, Jake's Special.

SIXTH RACE — Look for a dazzling early dogfight here. Littlebitofsugar gets the rider for her style. Trusteen cut out fast fractions in her last and Seemingly improves every race. Frisky Admiral can also hum but the outside hurts. Peaceman hasn't been beating this kind but he's extremely honest and lowers the boom in the last eighth. Taylor Way is also a danger late. In a driving finish. . . . LITTLEBITOFSUGAR, Peace-man, Trusteen.

SEVENTH RACE — They finally dropped Regal Hawk to his seemingly correct social level and he showed tremendous run. This time with a six-pound shift in weights with Hay Billy he may come right back. Red Ensign is in good hands and certainly belongs but gets the worst of the weights. Jubilee's Image has won five and can't be overlooked but like Wifflaw lacks a race here. Glencar ran a dazzler against easier and may be underrated. Panamount fits in an open race . . . REGAL HAWK, Hay Billy, Red Ensign.

EIGHTH RACE — If horses could talk this would be a fine time for Davianna to speak up. If he's right it might be all over. One start isn't much to go on but it was good enough to handle these. G. Day has fair prairie form and Harris helps. Mr. True Blue will be plodding when many are staggering and could share. Laros Boy and Hi-Ma-Dan have some lick. Souzem and Irish Jubilee could make it sticky if they draw in. . . DAVIANNA, G. Day, Souzem.

Protest 'Paper Death'

DUESSELDORF (Reuters)—Several hundred demonstrators protested last week the closure here of the popular daily tabloid newspaper Der Mittag by West German press magnate Axel Springer. The demonstrators, led by printing union officials, demanded the nationalization of Springer's press empire which, until now, controlled 31 per cent of daily newspaper sales in West Germany.

and how far into the future that would carry him as leader.

It is known that for some time Mr. Pearson has been viewing with grave concern the developments in Quebec. There has been an escalation of the serious separatist statements in the French-speaking province since President Charles de Gaulle cried out for a free Quebec when he visited Montreal this summer.

FEELS RESPONSIBILITY

Mr. Pearson feels that as prime minister it is his responsibility to carry forward the fight for a unified Canada.

Any plans the prime minister might have had to step into retirement this fall with a leadership convention set for the early months of 1968 have gone by the board.

The seriousness of the separatist developments in Quebec have made him determined to stay as Liberal leader because at this stage he sees no one in sight who could succeed him and cope with the Quebec situation.

He is worried that if he retired now it would aggravate the Quebec situation and might even lead to the province separating from Canada.

One Liberal, high in the party's ranks, volunteered the information that he would not be surprised to see Mr. Pearson continuing in office to lead the party into the 1969 general election on the issue of national unity.

But he said he understood the prime minister was hopeful the Quebec situation could be settled within 12 months enabling him to retire before the next general election.

The drive to get a declaration from Mr. Pearson that he would continue in office was spearheaded by Senator Croll, it is understood, during the weekend of caucus sessions.

TRY TO STOP DRIVE

There were moves from supporters of Finance Minister Mitchell Sharp and Transport Minister Paul Hellyer to try and block the drive. Mr. Sharp and Mr. Hellyer are unofficial candidates to succeed Mr. Pearson as national leader.

Adding strength to the report that Mr. Pearson will be carrying on were reports today that he has cancelled for the time being plans for visiting Australia and New Zealand.

He has been contemplating going to those countries this winter as part of a leisurely preparation for the announcement that he would be resigning with a leadership convention in the spring.

Now he has dropped the Australian plans, indicating that this will be a busy winter for the prime minister.

Quebec's Goal 'Independence Or Equality'

QUEBEC (CP)—Gabriel Loubier, Quebec minister of tourism, fish and game, said Monday night the province will demand its independence if it does not achieve "equality" in a few years.

"Equality or independence, that is what we are asking for," he said. "If we do not obtain equality here in a few years—and I don't mean 10 years—we will ask for independence."

Quebec will not wait 10 years without seeking to become independent if the province "does not succeed in negotiating equality of treatment with the Anglo-Canadian nation," he said in an interview.

stand that war should not be the means of settling such disputes and no nation should be allowed to extend its frontier as a result of armed victory.

"But equally," he said, "Israel's neighbors must recognize its right to exist, and it must enjoy security within its frontiers."

He said the complex problem of the Middle East may require "a wider United Nations presence."

Brown said: "A settlement in the Middle East can only come through our United Nations organization."

Brown denounced the manhandling of British mission personnel during recent Red Guard rampages in Peking.

"The attack and burning of our diplomatic Mission in Peking, the manhandling of our charge d'affaires and his staff were matters of grave concern," he said.

He made plain, however, that Britain still believes Communist China should have a seat in the UN.

"Her indefinite exclusion from the international community will benefit neither the people we represent here, nor, for that matter, the Chinese people themselves."

BATTERED CON THIEN FORTRESS

Shells Pour on Marines

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. marines at the strategic northern outpost of Con Thien today took the brunt of the heaviest sustained Communist firepower in Vietnam since the French defeat at Dien Bien Phu. The marines hurled back 10 shells for each one fired at them.

More than 1,000 shells fell Monday on Con Thien, a scarred fortress 2½ miles south of the demilitarized zone and the key to the marine defences astride Communist invasion routes to the South. The marines reported two dead and 202 wounded, and said they believed enemy losses are running high.

Sixty-three Americans have been killed around Con Thien in the three weeks since the North Vietnamese started a battle of attrition.

German Spies Nabbed

BONN (UPI) — West German counter intelligence has cracked five East German spy rings in recent weeks and so far arrested 12 agents, the interior ministry announced Monday.

A spokesman said the 12, among them four women and three married couples, were "highly qualified agents" who had been trained in East Germany and then filtered into West Germany to build up various spy networks.

'Peace Treaty Or Nothing'

Israel Lays Down Mideast Terms In Eban's Speech to UN Assembly

By ROBERT H. ESTABROOK

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y.—Israel will settle for nothing less than full-fledged peace treaties with the Arab countries, Foreign Minister Abba Eban told the General Assembly Monday.

Eban touched only briefly on withdrawal of Israeli troops from captured Arab territories. He made clear, however, that the price of withdrawal is abandonment of Arab belligerency.

"We cannot commit the irrational course of returning to the political anarchy and strategic vulnerability" that prevailed before the June 5 conflict, he declared. "National suicide is not an international obligation."

Syrian deputy foreign minister Adib Daoudy charged in a reply later that Israel was planning to occupy portions of his country permanently. He accused the United States of abetting what he said were "neo-Nazi" acts by Israel.

Eban rejected international guarantees in the Middle East by the big powers or the security council such as proposed by Yugoslav President Tito unless they accompany peace treaties.

"No external declarations or guarantees, no general affirmations of (United Nations) charter principles, no recommendations or statements by international bodies, however unexceptionable, can replace the sovereign responsibility of the governments concerned," he said.

Tough Line Was Not Unexpected

The tough Israeli line was not unexpected. It followed the refusal of the Arab countries so far to make any public concessions on Israeli rights. The Soviet Union and most other Communist countries have backed the Arab position.

Eban spent an hour conferring with Secretary of State Dean Rusk Monday morning. An Israeli source said afterward that Rusk portrayed American policy as essentially that of inaction in the Middle East crisis until the Arab countries are willing to consider a settlement.

Although the United States disagrees with the Israeli annexation of Jerusalem, the Israeli source added, Washington is not pressing for a change in the present situation short of a general settlement.

Britain has taken a slightly more conciliatory line toward the Arabs. Foreign Secretary George Brown, in talks with Eban as well as with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko, has emphasized the importance of an agreement to reopen the Suez Canal.

He is understood to have stressed Arab non-belligerency in return for Israeli withdrawal, but to have been less firm about rights for Israeli flag shipping in the Suez Canal as distinct from Israeli cargoes in ships of other nations.

Eban contended that the emergency special session of the General Assembly, in which the Russians failed to gain support for condemnation of Israel, "May have set some realistic tendencies afoot." He charged that the tension "which exploded" in June "was largely of Soviet manufacture."

Russians Revert to Hard Stand

If the Russians are encouraging the Arabs to talk settlement, however, there is no public evidence of it here. American diplomats believe that the Russians have pulled back from their position of July, when they appeared ready to agree with the U.S. on a Latin American resolution if the Arabs would go along.

On the question of Arab refugees, Eban insisted that there had been no Israeli coercion in the exodus from the west bank of the Jordan River. On Jerusalem he noted that no one had protested when Jordan made it "a military frontier."

Earlier Czechoslovakian Foreign Minister Vaclav David told the assembly his government considered that "all nations have a right to independent existence." This seeming concession to Israel went beyond anything Gromyko said in his own speech last Friday.

David made a sweeping denunciation of American policy around the world and urged the assembly to adopt a definition of "aggression" which he made clear was aimed at the U.S. in Vietnam. Gromyko made plain last Friday that the "aggression" item will be a major Soviet drive in the assembly.

But Philippine Foreign Secretary Narcisco Ramos, whose country has troops in South Vietnam, took emphatic issue with this line. The Soviet Union, he said, wants to keep the status quo in Europe but to upset it in Asia.

"The triumph of Hanoi and the Viet Cong in South Vietnam would mean that movements of the same nature could with impunity be started anywhere in the world and pursued to success," he said. "It would give a new and more dangerous dimension to subversion and aggression, and no country anywhere would be immune."

END TOOTH DECAY WITH PILLS!

TORONTO (CP) — A Chicago professor Monday urged all dentists to hand out inexpensive pink pills that will virtually eliminate bacteria and tooth decay.

Dr. Murray Massler, professor of pedodontics at the University of Illinois, told dentists attending a conference of Alpha Omega, an international dental fraternity, that the pills stain bacteria on teeth a reddish color after the first brushing. A second brushing will clean the remaining bacteria from the teeth.

He said the pills, perfected by Dr. Sumter Arnim, dean of biological science at the University of Texas, have been used at the Illinois college for eight years with good results.

FERRIES BOSS:

'Recognition Not in Dispute'

The general manager of B.C. Ferries said Monday recognition is not the issue in a dispute which union officials said could lead to a strike.

Monty Aldous was commenting on remarks by Tom Gooderham, regional director of organization for the Canadian Labor Congress, who said the government refused to checkoff more than $2 union dues. The B.C. Ferry Employees Union wants between $3 and $4.

Mr. Gooderham said this is "definitely a refusal to recognize the ferry employees union, therefore action which may be taken will be for recognition and a proper bargaining procedure."

Mr. Aldous, in a statement, said "it would appear that recognition is being made the issue of the current dispute with the ferry unlicensed employees.

"This cannot be the case as this group has had recognition in fact for over a year with ferry management, dealing with them in all matters concerning unlicensed employees, with full knowledge and consent of the government."

He pointed out the B.C. Ferry Employees Union is part of the B.C. Government Employees Association and the government had recognized dues checkoff to the association at $2 a member.

RECOGNITION

Mr. Aldous said that Premier Bennett, as chairman of the Ferry Authority, said under government policy only the association could have checkoff rights "as they have recognition in law . . . as the only union recognized officially as representatives of civil servants.

"He further stated that if the union wished to have various groups within its organization with differing dues structure this was their own business and had nothing to do with government.

"From a viewpoint of government policy, however, these additional assessments for dues were internal union matters and the union must accept responsibility for their collection.

"The basic privilege of ($2) checkoff of uniform dues is available to all government employees."

Sharp Extends Brief Deadline On Tax Report

OTTAWA (CP) — Finance Minister Sharp said today the government will receive the views of provincial authorities until the end of November in making up its mind on the Carter royal commission tax reform proposals.

He also said in a statement that taxpayers, as companies, associations or individuals, would have until the end of October to submit written briefs. Previously, he had asked for briefs to be submitted by the end of this month.

While he is extending the time for receiving the views of taxpayers, associations and provincial authorities, Mr. Sharp said the government still intends to put its proposals for tax reform before the public in the form of a white paper "as close to the end of the year as possible."

The royal commission headed by Kenneth Carter, Toronto accountant and tax authority, recommended sweeping reform, including taxation of capital gains, consolidation of corporate and personal income taxes, taxing families as a unit, a sales tax on services, and ending present special concession for mining and insurance companies.

Mr. Sharp said he wants a wide-ranging expression of the public's views on the report, and hopes that companies and others "would not restrict their comments to the features of the report to which they are opposed."

When the Carter report was released last spring, Mr. Sharp asked that briefs be submitted by the end of September. However, the government now recognizes that many organizations have had difficulty assembling necessary information and analysing the effects the Carter proposals might have on the economy.

DIEF COULD HAVE A JOB —THATCHER

PRINCE ALBERT (CP)—Premier Ross Thatchr said Monday night if his Liberal government is re-elected in the Oct. 11 Saskatchewan general election, it would find a job in the province for John Diefenbaker, former national leader of the Progressive Conservative party.

Premier Thatcher told a public meeting in Mr. Diefenbaker's home city: "If Mr. Diefenbaker is not absorbed with some federal duty, we shall invite him some time in the future to serve the people of Saskatchewan in one capacity or another, as he has done so often in the past."

LITTLE HOPE OF ACCEPTANCE

By SPENCER DAVIS

WASHINGTON (AP)—Neither the Johnson administration nor Congress is expected to show any enthusiasm for a UN Association of the U.S. report urging U.S. support this year for seating Communist and Nationalist China at the United Nations.

The association, a private body, last year appointed a committee of 26 scholars and businessmen to study U.S. policy on China. In its report made public Monday, the committee contended that Peking's development of thermonuclear power and the intensified internal struggle for leadership made it urgent that options be available to any new leaders that may emerge on the China mainland.

In Congress, however, timing is considered bad because of the approaching presidential election and because Communist China and the United States have been glaring at each other over the North Vietnamese border.

While there are plenty of Vietnam doves in the U.S. Senate, none seems ready to champion Peking's representation on the Security Council and a seat in the General Assembly at this time.

NO APPLICATION

Senate Democrat leader Mike Mansfield observes Peking has not sought a UN seat and is not likely to accept one if it were offered.

Sen. Robert F. Kennedy (Dem. N.Y.) has been outspoken on the need for a change of U.S. policy toward mainland China, but he has not specifically endorsed a Security Council seat with the power of veto for Communist China.

The committee said Communist China should get the Security Council seat now filled by the Nationalists from Formosa.

It said it is important to note that Canada canvassed this solution at the 1966 General Assembly and that Canada is among those nations "that find themselves in a middle position on the Chinese representation question and who might be willing to take the lead in working out a compromise arrangement . . ."

No mention was made of a statement by Prime Minister Pearson this summer that Canada would not support admission of mainland China this year. He noted that the situation inside China is approaching anarchy.

The China panel declared it was risky for the United States to continue its present policy.

It said Peking's future attitude toward participating in the United Nations remainsun clear "but that is no reason to preserve a stalemate within the UN."

The committee said Chinese nuclear development may require new security measures for other countries in the area. It said the most serious attention also should be given to strengthening and further developing regional economic and political co-operation in southern Asia and the western Pacific.

It said the United States could protect the interest of its allies, especially Nationalist China, by using its position to assure close consultation among all countries and working for a compromise to gain a two-thirds vote in the General Assembly for seating of mainland China.

The committee was headed by Robert V. Roosa, former undersecretary of the treasury.

VIET POLL REVERSED

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The Los Angeles Times reported Monday in a copyrighted story the results of a state-wide poll show California voters have reversed their position on President Johnson's Vietnam policies.

The Times said 59 per cent of the voters questioned in their poll opposed the president's policies.

The same percentage was favorable to Johnson's policies in March, 1966.

PRINCE GEORGE (CP)—A strike vote split among Northern Interior woodworkers prompted employers Monday to demand an immediate settlement of their wage dispute.

The Northern Interior Lumbermen's Association said it has written Prince George local of the International Woodworkers of America seeking an agreement on the 44-cent-an-hour wage boost recommended by industrial inquiry commissioner Mr. Justice F. Craig Munroe.

Northern Interior woodworkers voted in favor of striking last week by a slim 596 to 588 margin.

'Very, Very Seriously'

THE NEWS REPORTS QUOTE Prime Minister Pearson as saying that the federal Liberal caucus is taking the problem of Quebec separatism "very, very seriously". It appears that this matter will take a high priority on Parliament's time in the present session and that the day is rapidly approaching when a national decision must be made on the question of the future of Quebec—and of Canada itself.

While Ottawa is impressed with the grave nature of l'affaire Quebec, the same is not true in many parts of the west. There is still a tendency toward remoteness and disengagement on the part of the western provinces, where bilingualism and biculturism remain largely academic questions—perhaps as unreal as the bi-and-bi commission which at great expense studied the problem so long that the problem changed and rendered the commission report generally obsolete.

But the Quebec issue is not one from which any part of Canada can indefinitely opt out. The reports from Quebec stress that the question is not now one of whether the relationship of Quebec to Canada shall change, but how much it will change. And the prospects are increasingly that the change will be a major one rather than a mere constitutional gesture.

The Quebec Young Liberal Federation last Sunday voted down the far-reaching proposal of Mr. Rene Levesque for a Quebec attached to Canada by no more than a common-market agreement. But the vote was favorable by a narrow margin in the constitutional committee of the Federation and those who turned the tide in the full ballot later were reportedly concerned not with the question of Quebec's independence so much as the degree to which it should be carried.

The question that returns repeatedly in western discussions of the problem is: what does the general body of the Quebec people really think? We have heard some leaders and small groups advocate extreme solutions to the nationalistic urge of the province, and lesser proposals which would do little more than affirm the cultural rights of French-speaking Canadians. We have heard predictions that full separation would ruin both English and French Canada economically and drive both into closer union with the United States. But other voices have claimed separation is feasible and that Quebec could survive in an English-speaking continent without the safeguards that membership in Confederation have given it for the past century.

What do the Quebecois themselves really think? Perhaps only a full-scale referendum could settle that question, and it is a ballot which no Ottawa government would wish to hold, for conceivably it could vote Canada as we know it out of existence. There are two dangers to Canada in the present situation. One is the danger posed by Quebec extremists — perhaps egged on by General de Gaulle's incredible interference. The other is the reaction which continued extremist agitation may create among the non-French people of Canada. That reaction is the vast unknown force which few French-Canadian separatists or near-separatists appear to appreciate. The west has been relatively silent, not yet comprehending the depth of the new problem. But it will not willingly see Canada destroyed.

There is a compromise point at which French Canada can retain justice and full recognition of its rights to lingual and cultural differences. That need not break Canada into two, although creation of a new arrangement may impose delay on the uniform progress of all parts of the country towards a strong and prosperous future.

On With the Job

THE FIRST DAY OF THE NEW session of Parliament saw an energetic opposition pelt the government with questions—and take full advantage of the absence of a number of cabinet ministers to drive home their thrusts. But this was a natural rank-and-file display of diligence and vigor for the benefit of the new Conservative leader who sat in a public gallery to watch his party colleagues perform.

The hope of the government—and certainly of the country — is that after a few days of kicking up their heels the opposition will settle down to the legislative processes which for so long were impeded by what the Russians call the "personality cult". Mr. Diefenbaker's parliamentary method of opposition for its own sake, or rather for its possible advantages in political manoeuvre, all conducted on a highly personalized plane that often appalled by its vindictiveness, is, we are told, a thing of the past.

Will the Stanfield style support the traditional opposition function as a part of the parliamentary process, assisting with acceptable legislation and criticizing where improvement can be made? With so many major legislative matters in prospect, that is what the country is waiting for. The post-Diefenbaker era should not be further delayed.

In the Wash From the Launching

LAST WEEK CHEERS ROSE from Clydebank as Queen Elizabeth launched the latest and most luxurious passenger liner built by John Brown for Cunard and named in the sovereign's honor. But the spectacle could not entirely banish British concern for the future of the industry.

The problem is based on simple economics. Japanese yards undercut the Clyde by about 15 per cent in construction costs. As a result, the Japanese have captured about half the world's market. To reclaim the large share of contracts slipping away from them, British shipbuilders have to overhaul their operations. They plan to do this through mergers, with larger groupings in the industry, and a possible reduction of steel prices. If these two major recommendations of the 1966 Geddes Report can be put into effect, the British industry sees reason for optimism.

The plight of the British ship industry is only one facet of the vital problem which faces many nations today. In an age of rapid technological change, producers must modernize their equipment to keep pace with new processes and methods. But of equal importance, the labor costs of production cannot be allowed to overrun productivity. That is a hard lesson but it is a real one.

Three-Tongue Talk

FINLAND HAS JOINED THE nations caught in bilingual controversy. Finnish-speaking and Swedish-speaking citizens are being reminded that neither of those tongues is international. The suggestion has been advanced that all citizens learn English.

Objections are raised on the ground that a Finn who speaks Swedish must also learn Finnish to advance in Finland. If he has also to master English, he would have to be tri-lingual.

That is until he emigrated to Montreal. In which case . . .

FROM OTTAWA

By MAURICE WESTERN

A Switching Member and His Electors

THE decision of Mr. H. A. (Bud) Olson to leave the federal Social Credit fragment and to join the Liberal party has been followed, almost predictably, by a demand that the Medicine Hat member should resign his seat, opening the way to a byelection. There have been a number of such cases in recent years and each has provoked the same outcry based upon a wholly erroneous notion of the duties of a member of Parliament. The only difference on this occasion is that the protest comes from a Liberal, the candidate whom Mr. Olson defeated in 1965.

Western

No one pretends, of course, that Mr. Olson is under any legal obligation to place his seat at stake. He manifestly is not. But there is an opinion, most strongly entertained in Quebec province, that a member who moves from one party to another has some moral obligation to seek a new mandate from his electors without waiting for the next general election. In some past cases the argument has had almost feudal overtones as if a member was not merely the spokesman of a party but its political property.

European Idea

In fact this is a European idea completely contrary to the British parliamentary tradition which we have inherited. The French, after the last war, attempted to carry it to its logical conclusion by writing a "statute of parties" as part of their constitutional framework. From this stand-point a member is simply a delegate sent to Parliament to represent a political or other interest and not competent to change his course or allegiance without first clearing matters with those who gave him his credentials, or at least endorsed them, at the polls.

This doctrine was specificially rejected two centuries ago by Edmund Burke in a speech to the electors of Bristol which has never ceased to echo in Parliaments carrying forward the British tradition. It is often quoted at length but the heart of the matter is in a single sentence: "your representative owes you, not his industry only, but his judgment; and he betrays instead of serving you if he sacrifices it to your opinion."

It is perhaps more important to observe that the Burke theory has now been buttressed by some two centuries of practice. Innumerable cases could be cited but the best known is perhaps that of Sir Winston Churchill who crossed not once but twice — and without imposing byelections on the people of his constituency. They were free, of course, to approve or disapprove his decision at the appointed time and his experience after the First World War, when he did lose his seat, demonstrates that this is no mere academic right.

Quebec Precedent

But we do not have to go to Britain for examples. It is of interest that one of our early cases involved Quebec members, the so-called "bolting bleus," who made common cause with the Liberal leader, Blake, against Macdonald after the execution of Louis Riel. The great Prairie figure, Mr. Thomas Crerar, was elected as a Unionist in 1917 but exercised his undoubted right to leave the coalition in 1919 and to pass into Opposition, although the general election did not come until 1921. Mr. C. G. Power had to make a choice, not involving party but raising a similar question of principle when his Quebec electors voted "no" in the wartime plebiscite of 1942. He voted in Parliament according to his differing view of the national interest and, in the sequel, was returned to Parliament in 1945 by those who had disagreed with him on the issue.

One of the difficulties with the "delegate" theory is that it ignores realities. We elect members to Parliament for a maximum of five, although more usually for four years. No one can foresee on election night what new problems will emerge within that period. We can form a general idea of what a candidate stands for but, beyond that, in these rapidly changing times, we have to rely on his sound jugment.

Mr. Olson was elected as a Social Credit member. In his judgment, however, Social Credit is "dead" as a national force in Canada and he is not willing to prolong a pretence. He has not arrived at this conclusion easily; indeed, when Mr. Robert Thompson resigned as leader, Mr. Olson indicated that he would be a condidate for the succession. As he has been widely regarded as the most able member of the group, his candidacy would certainly not have aroused surprise.

Socred Liquidation

But nothing has been done about a convention and all outward signs suggest that the federal party is in process of liquidation. The situation has been radically changed since election night by an event which could not have been foreseen. Mr. Manning, the most eminent figure in the party, has written off Social Credit as a national force of continuing usefulness and has personally espoused a philosophy which he calls "social conservatism."

His book was intended to force a political realignment and at least in Alberta is obviously doing so. Mr. Olson, recognizing the new political realty, has declined to follow the premier into social conservatism, choosing instead to join the Liberal party.

In this exercise of personal judgment, he has been apparently guided in part by the fact that he promised in recent elections to give independent support to the present government instead of seeking its overthrow. But regardless of his decision on realignment, there can be no merit whatever to the argument that he should now resign and in effect seek new instructions. What he owed the electors of Medicine Hat was his honest judgment. This he has given and this, presumably, he will defend at the proper time when all members of Parliament submit to the ultimate verdict of the electorate.

More Decisions

The probability is that other members of the Social Credit group will now have to make similar decisions. Mr. Leboe of Cariboo has already recognized this; according to him, "the prospects of the Social Credit party in Canada are very bleak and dim indeed." It would not be surprising if some followed Mr. Manning's advice. But it also seems likely that, in doing so, they will underline one of the more obvious weaknesses in his book.

What he foresaw was a rather lengthy negotiation between Social Credit and the Conservatives. It would not appear that Social Credit is now in shape for collective negotiations; the present trend suggests that decisions will be taken instead by individual members moving to one or other of the major political parties in this considerable realignment.

It is ironic also that the Liberals are the first beneficiaries of Mr. Manning's book. For Mr. Olson's move would be gratifying to any party. He is an excellent debater, an authority on the rules and a level-headed man of superior talents, who can bring strength to the party in an area in which it has been conspicuously weak. Mr. Pearson has probably acquired a cabinet colleague and one capable of speaking effectively for the West in the national government.

Letters to the Editor

Pen Pal

When I was in Ireland earlier this year I met a 17-year-old Irish student who would like Canadian pen pals. Would you please print her name and address -- Miss Philomena McGowan, 25 Norfolk Drive, Belfast 11, North Ireland — so that a 17-year-old boy or girl may see it and write her. — Miss Phyllis E. Dutchak, 569 Toronto.

Drinking Victims

We are told by the traffic and safety committee of the B.C. Medical Association that "six out of 10 people injured on British Columbia highways are the victims of drinking drivers." We are also told that during the past 12 years more Canadians have died in car accidents than were killed in the Second World War.

What are we doing about this? We are blissfully accepting the propaganda of the big corporations glamorizing the use of alcohol, who must be delighted to see us striving to become connoisseurs in its use as a beverage and in cooking. The suggestions being made for more outlets and lowering age limits will no doubt cheer the high-pressure salesmen.

What can be done? Ordinarily, I would not advise state ownership of a private industry, but in this situation it would at least eliminate propaganda and advertising — very important factors indeed, especially where the adolescent is concerned. But such a step should be taken quickly before the Big Corporations become too firmly entrenched as they are in the older countries. — "James".

Burning Garbage

What air anywhere could be fresher than that coming over the Pacific to a city that has no heavy industry? That is what we thought!

To our disappointment the good citizens themselves are polluting the air by burning their garbage. It is a nightly ritual. Homeowners and motel operators seem to all have some kind of an incinerator in their backyard. Is there some reason for this garbage burning or is it a pastime? — For Clean Air.

From the Times, Sept. 26, 1907.

Farmer's day at the exhibition was marked by two events of importance, the opening of the race meet and the attendance of the largest crowd on record at the track.

The program was a very attractive one, and every race was well fought with the exception of the farmer's race, the last on the card which was won in an easy fashion by Fancy Free owned by J. Humphrey of Kamloops.

There was only one harness race on the card, the 2.40 trot and 2.45 pace.

Beginning Of A Dialogue?

By WILLIAM R. FRYE
From United Nations, N.Y.

THE United States now has asked a question about Vietnam peace negotiations and received an answer, of sorts, from the Soviet Union. The American question could be paraphrased: "If we stop the bombing of North Vietnam, can anyone guarantee that peace negotiations will follow?" The Soviet reply: "Hanoi has already said they would."

Frye

The exchange, in much more indirect diplomatic language, took place last week between United States delegate Arthur J. Goldberg and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko.

Goldberg posed the question Thursday in the 122-nation UN General Assembly, complaining that the most the enemy had said to date was that peace talks "could" follow a bomb halt.

Gromyko did not respond directly. But he told the assembly Friday that on Jan. 28, 1967, North Vietnam had made a "statement . . . about readiness to begin negotiations on a settlement of the Vietnam problem after the cessation by the United States of the bombing . . and other aggressive acts against" the north.

Gromyko Claim

Gromyko claimed the United States had disregarded the offer and, indeed, had replied to it by escalating the air and ground wars.

Washington did not consider the Hanoi statement definitive. It was made by North Vietnamese Foreign Minister Nguyen Duy Trinh in an interview, the text of which was made public by Hanoi with some fanfare.

"It is only after the unconditional ending of the bombing and other acts of war being carried out by the United States against North Vietnam," Trinh said, "that there can be talks between the two countries."

The fact that the Hanoi foreign minister said "can" rather than "will" was cited by Goldberg as evidence the promise was less than categorical.

Neutral diplomats, including UN Secretary-General U Thant, have spoken and acted as if they considered "can" synonymous with "will." Thant has said on more than one occasion since Jan.2 8 that he believed peace talks would follow a bomb halt within three to four weeks.

Gromyko appeared to dismiss the American doubts as artificial. He claimed the whole "peace initiative" — he put the phrase in quotes — was another "soap bubble" and that Goldberg's speech contained "nothing new."

If this was indeed what the Soviet foreign minister thought, he was unusually dense, other diplomats remarked.

Important Nuance

They said they doubted very much that Gromyko missed the important nuance of difference by which, for the first time, Goldberg had separated discussion of a possible bombing halt from the military and political conditions in which he he hoped negotiations would take place.

In the language of diplomacy, this had constituted a distinct modification of earlier preconditions for a halt in the bombing, it was widely agreed. Previous demands for a military de-escalation by the enemy were no longer explicit, U.N. people said, though they might be considered to be implicit.

Perhaps in order to elicit a further and clearer definition of the American position, Gromyko charged that, far from modifying its stand, the United States was, "as hitherto", making a bomb halt "contingent on ultimative demands."

(The word "ultimative", used in the official Soviet translation of the speech, does not appear in standard dictionaries. It is presumed Gromyko meant "having the character of an ultimatum.")

Goldberg did not provide Gromyko any new clarification. Instead, he called on the Soviet Union, in effect, to put up or shut up on a Vietnam peace.

Goldberg Proposals

Instead of cold-war harangues, he suggested the Kremlin—with its responsibilities as "a principal supplier" of North Vietnam and as co-chairman of the Geneva conference of 1954 and 1962—should:

- "Begin the dialogue which we propose, leading to a political solution."
- Join in reconvening the Geneva conference.
- Use its "influence and power" to make peace negotiations prompt and fruitful.

Some UN diplomats thought a form of dialogue, however indirect and overladen with propaganda, had in fact begun here in the U.N.

It is traditional, they said, for Gromyko to deliver a harsh and abusive propaganda harangue at the outset of the assembly. Moscow's real views, they contended, are more likely to emerge in the private talks he is holding with other government leaders in the next week or so.

RIOTING REASONS LIE DEEP

By DONNA DICKENSON

They start with little incidents.

Two Negro women in Minneapolis begin quarrelling over a wig. Houston is swept by a false rumor that a white man has killed a Negro. Firemen in Providence, answering a false alarm, are bombarded with stones and broken bottles. Police rush in—and another riot scars the nation.

Almost 90 racial disturbances hit the United States during the three summer months of 1967.

The peak of the rioting occurred during the last two weeks of July, when violence in Newark, N.J., was rapidly followed by massive disorders in Detroit, Rochester, Seattle, Atlanta, Toledo, Plainfield, N.J., Cambridge, Md., New York City, San Francisco, Minneapolis and Cincinnati. Less serious disturbances took place in many other cities.

At other times violence flared in Dayton, Buffalo, Boston, Tampa, Milwaukee, Providence, Portland, Ore., Riviera Beach, Fla., and New Haven.

Detroit Worst

Damage was heaviest in Detroit, where 1,400 fires sent property losses soaring toward an estimated $1 billion. At the end of the four-day disturbance, 43 were dead, 3,000 were arrested and hundreds were homeless.

Newark suffered $10 million in property damages—one-fifth of the money from looted liquor. Almost 2,000 were injured, and 25 died.

The figures are similar for other riot centres. Buffalo's disturbances left 89 hurt. Three died in Milwaukee, two each in New York, Rochester and Tampa. Toledo's fires levelled 55 buildings. Damages to a lumber yard and manufacturing plant in Riviera Beach, Fla., ran to $350,000.

In Milwaukee's three-day disorders, window-smashing alone accounted for $200,000 in damages.

The elements of a riot are so familiar that they sound like cliches: Roving bands of Negro youths, sweltering summer nights, charges of police brutality, window-smashing and bottle-hurling, looted goods and fire bombs.

But if the pattern of the riot is predictable, its real causes are the centre of the controversy.

Not Just Numbers

Riots don't simply break out where the greatest number of Negroes live. The city of Washington, where Negroes constitute over half the population, suffered only a few outbreaks of vandalism this summer and no serious rioting.

But Minneapolis, which suffered $421,000 in fire damage during the city's July riots, has an extraordinarily low proportion of Negroes in its population—2 per cent. The percentage of Negroes in the U.S. population is 12 per cent—six times higher.

If the proportion of Negroes in a city doesn't cause riots by itself, perhaps the location of Negroes within the city does. Negroes make up only 8 per cent of Milwaukee's population, but nine out of 10 live in the "Inner Core," the central Negro ghetto.

And ghetto life is the basis of many Negro complaints—commercial exploitation, economic deprivation, a "trapped" feeling. A survey by the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission shows that the unemployment rate in the ghetto may be as much as six times higher than the citywide unemployment rate.

It's these complaints which provide the tinder for the spark—police incidents or the incitement of outside agitators. J. Edgar Hoover, director of the FBI, has testified there's no evidence of a plot behind this summer's nationwide outbreak of violence. But he acknowledged that speeches by such militants as Stokely Carmichael and H. Rap Brown have played a minor role in the disturbances.

Often ghetto dwellers feel that promises of more jobs and better housing are just a ruse on the part of city administrators who hope to placate the Negroes and avoid trouble. New Haven receives almost $800 in federal urban renewal funds for every man, woman and child in the city. But one Negro laborer smiled in disbelief at that statistic, saying, "You know, I don't think I saw a dime of my $800."

War Influence

And it appears that the war in Vietnam may make it even harder for administrators to carry out their promises. Some congressmen have blamed the riots on the cutback in "Great Society" spending to finance the conflict in Southeast Asia.

Whatever the reasons for the rioting, they lie deep.

As Milwaukee's Mayor Henry Maier said at a recent news conference: "It is obvious that guns and nightsticks aren't going to solve the problems of the city."

Breach of Ethics Hurt Press Gallery Reputation

By GERALD WARING

OTTAWA — As you may have heard, we've had a painful, soul-searching time in the Parliamentary Press Gallery as a result of some remarks John Diefenbaker made at a dinner last week.

To put it in a rather large nutshell, Dief was the Gallery's guest of honor on his 72nd birthday. Everybody understood that on this purely social occasion everything would be strictly off the record. Every Gallery member was thus honor bound not to report the Old Chief's remarks. Nevertheless two of them did: Charles Lynch of the Southam chain, and Don Attfield of the CBC.

Waring

There was no misunderstanding involved. They knew that reporting the speech was taboo, but they couldn't withstand the temptation of a very good story. Each was able to rationalize his action to the apparent satisfaction of his conscience; in Lynch's case, overriding responsibility to his papers' readers, and in Attfield's case, knowledge that Lynch was using the story.

Other members of the Press Gallery were incensed.

The Gallery executive met and charged the pair with unethical conduct, heard their defence and found them guilty. The sentence, confirmed Friday by a general meeting of the Gallery, was three weeks' suspension of their memberships.

* * *

Superficially this may seem an intramural squabble in which the majority was piqued over being scooped by a couple of fast operators. And if it were only that, it would hardly be worth comment.

But here's a surprising thing: among the 80 or so reporters who heard the speech and did not report it there has been little if any expression of anger on the ground that Lynch and Attfield scooped them. Rather, the concern has been almost wholly for the reputation of the Gallery and the profession of journalism, and for the effect this breach of ethics and social manners may have on the willingness of other news sources to take reporters into their confidence.

Newsmen have argued inconclusively among themselves for years over whether journalism is a profession or merely a skilled craft. If the former, then its practice must be based on the values of professionalism; training, service and ethics. What the Ottawa press corps tried to say, I think, in the case of Gallery vs. Lynch et al. is that at least in its higher reaches journalism is a profession, and those who practise it should conduct themselves according to its ethics.

* * *

A three-week suspension isn't likely to impose any financial hardship on Lynch and Attfield. The true punishment lies in the censure of their peers, and the wound this inflicts on the spirit. Regrettable though the necessity of this sentence may be, there is no other way for the Gallery to discourage unethical conduct that redounds to the discredit of all.

The Press Gallery is a venerable institution, officially recognized as an adjunct of Parliament. It antedates Confederation itself. Over my desk in an engraving of the Gallery in 1872 — a score of bearded newsmen listening to a debate in the Commons and scratching out their despatches with quill pens.

The custody of the Gallery's honor lies with all its 130-odd members. And as they proved last week, they take this responsibility seriously.

If they did not, they would be less worthy of trust as the people's eyes and ears in Ottawa.

WHAT MAKES A NATION?

Economics Looms As Essential Factor

By GILLES BOYER

(This is the second of two articles excerpted from a series of editorials in Le Soleil of Quebec City. It concludes a discussion of what the word "nation" has meant at different times and places, along with the implications of the "deux nations" concept for Canada.)

Under the pressure of military, economic and cultural needs, the desire to live together as groups has continued to embrace ever broader and ever more numerous activities.

From the tribe to the great federal state of today, the evolution is plain. "Civilization," said Emile Ollivier in 1895, "consists of destroying primitive groups to constitute through free inclination groups linked by agreement, groups much more solidly held together than those born by chance. . . ."

The growth of mass societies in the continent-states of the United States and the U.S.S.R. has engendered, even more for economic reasons than through emulation, regroupings which coincide, or will coincide, less than ever with the ethnic group. Economics is today becoming an essential factor which tends to give the nation a scope it lacked in previous centures.

Ever More Vast

Although Renan was right in claiming that a customs union is not a homeland, we must recognize that economic solidarity, when it becomes close, inevitably leads to political solidarity and therefore helps make nations ever more vast.

The other idea which illuminates and fills out that of a desire to live together is that of a voluntary or desired solidarity. In spite of what people often say, the word nation does not have very different meanings in English and French. But it has, in the past, taken on different meanings in German and French.

For the Germans, such as philosopher Johann Gottlieb Fichte, who thought of the nation in terms of race . . . the nation is a fact that individuals do not choose; it is not a voluntary or desired solidarity, but a solidarity to which individuals are subjected (une solidante subie).

The language one speaks, the same blood which flows in our veins, the soil which has left its mark on "nationals," the collective soul, instinctive forces—all that is the essence of life of a people: that is the nation.

This quasi-racialist conception of the nation has given rise to the various currents of modern racialism. . . . In our day, however, a German such as philosopher Karl Jaspers seems to have dropped this idea of the nation. . . .

Direct Reaction

The French concept of the nation, which had exercised a certain influence in most liberal states, notably in England and the United States, was formulated, so to speak, in direct reaction against the German racialist conception.

In the Western countries, the democratic background has put the stress of life in society on the free association of various groups rather than on so-called natural factors, such as language or race. These last notions have nevertheless prevailed in the authoritarian regimes of Germany and Central and Eastern Europe where, as we know, democratic ideas have come late or not at all.

In a certain way, democracy itself is a voluntary or desired solidarity, while authoritarian regimes make life in society a solidarity to which the individual is subjected.

In France, especially since Renan, the nation is thought of as a solidarity chosen by the citizen. Renan wrote in 1887: "What makes a nation is not the fact of speaking the same language or of belonging to the same ethnographic group; it is the fact of having done great things together in the past and of wishing to do other great things in the future."

Broke Away

But the radical opposition of the German and French ideas of the nation leaves the mind dissatisfied if one finds no term to designate specifically the cultural group, the ethnic unit. At the beginning of the 19th Century, this term broke away from the meaning of nation: it was the word nationality. . . .

The term carries two meanings: a legal one, covering the individual belonging to a particular state; and a political and ethnographic one, covering a cultural or ethnic group within a (sovereign) state which may include several nationalities.

States where different ethnic or cultural groups co-exist must face the existence of different nationalities within the nation.

A jurist from Zurich affirms: "The Swiss national idea means two things: on one hand, democracy; on the other, the ideal of a political nation constituted outside and above the principle of nationalities."

Likewise, the famous Belgian historian Henri Pirenne writes: ". . . The two nationalities whose association forms our homeland . . ."

The characteristic principle of a nation, then, is the desire to live together.

But that is a subjective idea: where does this desire to live together begin? Where does it end? How intense must it be? How can it be measured precisely? For, as the present situations in Belgium and Canada show, a nation's desire to live together sometimes suffers harsh blows from disagreements between ethnic groups.

Does that mean that whenever divisions appear the nation disappears and whenever they stop or lessen the nation is reborn?

Plainly, that would amount to a game of hide-and-seek incompatible with the continuity implied by the idea of nation. The subjective principle which is the desire to live together must, therefore, become objective in precise institutions so that nations may be identified.

Two Co-Exist

In Canada, the French-Canadian and English-Canadian nationalities—the only ones to enjoy official recognition by reason of our country's history—agreed in 1867 on a desire to live together, for the two groups co-exist under the same political institutions based on the same federal state within the same borders.

If some day one of the two nationalities breaks the federal union, we may then witness the formation of a new, distinct nation. As long as the co-existence with English Canada is maintained, we shall just have to speak of a Canadian nation.

If it were necessary to found a nation, in the precise sense of the word, on an ethnic group, the world would see a series of border revisions which would cause the bursting of existing political entities. There would result an unbelievable disorder.

In Canada to take dogmatic positions demanding the recognition of two nations is to encourage a regrettable confusion in terms—above all when, like Premier Daniel Johnson, people use them to demand a revision of the constitution.

Imposing this stunted meaning on the word nation is also to advance a nationalistic and ethnocentric theory of the nation which the Western world rejects—and which, more and more, the world rejects.

A Step Back

If such an understanding of the nation became general, the world's peoples and international society would have to prepare to take a step backward. Translating the term into fact, and making sociological reality into political and legal reality, international order would splinter still more, and agencies such as the United Nations would build on obviously smaller groupings, namely on nationalities baptized nations.

In summary, the clearest and most valid idea at the heart of the nation is a solidarity freely chosen by the citizens. Nationality is a solidarity imposed on them by heredity.

The great confusion in Canada on this subject comes from the fact that people do not make the essential distinction between nation—a solidarity which goes beyond the ethnic group, language and culture—and nationality—a solidarity on a smaller scale which concerns relationships linked to a common language and the same ethnic or cultural group.

As long as Canadians of both languages and both cultures want it, as they wanted in 1867, Canada will survive and flourish as a nation.

Women Want Just One Thing

By RICHARD NEEDHAM
The Globe and Mail

Everybody (said the man at the bar) comes to Toronto sooner or later, and everybody runs into problems relating to the opposite sex. I'd be happy to tell you of my own if you would join me in a drop of Seagram's Five Star. After one ounce, so it's said, you see Beatlegeuse; after two, you behold the Big Zipper; after three, you observe Sirius coming down like a wolf on the fold; after four, you resemble the wreck of the Hesperus; and decide the next morning that for the rest of your life, you'll follow the Milky Way.

Needham

I was brought up in Orillia, a town famed for its sobriety. When my father wasn't fighting off the horde of green pterodactyls that kept pursuing him, he would talk to me about my future, saying:

"It is the hope of every decent Canadian boy that he will some day meet a nice, hard-working girl and that she will marry him and support him for the rest of his life in a scream home at Micawber Mills.

"Keep yourself pure for her, son, which you may find difficult if and when you go to Toronto. The women there are aggressive; they want only one thing from men, and will drag you off to their nylon-festooned apartments as soon as look at you. Two species are particularly dangerous — the flat-chested ear-biter and the short-legged arm-squeezer."

Arriving in Toronto, I took employment with an immense company named Administrative Associates (Canada) Ltd. This firm, I was pleased to find, manufactured no product of any sort whatsoever, nor did it perform any service, but existed solely for purposes of internal management.

The executives spent their whole time dictating inter-office memoranda to their secretaries, which the secretaries proceeded to type out and then tear up or burn or make into paper airplanes and sail out the windows.

The secretaries, yes — I had many troubles with them. Age could not wither nor custom stale their infinite voracity.

They made the usual pitch: "Come on up to my place and I will give you a delicious home-cooked meal direct from the Swiss Chalet. Afterwards, we can listen to Sgt. Pepper's Lonely Hearts Club Band, and then I will show you the color slides I took at the Shediac Lobster Festival. Don't look so frightened. I'll leave the door open."

These evenings all ended up the same way, with me trying to convince them I wasn't that kind of man. I would save myself sometimes by pleading a sick headache, sometimes by showing them pictures of my mother, sometimes by announcing that I had contracted leprosy in the Korean Bore.

Taking a woman to the movies was just as bad. At some exciting point (such as the sheriff making a proposal of marriage to his horse she would grab my hand and then make her way up to my shoulder and then start unbuttoning my shirt.

"Please, Cynthia," I would say. "Not in front of all these people," and she would reply, "Aw, shaddap; what do you think they're all doing behind those enormous bags of popcorn?" and I could only escape by pleading I had to go to the washroom.

I took another one out and read poetry to her; you know — "Shall I compare thee to a plumber's pay?" and "Helen, thy beauty is to me like those Nicaraguan barks and snores," and "Love is not love, which falters when it altercation finds."

●

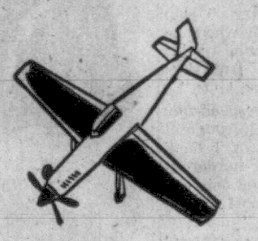

She stormed off, crying, "Words, words, words! We get lots of talk around here, but never any action!"

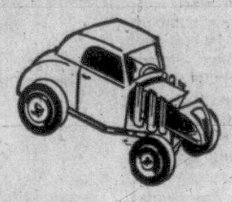

These experiences, sir, led me to agree with the early fathers of the church that woman is a temple built upon a sewer.

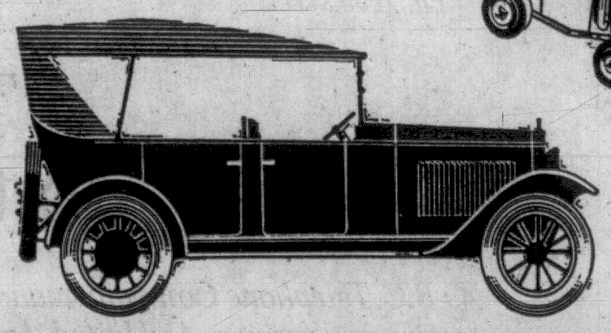

What to do about it? I entered political life, went through a form of marriage with an attache case, and now my only contact with women is when I speak to a bunch of middle-aged housewives whose child-boring days are over.

Canada Will Remain Single Nation-Kierans

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP) —Eric M. Kierans, Quebec Liberal Federation president, Monday described the call for a separate Quebec by former welfare minister Rene Levesque as a "moment of truth" in Canadian political history.

Mr. Kierans, minister of revenue in the Lesage government, said Mr. Levesque's separatiste proposal would be discarded by the provincial Liberals. He said it would force political leaders in Quebec and across Canada to stand up and be counted on this issue.

He told the Canadian Club of the Niagara Frontier that Canada would remain a single nation despite the separatist movement.

Mr. Kierans pointed to the Canadian visit of French President Charles de Gaulle last summer as the rebirth of a "dying separatiste cause."

He accused Premier Johnson of using the de Gaulle visit for political advantage at the expense of the federal government.

Mr. Kierans predicted that the Quebec Liberal party would hang the ruling union National party with a separatiste tag and sweep the province in the next election.

KEEP NERVE

Earlier, Mr. Kierans told the Canadian Club in Hamilton that English Canada should keep its nerve in the face of the current unrest in Quebec.

"The reasons that will keep us together are economic, not military. To separate now would be an economic disaster for both Quebec and the rest of Canada."

Premier John Robarts of Ontario "did a marvellous thing for unity when he announced that there would be French high schools in this province," he said.

Similar action by other provincial premiers would help to reassure French-Canadians skeptical of bringing their families into areas without French culture.

Vietnam War 'Murderous' Says Wilson

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Wilson Monday night described the Vietnam war as "one of the most murderous in history" and repeated his call for peace talks.

Wilson called the conflict "a bloody war" and said in a television interview: "If I thought that dissociating ourselves from any action of U.S. President Johnson would end the war then I would dissociate."

Wilson did not condemn the Americans as aggressors.

Asked whether it was not more important to try to stop the killing on the side where he had influence, Wilson said: "Our policy is to get both sides around the conference table."

Pressed by correspondents, Wilson declared: "Of course I disagree with the war. I think it's one of the most murderous in history. But you will only end it when you get people around the conference table."

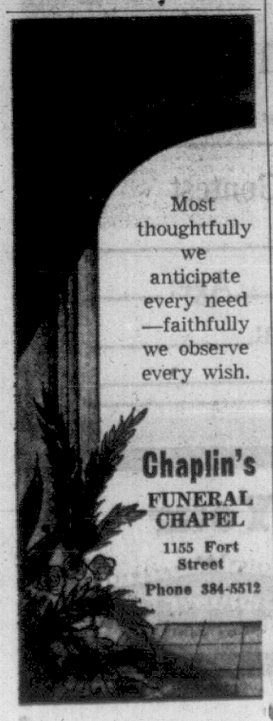

Wilson said Britain, in attempts to end the war, had been associated with a number of moves which had been accepted by the United States but not by North Vietnam.

"I hope that we shall play a part in getting them both around the conference table. We are against the killing by both sides.

"If I thought the Americans were refusing to go to the conference table I would condemn them tomorrow."

NEW DEMONSTRATION AT FREEDOM TRAIN

QUEBEC (CP)—The Confederation Train was the object of a second demonstration by Quebec City sepaartists Monday night.

About 200 persons, many carrying placards denouncing the "treachery" of Manpower Minister Jean Marchand, carried out what police called a peaceful demonstration and burned Mr. Marchand in effigy before dispersing.

Sunday, day of the train's arrival in Quebec City, separatists argued with visitors to the travelling Centennial exhibition that they should fight for the cause of Quebec independence.

Police were called in to restore order after a minor disturbance broke out.

The Confederation Train is in Quebec City until September 28.

Separatist Leader Resigns, Plans Bid to Succeed Self

MONTREAL (CP) — Pierre Bourgault, 33-year-old leader of Quebec's most influential separatist party, Monday night resigned his post as president of le Rassemblement pour l'independance nationale.

Mr. Bourgault said he would be a candidate to succeed himself as RIN leader at the party's "national congress" scheduled for Oct. 7 and 8 at Trois-Rivieres, Que. Several other high party officials resigned with him.

Along with the resignations came the revelation that "a very great problem"—or several of them—exist within the ranks of the seven-year-old party.

Mr. Bourgault said his action was aimed at consolidating party leaders. Both he and RIN vice-president Guy Pouliot admitted the existence of some critical difficulty which neither of them would divulge.

Remarks made by both men hinted at a split or power struggle between them.

The other resigning officials are Pierre Renaud, general director of the party, and Marc Lavallee, the "director of strategy."

'AFTER MY HEAD'

Mr. Bourgault said there are elements in the party "which are after my head" and accused these of undermining the party for the purpose of unseating him.

The former journalist and radio announcer, who made $100 a week in his post as president, said he wished to "shock" party members into realizing that problems exist in the RIN.

Also threatening were the rise of people who put their personal interests and electoral success first and the "dishonesty" of some members who were prepared to take power in Quebec with the clear intention of betraying some objectives for which the RIN had fought for seven years.

The RIN, which claims a membership of 11,000, ran members in several constituencies in the last provincial election but failed to have any elected.

VATICAN CITY (CP) — Pope Paul was spending a quiet 70th birthday today, doing light work as he recovered from the illness which struck him three weeks ago.

AT PRINCE GEORGE

Woodpecker Blamed In Death of Child, 6

PRINCE GEORGE (CP) — A hungry woodpecker was blamed Monday for a short circuit that electrocuted Kathryn Ann Moffat, 6, Sept. 5.

A British Columbia Hydro and Power Authority engineer told a coroner's jury that the bird, while trying to eat bugs out of a transformer bushing, caused a short circuit in a 7,200-volt power line.

Safety devices to prevent a surge of current worked properly, but unusual atmospheric conditions caused the short circuit to spark 47 inches to another line and melt a supporting conductor.

The line fell atop a car and the girl died when she stepped out of the vehicle.

The engineer said remnants of the bird were fused to the transformer.

JURY CLEARS POLICEMAN

NEW YORK (AP)—A Negro police detective, whose fatal shooting of a 14-year-old Negro boy touched off anti-police disorders in a Brooklyn neighborhood for three nights, has been cleared by a grand jury. The Brooklyn grand jury voted Monday not to indict Detective John Rattley, who said he and other officers saw the boy, Richard Ross, helping other boys to mug a 73-year-old white man.

GIL AUCHINLECK

DON CHAMPION

JIM ASSELSTINE

TOM WILLIAMS

There are two sides to this telephone quartet

As B.C. Telephone Company managers they are pledged to give you service. As United Appeal campaign chairmen, they serve to get your pledge.

The timing is coincidental, for certainly Gil Auchinleck, Tom Williams, Jim Asselstine and Don Champion had no concerted plan to wind up in identical capacities with their respective United Appeal agencies at the same time.

But it's no coincidence that these four B.C. Telephone Company men are deeply involved in United Appeal activities.

That is by design, as it is with so many B.C. Telephone people, reflecting their individual desires to serve in whatever way they can to help make their communities better places in which to live and work.

Jim Asselstine summed up his feelings this way: "If you are interested in your community, then you accept your responsibility to do your share to make it a good place to live and work. That is what I am trying to do."

The Others Concur

That Gil Auchinleck, Tom Williams and Don Champion concur is evident from their records of service. Together with Mr. Asselstine, they've compiled more than 16 years of active participation in United Appeals, not to mention their work with service clubs, chambers of commerce, education and arts groups and so many other volunteer organizations.

Mr. Auchinleck, a telephone man for 21 years and now B.C. Telephone's Island Division manager, has served for six years with United Appeals and today is campaign chairman for the Greater Victoria United Appeal.

Mr. Williams, B.C. Telephone's New Westminster District manager, has 21 years' service in telephone work and three in United Appeal activities. Currently, he is campaign chairman for the United Good Neighbour Fund in New Westminster and surrounding area.

Mr. Asselstine, the company's Kamloops District manager and a telephone man for 20 years, has been active in United Appeals for six years, including the last two with the Thompson Valley United Appeal, in which he now is campaign chairman.

Mr. Champion, West Kootenay District manager with 14 years as a telephone man and a year's activity in United Appeals, now is campaign chairman for the Nelson and District Community Chest.

They are but four of many telephone people serving in various capacities with these and other United Appeals, and they represent but a fraction of the thousands of B.C. Telephone employees who serve their fellow citizens through voluntary organizations in communities throughout British Columbia.

In your community, you may find a young woman from the company's business office as pack leader in Scouts. Or a lineman coaching Little League baseball. Or an operator assisting in blood donor clinics. Or an installer in the Parent-Teacher Association. Or a repairman on the hospital board or city or village council.

They're Everywhere

The fact is, you'll find them most everywhere, devoting their time and talents to an almost endless number of community service activities.

Telephone people are like that, because telephone people like to be good neighbours.

7,200 GOOD NEIGHBOURS

B.C. Telephone employs more than 7,200 men and women in British Columbia today. They and their families represent a sizeable percentage of the population in communities large and small throughout the province, where they work and live, raise their children and spend their earnings.

They are your neighbours, your friends. They are British Columbians, vitally concerned with civic affairs, education, welfare and all the other things which help to make our society a better one.

DIVORCE CASE

Blaze of Gunfire Kills 2 in Court

RAPID CITY, S.D. (AP)—A routine divorce proceeding ended in a blaze of gunfire Monday leaving the wife in the case and her lawyer dead and the judge wounded. The husband was held without charge today.

Attendants at the Pennington County courthouse said the shooting broke out after Ray Bivins, a tourist attraction owner in his late 60s, was told by the judge that he would have to pay his wife more than $3,000 in alimony.

Attendants said Parker set the alimony and Bivins, a six-footer weighing more than 200 pounds, advanced to the bench and said: "You've had your say, now I'm going to have mine."

He pulled a revolver and, according to court reporter Mrs. Frances Geyerman, announced: "I'm going to kill every s.o.b. in this courtroom."

Brady told Bevins to put the gun away, witnesses said:

"I got up and stood beside Brady," recalled States Attorney R. J. Brennan, 39, who was representing Bivins. "Bivins stepped to within two feet of Bill and pulled the trigger.

"I just couldn't believe it. I didn't see any blood and I thought it was a blank. Then Bill started to lean toward me and fell to the floor. I immediately dropped to the floor to see if I could help him."

Then Mrs. Bivins was shot.

THROWS CHAIR

"When I stood up again," said Brennan, "Bivins had the gun pointed in my direction. As I dropped to the floor he fired again. I rolled under the table."

The judge threw his heavy, leather swivel chair over the bench at Bivins. Bivins and the judge grappled and another shot wounded Parker, said Brennan.

Deputies burst into the courtroom and helped overcome Bivins, who also was armed with an eight-inch hunting knife.

Brennan said he had taken Bivins' case in 1965, and continued to represent the man after he became states attorney as Bivins couldn't get another lawyer.

HOME GARDENING

Deep Purple Hedge Good Brightener

By JACK BEASTALL

The tall growing purple-leaved barberry, Berberis thunbergi atropurpurea, is often used for hedges of three to four feet in height, and when well grown with sufficient water it rates the admiration of most gardeners.

Jack

The dwarf form of this hedge plant is not so well known to home gardeners although it provides an excellent means of introducing purple foliage to the rockery or small border.

It has the same name with the addition of "nana," meaning small or dwarf; Berberis thunbergi atropurpurea nana, or Thunberg's dwarf deep purple barberry.

Nana is appropriate, for the plant is slow growing to a shapely mound about 12 inches high and the same in spread.

It gives a long season of beauty, the new growths in spring being a deep reddish-bronze, followed shortly by a wealth of orange flowers set off beautifully against the purple foliage which is maintained throughout the summer, then turning a brilliant scarlet with the arrival of fall.

And as a bonus, if one is needed on such an attractive plant, a crop of bright red berries in late summer.

Any plant that can provide such interest is valuable for a choice position, and this one does well in sun or partial shade.

It is hardy as an outdoor plant and can be grown in a tub, window-box or planter, as well as the open garden. In fact, it can be grown in a pot to give color in a well-ventilated sunroom or greenhouse, although such protection is not needed.

Propagation is easy from cuttings made of half-ripened shoots in late July into August, and rooted in peat moss and sand in a clay pot placed in a plastic bag.

'STEP OUTSIDE AND SAY THAT'

Lawyer Ready to Brawl In Defence of Hal Banks

By ROD CURRIE

NEW YORK (CP) — Verbal sparring — with one suggestion that it go beyond words—highlighted Monday's session of the drawn-out extradition hearing of Hal Banks, former head of the Canadian Seafarers' International Union.

Abraham Brodsky, fighting to keep Banks from being returned to Canada to face a perjury charge, and Richard Kuh, lawyer for the province of Ontario, disagreed heatedly several times during Monday's hearing.

At one point, Brodsky, in his 60s, suggested that Kuh, about 20 years his junior, "step outside and say that."

Commissioner S. T. Abruzzo, who had to reprimand both lawyers for their exchanges at the last hearing Thursday, stepped in. He suggested Kuh apologize and Kuh did.

Kuh, who has opposed admitting the Hansard reports as evidence, is to study them. Abruzzo said he will rule when the hearing resumes later this week on whether to admit the reports, after hearing Kuh's arguments.

Although Brodsky claims the Hansard reports substantiate his defence that the charges against Banks are "100-per-cent politically motivated," Kuh claims that all the Hansards can show is that debate on Banks' case actually did take place in the Commons.

Abruzzo said Monday that political motivation is "a good line of defence if it could be made to stand up" and said Brodsky has every right to try to make it stand up.

MEET THURSDAY

Brodsky and Kuh agreed to reconvene Thursday afternoon if Brodsky can reschedule an appointment he had made earlier for that day. If not, the hearing will continue Friday afternoon.

Banks, 58, charged by Ontario with having perjured himself in 1963 while testifying before a royal commission studying violence in a Great Lakes shipping dispute, is being held in jail here without bail. He was arrested in Brooklyn Aug. 29.

If Banks is returned to Canada on the perjury charge, he will not face arrest on the conspiracy sentence. Conspiracy is not an extraditable offence and a person extradited cannot be prosecuted or punished on a charge not covered by extradition.

Obstruction Charge Costs Man $100

A second charge of escaping custody was dropped after the crown declined to lead any evidence.

The charges arose out of an incident at the Town and Country parking lot early June 17.

The occupants were Cobb, Henry Klat, 22, of 1615 Belmont, and Maureen Catterall, 21, of 620 Simcoe.

Constable Lush asked Klat to get out of the car and then arrested him for being drunk in a public place. A scuffle ensued, and Klat and Cobb ran off. They were subsequently picked up by the car driven by Miss Catterall.

In sentencing Cobb, Magistrate St. Jorre said he felt Cobb was not the type "to get involved in such incidents."

Cobb said he intends to appeal the decision.

Computer Enters Auto Parts Field

By AB KENT

At last a Victoria firm is doing something to soothe the frustration of motorists trying to get automotive replacement parts without waiting days or weeks for their arrival.

Only in a place where living on an island has bred the resistance out of people could dealers get away with what they do—and not just auto supply dealers.

The business of having to wait "because we have to order that part from Vancouver, sir," or maybe Calgary, or Toronto, or Timbuktu, is really unwarranted in an age where supersonic transport is imminent.

Kent

The routine is all too familiar to people doing business with a variety of establishments, from department stores down.

Now, the omniscient computer to the rescue.

Ensign Motors is undertaking an IBM parts and accessories inventory control system that is designed to anticipate demand for everything from hex nuts to the rubber gasket that keeps the rain from blowing in around doors.

Dealer principal Peter Dixon expects the use of data processing techniques to keep track of inventory will cost the business more, but it also will allow for faster service, improved customer relations and higher turnover.

"Ninety per cent of the reason we are putting this in is to provide better service," he said Monday. "Our retail, shop and wholesale customers will be better served.

"It takes the guesswork out of the business," Dixon said.

There are about 8,000 individual items in the Ensign parts inventory, which takes about eight hours a day to control manually.

In addition to that time, about 10 hours is consumed every two weeks by parts manager Glenn Dunlop to read through stock order sheets in an attempt to keep inventory up to date.

He expects that particular chore will be cut to two hours, twice a month, while the daily grind will be reduced to the work of one office girl for one hour a day as she operates a tape punching machine.

The tape will be sent each day to IBM's data processing centre on Fort Street, where machine operators will work on it for an additional half hour.

Information thus compiled daily will be processed and printed out for consumption by Mr. Dunlop and management at spaced intervals, in this case a parts activity cycle every two weeks, a quarterly parts analysis sheet, a monthly locater and superceding parts list, and an annual physical inventory.

Based on past experience and on new information gathered through the system, the parts activity sheet can tell the dealer what and when to order in order to coincide with demand.

Some of the information to be provided by the system was formerly unavailable, enabling management to make considered decisions dealing with inventory investment.

★ ★ ★

At the same time as IBM control is introduced to the local dealership, Ensign is adding Rootes and Autopar lines to stock. The latter is a Chrysler plan aimed at service stations, fleet accounts, body shops, government purchasing agents and truckers to provide a full line of parts, tools and accessories at short notice.

There are 60 such distributors across Canada, with more than 100 salesmen in the field. Among the affiliates are Husky Oil, BP, Pacific 66, Shell in Calgary, Spur and Golden Eagle.

★ ★ ★

Besides the use of data processing for inventory, Ensign is putting IBM systems to work in its accounting department, allowing more time for study and analysis rather than preparation of records.

Big Construction Company Bankrupt

MONTREAL (CP) — Voluntary assignment in bankruptcy has been filed by Anglin-Norcross Corp. Ltd., ranked among the top 10 Canadian construction companies.

Geoffrey M. Goodall, a director of Anglin-Norcross, said Monday the "assignment was filed Friday." He said "our approximate assets are $13,700,000 and our liabilities are $15,300,000."

The company which has handled about $55,000,000 in business in each of the last three years said in a statement the main reason for the bankruptcy was failure by a major shareholder to give needed financial help to Anglin-Norcross.

The company said the major shareholder in the Montreal-based company is Holland and Hannon and Cubitts Ltd. of London. It said the British company could no longer give Anglin-Norcross the financial backing needed because of tightened British foreign exchange regulations.

Mr. Goodall said Anglin-Norcross and its seven subsidiaries are involved in general contracting and other allied fields across Canada and that the bankruptcy will affect about "350 employees of the parent company and all subsidiaries."

Business on the company's books is valued at $99,815,000 of which $76,937,000 has been completed, with outstanding business being placed at $22,878,000.

Mr. Goodall said Cubitts had pumped about $3,000,000 into Anglin-Norcross since assuming control of the company in 1956.

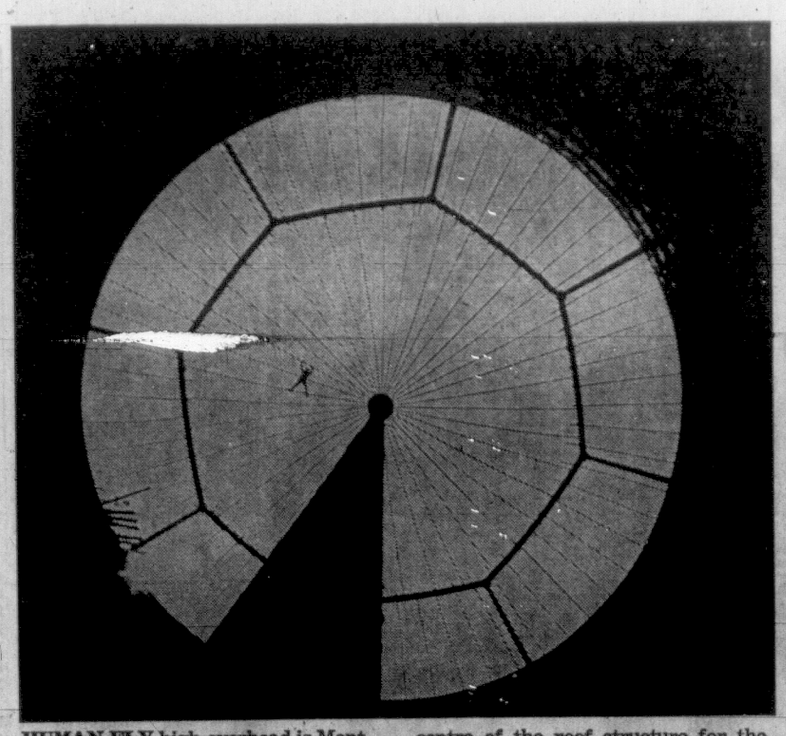

The losses were caused by "a variety of factors including increasing costs on long-term projects, labor difficulties and particularly inability to obtain settlement of receivables resulting from large contracts concluded some years ago."

HALIFAX (CP) — Filing of a voluntary assignment in bankruptcy by Anglin-Norcross Ltd., one of Canada's leading construction companies, was reflected today in stoppage of work on more than $22,000,000 worth of construction in the Maritime provinces.

PULP INDUSTRY IN TROUBLE

Russia No Market Threat Despite Vast Timberlands

By PETER BUCKLEY

MOSCOW (CP) — If the Soviet Union's pulp and paper industry ever begins belting along in high gear, Canada had better brace itself for a challenge to one of its economic pillars.

At the moment, however, Soviet pulp and paper producers are under such heavy fire at home it may be a while before they can begin competing seriously abroad.

Leading the current attack has been the government newspaper Izvestia. In a series of articles and letters, it has accused the pulp and paper industry in the U.S.S.R. of inefficiency, short-sightedness, inertia, indecision and assorted other errors.

The reasons for Izvestia's criticism are not hard to find. Pulp and paper is one of the few sectors of the Soviet economy that have consistently admitted failing to reach the targets set by central planners.

The shortfall does not appear to be large, but in a society accustomed to reports of continually overfulfilled quotas, any failure that can't be explained away becomes a serious matter.

The problem in pulp and paper is of such long standing that the usual exhortations and slogans have given way now to slashing criticism.

QUALITY POOR

Even the most casual visitor is soon struck by the poor quality of the paper produced in the Soviet Union and the shortage or complete absence of many kinds of routine paper products.

The industry's failings mean general and continuing shortages of paper bags and wrapping paper, stationery of abysmal quality, and an apparently total lack of such items as facial tissue, towels, effective waterproof paper, cardboard boxes and other routine paper products.

The sad tale of the Westerner who spent days trying unsuccessfully to buy some plain white envelopes is well known in Moscow's foreign community.

Izvestia was unusually specific in its criticisms of the pulp and paper industry.

Attacking failures in advance planning, it reported the example of a major paper-producing plant which was built at Balakhna in Siberia before the ministry got around to completing the other plants that were to have supplied Balakhna.

The influential daily charged the industry with falling far behind the rest of the economy in implementing the U.S.S.R.'s new economic reforms, designed to make industry more responsive to demand.

An Izvestia correspondent in the Ukraine said he visited a plant that is one of the sole suppliers of kaolin, a white powder used in the pulp and paper industry.

CAN'T BE SHIPPED

The chief engineer led Izvestia's man through a storage yard and showed him kaolin that had turned yellow from exposure to the elements.

"This is how first-rate kaolin becomes third-rate," the chief engineer said. "The railway doesn't provide us with freight cars and we can't send the finished product to the plants. The sun and rain do their job. We suffer losses."

"But who will take a third-rate product?" the reporter asked.

Chrysler Cuts Price Hike As AMC Announces Jump

DETROIT (AP) — Chrysler Corp. rescinded Monday previously announced price increases for 1968 models. American Motors Corp. became the fourth U.S. auto-maker to announce an increase for 1968 autos.

Chrysler said its new average increase is $101, or 3.5 per cent, over comparable 1967 models. Originally Chrysler figured its average at $133, or 4.6 per cent.

After Chrysler announce its 1968 prices first, General Motors came up with suggested retail delivery price increases averaging $110, or 3.6 per cent, and Ford announced an average boost of $114, or 3.9 per cent.

Chrysler's new prices are effective today.

American Motors announced earlier Monday its Rambler American and Rebel models will carry suggested retail prices up $89, or 3.8 per cent, from 1967.

COULD COST MORE

As Chrysler, General Motors and Ford had been ahead of it, American Motors left the way open for additional price boosts if labor costs rise.

New contracts yet are to be reached with the United Auto Workers' union to replace three-year pacts which expired Sept. 7, when the UAW went on strike against Ford in an attempt to gain what the union says is its "longest and most ambitious list" of demands.

The union hopes to make its eventual Ford package a pattern for settlements with Chrysler and General Motors. UAW president Walter P. Reuther, however, has promised to take into consideration "the economic facts of life" when he gets around to AMC, money loser the last two years.

While announcing a downward revision in its 1968 prices, Chrysler also said it is revising its five-year or 50,000-mile warranty to apply only to the first registered owner.

PROVINCE OF OPPORTUNITY

"I've got $3,000 sitting in my savings account. Can Canada Trust make me a better offer?"

In more ways than one

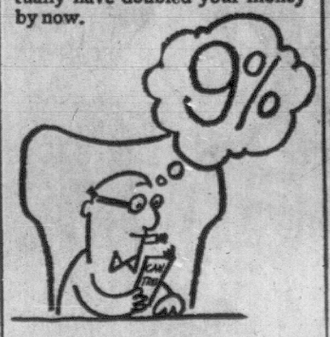

Canada Trust can get your money working a lot harder for you. And while it's growing faster, you'll be enjoying many "fringe benefits" that go with being a Canada Trust customer.

The first part of our better offer has to do with $3,000 brought to us by a new customer recently. You may have considerably more or less money on hand. No matter how large or small the amount, we accept your money "in trust". Canada Trust considers every customer's financial requirements individually.

We helped this man choose the various ways he could put his money to work most effectively for himself and his family.

How about 9% for a start?

That's the average annual increase in value of each equity unit of our Canada Trust Investment Fund since its inception eight years ago. If you'd invested in the fund then, and reinvested your dividends, you would virtually have doubled your money by now.

The purpose of this investment fund is to give you a diversified portfolio of Canadian and American stocks, and long-term protection from the deteriorating purchasing power of the dollar. It's like having your money professionally managed by your own personal investment counsellor. And what's more, you pay no commission to salesmen. Every dollar you invest goes directly to work for you.

So we suggested placing half that $3,000 in the Canada Trust Investment Fund for growth.

And something for the kids

The next $500 of this customer's money went into high-interest Trust Certificates for his children's education. We call it a "starter" savings programme for the expense he's going to face in a few years, when his children are ready to enter university. (He was so impressed with this type of planned savings, it was his own suggestion that he buy an additional $100 Trust Certificate every six months.)

And $500 for going places

For a very special holiday he and his family have in mind, we suggested this customer put $500 in a Canada Trust Target Savings Account. (Their target is Hawaii.)

This is a dividend-paying account with interest totalling 5%. Interest is calculated every month, so his "vacation" deposits start earning interest right away.

And $500 for expenses

Even on a plain old chequing account for everyday expenses, Canada Trust made a better offer. 4% interest, at least ½% higher interest than most other chequing accounts. So the remaining $500 went into a bill-paying account that earns high interest.

A financial service centre

You might compare Canada Trust to a supermarket. Because, just as food helps you grow physically, Canada Trust helps you grow financially by assisting you in your financial life.

Which brings us to the second part of our better offer. What we refer to as "fringe benefits".

Canada Trust provides financial services geared to the busy businessman, and woman. Like taking care of your investment portfolio, collecting interest and dividends, keeping records and helping with tax statements. And that's only a starter.

We have a department that specializes in the buying, renting and selling of every kind of real estate. Summer cottage, mansion, commercial or industrial, you name it. And another department that manages property for you.

And, in a more personal vein, there's our Estate Analysis and Executor-Trustee Service. This is to safeguard your estate, give your beneficiaries the best possible protection, and avoid unnecessary taxes. We also have Safe Deposit Boxes at Canada Trust, to protect your securities, documents and other valuables.

When you need money

Canada Trust is one of Canada's largest conventional mortgage companies. We can give you a mortgage loan for up to 87½% of our valuation of your home, at very low cost to you. And we also make low-cost collateral loans.

You save tax money

The money you invest in a Canada Trust Retirement Plan is tax deductible now, and means higher retirement income for you later. (Don't overlook the significant savings you can make on your income tax this year.)

Meet the experts. Anytime

An intensive staff training programme sees to it that there is always a qualified officer to advise you on financial matters at Canada Trust. Just ask to see the manager of your nearest Canada Trust office. (We stay open longer for your convenience.)

Rigney Holds Pennant Key In His Paws

Angels Plan Their Own Series in Showdown Week

The key to the American League pennant puzzle rests in the hot little halos of California's innocent-looking Angels. Bill Rigney's Angels ran right over Minnesota 9 - 2 Monday, dropping the Twins into a tie with idle Boston Red Sox. Third-place Chicago White Sox, off Monday, is one-half game behind.

The Angels play the Twins again today and Wednesday and then finish the season with four games against fourth-place Detroit, which ran into New York Yankee Al Downing's four-hit pitching and lost 2-0 at New York.

In the only other American League game played Monday, Baltimore Orioles slipped past Washington Senators 3-2.

"I don't care who wins it," smiled Rigney, surveying his club's steady diet of Minnesota and Detroit for the final week. "All I know is we are going to help somebody lose it." Then Rigney told how he prepared for Showdown Week.

"I rested Don Mincher, Jim Fregosi and Bobby Knoop at Kansas City Sunday to get ready for Our World Series. We can't win the pennant, but we can spoil it for the Tigers and Twins."

Fregosi and Rick Reichardt did most of Monday's spoiling. Each had three hits in the first four innings as the Angels rocked Jim Merritt and Dave Boswell for seven quick runs.

Hot Downing Cools Slipping Tigers

California nicked Merritt for a run in the first on consecutive singles by Fregosi, Reichardt and Bubba Morton. Then Fregosi socked a two-run triple as the Angels scored three in the second.

Four straight singles by Fregosi, Reichardt, Mincher and Jimmie Hall helped build a three-run fourth as California wrapped it up early.

Downing retired the first 11 Tigers he faced and allowed only one hit over the first six innings.

It was Downing's 14th victory, a career high. Al Kaline had two of Detroit's four singles.

Curt Motton's ninth inning single scored Brooks Robinson with Baltimore's winning run against Washington. Robinson was hit by a pitch opening the ninth and raced to third on Curt Blefary's hit.

Dick Farrell and Gene Oliver were getting the job done for Philadelphia until Gene Mauch decided to recharge his battery.

So, the Phillies' manager lifted Oliver for a relief catcher . . . only to discover, too late, that it was Farrell who needed help on the pitching end.

Houston Astros turned the tables on Mauch and Farrell in the ninth inning Monday night with a two-out, two-run rally that carried them past the Phillies 4-3.

In the only other games on the National League schedule, Jim Hart's run-scoring single in the 10th inning gave San Francisco Giants a 2-1 nod over New York Mets and Pittsburgh Pirates shaded Los Angeles Dodgers 2-1 on Gene Alley's RBI single in the 11th.

Farrell, Philadelphia's top reliever, throttled the Astros for 2 2-3 innings, then struck out the first two hitters he faced in the ninth before Sonny Jackson reached him for a single.

Mauch, attempting to hold Jackson on first, sent Clay Dalrymple behind the plate in place of Oliver, whose two-run double in the sixth had accounted for Philadelphia's 3-2 edge.

BACK-TO-BACK DISQUALIFICATIONS

Sandown Silence Almost Deafening

By HAL MALONE

Consider:

- Two winners were disqualified.
- A horse nearly ran off with its jockey and then went on to win and pay $38.
- Three outside horses were sprint winners.
- And the mutuels hummed. Again.

Alcaloe and Milord of Kent were the winners removed from that status by permission of the stewards. They were grossly disenchanted with the rides of apprentices Jim Gilbert and Jim Arnold, respectively.

Track announcer Jack Short couldn't recall similar disqualifications of winners in back-to-back races (the fifth and sixth) in 40 years at the racetrack.

No official records were available but all hands agreed it had never happened at Sandown before. Presiding steward Merv Peters recalled four disqualifications in two days at Lansdowne Park in 1961.

But he couldn't remember if they were back-to-back.

JIM GILBERT

Stewards Paid No Heed to Odds

The decisions were all the more remarkable in that stewards rarely haul down a favorite unless he stomps on somebody. Alcaloe was 6-5; Milord of Kent 2-1.

But the noticeable lack of dissenting votes from the punters indicated the verdicts were just and well-earned by the offending parties.

Gilbert "creamed" Arigato, Akardan and Star Pal on the second turn, leaving them as associate steward Don Dunn said, "bobbing like corks."

Alcaloe was dropped back to sixth. Bevy's Boy was moved into the win spot, ahead of Arigato and All Smoke.

Jim Arnold's "sin" was in dropping in front of Mysco approaching the 16th pole. Milord of Kent went on to run past Keno Kid and Mysco but was dropped to third as Keno and Mysco each moved up a notch.

Kerry Sam, aboard Keno Kid, appreciated the justice of the decision. He was the rider on Akardan, sloughed by Abaloe.

Who Says Gate No. 8 Is Tough?

Stopem provided two displays of alacrity for the punters. He broke away while on parade which may have called some attention to his 60-1 odds. Sent off at 18-1 he came around the field and broke away in the stretch to win and return $38.50.

Horses starting from the No. 8 gate position generally have to have the courage of a lion and the speed of an antelope to win. But three—Tuffins, Stopem and Western Monarch — made it Monday and you don't see THAT happen often.

The dizzy tilt of the totalizator hardly makes news any more. After five days of above average handles (up $60,000) it bounced up again—to $98,832. The increase over the corresponding day last year was $31,500. For a Monday it was remarkable.

Then maybe it wasn't. It was the kind of day when anything could happen and did.

BECAUSE OF STADIUM . . .

Seattle Could Blow Major League Chance

SEATTLE (AP) — Mayor J. D. Braman said the lack of a long term lease on Seattle's still unbuilt and unfinished stadium could influence the American League to vote against the proposed move of the Kansas City Athletics to Seattle.

There have been reports, all unsubstantiated, that owner Charles O. Finley of the A's has made an agreement to come to Seattle, subject to league approval at an October meeting.

Although voters twice have turned down stadium financing proposals, the state legislature this year passed a bill to tax hotels in King County, Seattle, and raise more than an estimated $750,000 a year to pay off stadium bonds. The $40,000,000 bond issue still must have voter approval in February.

As a temporary home for the A's, Seattle has offered a five-year lease on the field that housed its Pacific Coast League baseball team. This plant, Sicks' Stadium, seats 12,000, but the mayor proposed spending up to $2,000,000 to enlarge it to 25,000. An alternate proposal would turn the enlarging job over to Finley.

Cardinals Set Up Their 'Firing Line'

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Manager Red Schoendienst says veteran Bob Gibson will pitch the opening game of the 1967 World Series for St. Louis Cardinals.

Schoendienst said Monday his main concern, as the club left for the final five-game road trip of the season, is to get Gibson ready for the series and keep his other pitchers sharp.

Gibson, a two-game winner in the 1964 World Series, rebounded from a broken leg to pitch the National League clincher a week ago in Philadelphia.

"I'm trying to get Gibson good and strong, which he is now, but I'd like to see him go all the way," Schoendienst said.

Lefty Steve Carlton was to start today's game in Chicago and three pitchers will work the second game on Wednesday. Schoendienst named Larry Jaster, Ray Washburn and Jack Lamabe to pitch three innings each.

"The rotation for the Atlanta series (starting Thursday) which closes the regular season, will be Gibson, Dick Hughes and Nelson Briles. You'll have a pretty good idea about the series from that. Gibson is going to start the first game, it could be any of them after that," added Schoendienst.

Schoendienst indicated his main concern with all his pitchers was giving them enough work to stay sharp. They end the season Sunday and will get at least two days rest before the series starts Wednesday, Oct. 4.

Holdout Parade Thinned

By The Canadian Press

The list of National Hockey League holdouts was reduced by one Monday when Pittsburgh Penguins announced centre Earl Ingerfield has signed a two-year contract.

Ingarfield, 32, was the Penguins' top choice in the NHL expansion draft. He scored 122 goals in nine seasons with New York Rangers and kept the Penguins waiting 11 days before signing.

FLYERS IN A FLAP

At least six members of Philadelphia Flyers — including holdouts Ed Van Impe, Joe Watson and Gary Peters—missed exhibition games last week. The Flyers also were without goaltender Bernie Parent and forwards Brit Selby and Lou Angotti.

Angotti has a broken thumb and Selby is restricted by a groin injury. Parent signed last week but was not considered in playing condition.

WHARRAM UNSIGNED

At least three players remained unsigned by Chicago Black Hawks. Forwards Ken Wharram and Pit Martin and goaltender Denis DeJordy have shown no indication they are ready to accept terms. Pat Stapleton operated in his defence position in two exhibition games with Toronto Maple Leafs during the weekend but still had not signed a contract.

Muscular rookie Wayne Carleton of Toronto was listed Monday as a doubtful starter in an exhibition game tonight because of an infected foot.

Three minor league players joined Los Angeles Kings to boost to 16 the number of satisfied players on the expansion squad. Signed were defencemen Dave Amadio and Jim Holdaway and forward Jim Anderson.

BLUES, HABS WIN

A new club, St. Louis Blues, and the long-established Montreal Canadiens posted exhibition victories Monday.

Montreal overwhelmed Sherbrooke Beavers of the Quebec Senior Hockey League 11-2 before 5,850 fans in Sherbrooke and St. Louis tripped Houston Apollos of the Central Professional Hockey League 6-3 at Hull, Que.

Montreal's scorers were paced by rookie Mickey Redmond with three goals and three assists. Yvan Cournoyer scored twice and Bob Rousseau, Danny Grant, Gilles Tremblay, J. C. Tremblay, Dick Duff and Jacques Laperriere shared the others.

Don McKenney paced St. Louis with two goals. Ron Stewart, Larry Keenan, Norm Beaudin and Rejean Richer divided the others. For Houston, Jules Drouin connected twice and Brian Lavender once.

GOLF RULE TIGHTENED

$100 Is Tops For Amateurs

NEW YORK (AP) — A new, tougher definition of an amateur golfer—including a lower acceptable prize value—was spelled out Monday by the United States Golf Association.

The new ruling, effective Jan. 1, 1968, was announced jointly by the USGA and the Royal and Ancient Golf Club of St. Andrews, the ruling body in Britain.

PRIZE VALUE CUT

Among other things, the rule reduces from $200 to $100 the maximum retail value of permissible merchandise prize.

The USA said both governing bodies "have been increasingly concerned over the accumulation of valuable merchandise prizes by some amateurs and their preoccupation with winning such awards. This is regarded as contrary to the spirit underlying the definition of an amateur golfer."

The rule regarding sale of golf merchandise by an amateur has been tightened. Under the new rule, it will be an infringement to receive compensation because of skill or golf reputation "for selling or promoting the sale of golf merchandise, at either wholesale or retail."

CANADIAN GOLF DATES ANNOUNCED

TORONTO (CP) — The 59th Canadian open golf tournament will be held June 20-23, 1968, at St. George's Golf and Country Club in Toronto.

The Royal Canadian Golf Association, in announcing the Open dates today, also disclosed dates for three other top tournaments — Senior championship, July 17-19, Riverside Country Club, Saskatoon; Canadian Amateur and Willingdon Cup matches, Aug. 5-10, Mayfair Golf and Country Club, Edmonton; Canadian junior and interprovincial team championship, Aug. 19-24, Ki-8-Eb Country Club, Trois-Rivieres, Que.

(The Washington Post)

WASHINGTON—In the American League it has come down to the short short strokes. For Minnesota, Boston, Chicago and Detroit, every pitched ball until dusk on Sunday is pregnant with the loss of the pennant. The only certainty is that there must be three losers. There is only one long straw.

Minnesota and the Red Sox have four games left, the others five. The next defeat could be disaster for any team. It has never been this way in the American League before, or even in the National which is noted for its tight finishes. When, after all these years, the American League did get into the thrill business it staged a beaut.

Not even that all-important loss column can shed light on the mystery, for each of the contestants has accumulated 68 defeats. Minnesota's highly coveted advantage in that department disappeared with the 15 hits that bounded off the California Angels' bats Monday, and added substance to the notion that this pennant may not be won by one team, but lost by three.

A month ago when the surprising Red Sox first showed signs of a possibility they might hang in there, it was lightly suggested the pennant would be won or lost on Sept. 30-Oct. 1 in Boston. That is when the Twins move in for the last two games of the season at Fenway Park. The race now appears headed, indeed, for that show-down.

Psychological Imprint Could Be Deep

Detroit took a body blow when it lost that game to the Senators on Sunday, blowing a 4-2 lead in the ninth and the psychological imprint could be a deep one. The Tigers are not out of it, but they were hurt. And four of their last games are with the California Angels, a team over which they have only a skimpy edge this year.

All the managers are pulling out all the stops from here in, and what the fans will mostly learn is: whose pitching is best? Typical is the scuffling of Dick Williams, the Red Sox manager. He pulled his ace, Jim Lonborg, out of a winning game with Baltimore Sunday to save him for two more starts, against Cleveland on Wednesday and what may be the grand finale against Minnesota Sunday.

Each of the four clubs has a two-man pitching entry that was the biggest factor in taking it this far, and which will be thrown into the final week. Carl Ermer will depend on Dean Chance and Jim Kaat, and Boston manager Williams concedes little with his Lonborg and Gary Bell.

The Tigers have a powerful pair in Earl Wilson and Mickey Lolich, but it is the White Sox who probably have the pitching edge. Eddy Stanky can defy the others to show as heroic a pitcher as Joe Horlen who with Gary Peters as a back-up man probably represents the best of the two-man pitching teams.

Two of Boston's four remaining games are with Cleveland, the other two with the Twins. This may be a break, with Cleveland having been a Boston patsy all year, dropping 13 of 16 with the Red Sox. But the Twins have been feeding on Boston almost as greedily, with an 11-5 record against the Red Sox.

Twins Seasoned, But Not Infallible

The vagaries of baseball are apparent in estimating the White Sox chances. Their four remaining games are against seventh-place Washington and last-place Kansas City. For the White Sox, that's good, right? Not necessarily. Stanky's team which has whaled the whey out of Boston all season in only 16-15 for the year against the have-not Senators and Athletics.

The varied character of the teams will probably assert itself eventually. The Twins are the most seasoned outfit, with such as Killebrew, Allison, Battey, Versalles and Kaat, who have been to the wars before. But they can mess up games with alarming frequency, in the field, on the bases and with batting slumps that have sometimes been epidemic.

The White Sox bedevil the opposition with their pitching and their base running, but must often rise above their own infield defense which is not good. Usually, the White Sox go so far as their pitching takes them. They may not hit much, but they are not absolutely hitless and very often need only one productive blow.

The Tigers, without a pennant for 22 years, most of them in the first division, have the smell of losers. They have good ball players but somehow don't seem to gee and haw. The Red Sox, as a group, won't stand inspection but they do have Carl Yastrzemski and a darn good infield and have rebounded so many times, there is the high possibility they have, indeed, been brushed by destiny. Sunday will tell all.

Green Bay's Starr Lacks Usual Glow

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) — Coach Vince Lombardi of Green Bay Packers insisted Monday that nothing is physically wrong with quarterback Bart Starr despite the nine interceptions Starr has thrown in two National Football League games.

"No, he's not hurt," said the coach of the defending professional champions. "All interceptions are not a quarterback's fault."

Starr, who threw only three interceptions during a brilliant 1966 season that saw him acclaimed as the NFL's most valuable player, threw five interceptions Sunday as the Packers struggled to a 13-10 victory over the woefully weak Chicago Bears.

Four Starr passes were intercepted in the season opener with Detroit that ended in a 17-17 tie.

"Starr's in a little bit of a slump right now," said Lombardi. "We've got to wait until he comes out. . . .

"I haven't lost any confidence in him. I think he's alright. People like that don't change overnight."

Starr agreed that he was in a slump. "It's something I hope clears up soon," he said.

Abendschan Holds Lead In Point Race

Jack Abendschan, Saskatchewan's place-kicking guard, retained his lead in the Western Football Conference Sunday with six points in the Roughriders' 28-27 win over Calgary Stampeders.

Abendschan has 59 points, 11 more than Rider fullback George Reed and flanker Ken Nielsen of Winnipeg Blue Bombers.

Tommy-Joe Coffey kicked three field goals and a convert Saturday to help Hamilton Tiger-Cats down Montreal Alouettes 19-1 and bring his season point total in the Eastern Football Conference to 61.

Coffey has a 19-point edge on Ottawa's Whit Tucker.

Jago Keeps Shoe Title

Leachman savored revenge in the doubles final, teaming with Dave Bruce to edge Jago and Bill Cooper in a close struggle.

Jim Dutton was a double winner in "B" class, beating Herb Hunt in singles and joining Howard Curling for a doubles victory over Bob Third and George Brown.

Frank Knight did some sharp tossing to take the ringers contest, hitting 35 ringers with 50 shoes.

League championship of the Greater Victoria Horseshoe Pitching Association was decided last week when Willow BA defeated Tolmie Home Service in the playoff final.

'Peg Acquires New Quarter

WINNIPEG (CP) — Winnipeg Blue Bombers Monday released defensive and offensive halfback Marty Rosen and signed Lou Confessori, a quarterback and defensive halfback.

Rosen, 24-year-old product of the University of Southern California, was in his second season with the Western Football Conference club.

Confessori was brought up Thursday from Washington where he played on the taxi squad of the Redskins of the National Football League last year. Bombers said Confessori, 24, will play Wednesday when the Bombers go in Vancouver against the B.C. Lions.

England Top Squad, Canadians Finish 11th

LEVERKUSEN, West Germany (AP)—England is the unofficial winner of the women's world field hockey tournament which wound up here Monday. The Canadian team finished 11th among the 19 teams.

England was the only undefeated team in the tournament. West Germany was unbeaten until Monday when it fell 1-0 before a New Zealand team.

But unofficial standings show that England won five and tied one game.

PO R. Bagley won the 9 m.m. closed match, closed grand aggregate and the .22 slowfire. Mrs. Bagley won the ladies' match.

Shooting 1,729 of a possible 2,000 Vancouver's Jim Lee won the grand aggregate; he also took the .22 aggregate and centre fire aggregate.

Victoria's Quinton Mar won the 9 m.m. open. Team event was taken by CFB Esquimalt. High tyro honors went to Linelle Cardinell.

'Full Ahead' Says Pike As McVie Arrives Here

All hands are accounted for, and Admiral Alfred Pike immediately ordered "full speed ahead" with the training preparations of Phoenix Roadrunners' hockey club.

Winger Tom McVie, obtained in a deal with Portland Buckaroos, checked into the Phoenix training camp at Memorial Arena Monday.

At the same time, Pike lopped two more hopefuls from his roster. Returned to amateur ranks were goaltender Gary Holland and forward Gary Kulcheski.

Pike accepted McVie's reason for his late arrival. "Before the deal with Portland," said Pike, "McVie had already made some plans. Portland was to open its camp today (Monday), and that was the time-table Tommy used."

The team plays its second exhibition game Thursday at the Arena, against defending champion Seattle Totems. Phoenix clipped the Totems 7-4 in Penticton Saturday night.

Phoenix also will play exhibitions here against Vancouver Canucks (Oct. 3) and San Diego Gulls (Oct. 5).

Tickets for all games—"any seat in the house"—have been scaled from a modest $1.50 down.

English 'Pros' Face Long Ban

LONDON (Reuters) — English soccer players in the National Professional Soccer League of North America face a 12-month ban if they wish to return to English League soccer.

The council of the English Football Association decided Monday players, coaches, referees and managers actively concerned in the NPSL will not be considered eligible to take part in English soccer until 12 months after the date of their return.

Dennis Follows, secretary of the English Football Association, said seven NPSL players had applied for reinstatement.

The NPSL is not recognized by the International Federation of Football Associations, world soccer's governing body. The official North American soccer organization is the rival united soccer association.

Toronto has a National league team and there are teams from Toronto and Vancouver in the USA. There has been talk, mostly from National League officials, of a merger of the two leagues.

FOOTBALL (?)

Doctors Not Asked For Reason

The doctors weren't invited, and probably for good reason: They may be needed later.

The name of the game is football. What makes it different are the teams. Nurses from the Royal Jubilee Hospital will play the internes on the field at Fort and Richmond, Wednesday, 6:30 p.m.

The field is located just south of the nurses' residence and, it should be added, very handy to the hospital.

One minor rule change has been declared. The nurses will field "30 or 40" players. The internes will be restricted to fielding the regulation 12.

Inheritance tax forms were filed in Circuit Court. Saperstein, 63, died March 15, 1966.

Saperstein founded the Globetrotters, an all-Negro team which blended skill and comedy, during the 1920s and led them on many world tours.

Next time you're in the woods and you see someone with a spray gun marking certain trees with blue paint, don't call a forester. A forester planned this and the man is just doing his job. He's marking trees that are crowding their neighbors. Later, they'll be harvested by logging crews.

Nature seldom provides the careful spacing young trees require to grow their biggest and fastest. Overcrowding robs some of them of sunlight and soil nutriment. The underprivileged trees become stunted: many die. Worse, they also prevent their healthy neighbors from reaching their optimum growth.

So we thin them out when they reach a harvestable size – say by age thirty or so. And B.C.'s entire forest economy gains in two ways. First, because we turn into pulp and other marketable products trees that would otherwise die. Second, because vigorous growth of the remaining well-spaced young trees results in a much larger total yield of quality timber.

Commercial thinning of second growth stands is one of many things MB is doing to secure more jobs from the forests of today – and a bigger, better crop for tomorrow.

That blue paint marks a rosy future for the forests.

Second Death In Accident Near Nanaimo

NANAIMO — Gloria Jean White, a two-year-old girl injured in a car accident Saturday died in hospital here about 11 p.m. Monday.

It was the second death due to the same crash.

Gloria Jean, daughter of Mrs. Patricia White, of Cedar, near Nanaimo, sustained a fractured skull and broken legs in the accident.

She was a passenger in a car driven by her grandfather Clifford White which collided head-on with a car driven by Gerald Wyse, 22, of 503 Vancouver Avenue, Nanaimo, who was killed.

David White, 16, of Needham Street, Nanaimo, the other occupant of the Wyse car was taken to hospital with undetermined injuries.

Clifford White suffered internal injuries and his wife Audrey suffered multiple fractures. Another passenger in the car, Leonard White, sustained chest injuries. All are reported in satisfactory condition today.

The accident occurred about 10:30 p.m. Saturday on the Cedar road, near the entrance to the Nanaimo garbage dump.

The White family was returning home to Cedar after attending a church social at Nanaimo.

City Alderman Fined On Impaired Charge

He was fined $300 and banned from driving anywhere in Canada, except between the hours of 7:30 a.m. and 6 p.m., for three months.

Magistrate Lance Heard said in making the concession regarding driving he took into consideration Edgelow's occupation as a publisher who did a great deal of travelling.

TIME FOR STUDY

He said he wanted to peruse the conflicting crown and defence evidence regarding the taking and analysing of accused's blood sample.

He said the defence alleged fermentation had taken place in the sample and this in conjunction with accused's mild diabetes accounted for the .27 reading of blood alcohol.

Magistrate Heard said he was satisfied with the RCMP evidence and that .27 was a correct reading when taken after the Feb. 14 accident from which the charge arose.

The accident was the third on the same short stretch of highway within 40 minutes, involving about 10 cars.

The magistrate said: "If one takes into account the totality of the evidence there can be no other conclusion than that you were unlawfully driving while your ability was impaired by alcohol."

Charge Socreds With Non-Support Urges Perrault

DUNCAN — Liberal leader Ray Perrault said here Monday night the Social Credit government should be charged with non-support by the province's local governments.

He said: "Local governments are being denied a better share of B.C.'s revenues and the Socreds continue to use the cities and municipalities as political doormats so they can perpetuate the claim of so-called budgetary surpluses."

Mr. Perrault is winding up a tour of the province.

He addressed a meeting of the Cowichan Liberal Association.

Mr. Perrault said: "As a result of Premier Bennett's tight-fisted treatment local government is compelled to shoulder the blame for rising tax bills, lack of housing, lack of adequate pollution control and sewage treatment, and for a shortage of other essential services.

JACKSTAY TRANSFER between destroyer escorts HMCS St. Croix and Yukon goes smoothly when the passenger is Captain J. B. Young. It had better. He is squadron commander. The ships are exercising in southern waters, will return to Island waters in November. Meantime, a U.S. submarine USS Swordfish will interest island shipwatchers. She will reach Nanoose Bay October 4. (DND Photo)

NUCLEAR SUB VISITS NANOOSE TESTING AREA

ESQUIMALT — The first nuclear-powered submarine to visit the Canadian west coast will be in the Nanoose Bay region early next month.

The USS Swordfish is scheduled to reach Nanoose Bay on October 4 for two days of equipment testing.

This will be the second visit to Canadian waters of a nuclear submarine. The USS Shark was at Halifax in May of this year.

The USS Swordfish is one of four "Skate" class submarines in the U.S. Navy. The 2,800-ton "sub" has a complement of 95 officers and men.

While in the Nanoose Bay region the USS Swordfish will conduct a series of dummy torpedo firings.

For several years the Nanoose Bay facilities have been jointly used by the RCN and USN for the testing of underwater weapons. The area was selected for several reasons: depth, varying temperature layers, practical length of the waterway, and its proximity to both USN and RCN bases.

BOTTLE WITH MESSAGE LAUNCHED BY CHILDREN

Children here threw a number of bottles into the sea. One contained the message: "Help. I am stranded at 20 degrees south latitude, 30 degrees west longitude." This is near Rio de Janeiro.

Saanich police were advised that a 13-year-old girl here and her friends put the bottles in the sea. The location in the message was picked at random.

Jury Blames Speed In Death of Youth

CHEMAINUS — His two teen-age travelling companions testified at a Monday night inquest Richard Simmonds, 17, was going too fast when he crashed his car Sept. 9.

The inquest jury was told Simmonds died instantly as the result of crushing head injuries.

Daniel Wayne Andruff, 17, Chemainus, said he and Helen Fowler, 16, had gone to the Cowichan Fall Fair with Simmonds.

He said they were on their way home along Bell-McKinnon Road "kind of fast" when the accident happened.

GIRL SCREAMING

Andruff told the jury: "I looked over and Richard was out of the car. Helen started screaming and I tried to calm her down.

"Then I saw Richard lying outside and I ran for help."

Andruff said: "I figured Richard could handle the car."

He stated none of three had drunk any liquor and there was none in the car.

CROSSED ROAD

"He either turned the wheel too hard or braked but we swerved to the other side of the road. I don't remember hitting the trees but there was some kind of a jolt.

"I sort of came to and started screaming."

She said Simmonds was driving at about 45 miles an hour (in a 30 MPH zone).

She said no one in the car was wearing seat belts.

The jury returned a verdict of accidental death and said the crash occurred because of "loss of control due to excessive speed."

Classroom Shortage Bothersome

Classroom shortages resulted due to delays in completing the new Georges P. Vanier Secondary School. So school authorities split the classes. Students attended every other day.

Teachers said this caused a lack of continuity in instruction. Parents objected also. So a new system was devised. Half the students started at 8 a.m., the other half at 2:30 p.m. But the late shift students said they had to give up after-school jobs.

Then it was found there were no buses available to drive the late class students home.

Back to the alternate day system — until the present plan materialized. This involves using the gym, the industrial arts building and the basement of a nerby church for classes and lengthening the school day.

Where there's a will there's a way.

Candidacy Announced

NANAIMO — Ald. Ted Barsby announced Monday he will run for mayor in the December municipal elections. He said he knows the problems facing city council and would not build a platform of promises he knew he could not keep.

College Supported

LADYSMITH — Town council supports an Island regional college which will be voted on Saturday.

Mayor Kathleen Grouhel and aldermen urged voters to back the plan, which would see a college built just north of Nanaimo.

Ladysmith Enforces Water Restrictions

LADYSMITH—Town council will hire a commissionaire to enforce its stringent restrictions on the use of water.

Waterworks chairman Ald. Rober Stillin said Monday there is only about two weeks' supply of water left.

He said the level of main supply Stocking Lake has fallen from 10 to 6 feet in the past month.

This is true also of Provost Dam, the secondary supply.

He said: "It's a pretty sad picture with about three-quarters of the total water supply used up.

WEATHER BLAMED

"Major cause of the shortage is the dry weather which could continue for another month."

Ald. Stillin appealed to residents to heed the total ban on all but essential domestic use of water.

He said: "There is still too much flagrant use of water for car washing, hosing down driveways and window washing."

He said: "It's a serious situation which will get worse unless there is rain soon.

It was agreed to hire a commissionaire or local man to investigate misuse of water with the intention of charges being laid.

Council also decided to invite tenders for the job of making improvements to the Stocking Lake Dam and spillway.

Sluggish Kidneys May Bring Restless Nights

If you "fight the pillow", toss and turn all through the night and don't really know why — perhaps here's news and help for you! One cause of such restlessness may be traced to sluggish kidney action. Urinary irritation and bladder discomfort may follow. The result can be backache and restless nights. This is when Dodd's Kidney Pills can help bring relief. Dodd's stimulate kidney action, helps relieve the irritated condition that causes the backache. Take Dodd's, and see if you don't feel better, rest better. Used successfully by millions for over 70 years. New large size saves money.

AN EYE ON THE HAT and a hand on the money was campaign chairman G. F. Auchinleck's way of mixing business with pleasure at a breakfast this morning to officially open the United Red Feather-Red Cross Appeal. The cheque is the Victoria Press, Ltd., donation of $4,800 (up one-third from last year's $3,600) handed over by comptroller Jack Melville. The boudoir cap is worn by public information Phoebe Noble, who wore the cap and a housecoat with the comment "What could be more appropriate for breakfast at 8 o'clock in the morning". Hepatitis Still Unabated In This Area

169 Known Cases To Date This Year

Metropolitan health officer J. L. M. Whitbread said today it is indicated there will be more than 200 cases recorded before the end of 1967.

The most recent week of record—the week ending September 15 — showed 10 new cases. There were 12 reported the previous week.

Prior to the end of August there were 147 cases in this area. Throughout all of 1966 there were only 146.

Dr. Whitbread emphasized in interview that the best way to fight infectious hepatitis is to ensure that all districts are sewered and that personal hygiene is observed.

PATTERN NATIONAL

At the same time, the disease is following a pattern all across Canada—a pattern which appears to repeat itself every seven or 10 years.

Throughout Canada there have been 5,064 cases this year to date. During all of 1966 there were only 3,087 cases.

Throughout the province this year to date there have been 1,065 cases reported. The total for 1966 was 547.

Most of the cases locally are being treated in their homes although many have been admitted to hospital.

The disease can be passed from person to person, mainly by food handlers. It can cause a long illness—of several weeks duration — depending on the severity of the case.

Big Brother Tactics In Port Alberni Jail

Television, Bugs Used Says MLA

The provincial government has adopted a "big brother is watching" policy in its jails, Alex MacDonald, New Democratic Party deputy house leader said today.

He told a public meeting here that the new Port Alberni public safety building has been equipped with closed circuit television and listening devices to keep prisoners under surveillance.

Mr. MacDonald said that a letter from the assistant deputy attorney-general "makes it clear that this has been done with this department's full approval and it will be carried out in all of the jails of the province where not already in effect."

He said the installation of the equipment is "a gross abuse of the personal privacy of persons awaiting trial or serving sentences."

'CRUEL'

"Surely it is cruel and unusual punishment when, for every minute of the day and night, there is no privacy of conversation or living."

Mr. MacDonald said the attorney-general's department claims the legal profession favors this surveillance "in the interests or security — I do not believe it."

"Industrial and private snooping is increasing in this province and now the government itself, instead of preventing it, joins in."

Mr. MacDonald also supported Social Credit MLA Cyril Shelford's bid to have the government implement the recommendations on the Morrow royal commission report on gasoline prices.

The disclosure comes 13 months after a major outcry developed over "bugging" equipment in Victoria's Fisgard Street police station.

The city's police commission in August 1966 ordered wire-tapping equipment taken out of the station's visitor-prisoner intercom and other parts of the building where a search revealed it.

Police Chief John Gregory said at the time that listening devices in the building were installed as an experiment.

Only the jail and what was referred to as the security section of the building retained listening equipment as a protection to prisoners and an aid to police in maintaining order in the lock-up.

Under the system currently in use in the second-floor jail, a switch can be thrown by the jailor before he enters the cells. This enables officers on duty on the first floor to listen in case the jailor is attacked by prisoners or requires help for any reason.

PRINCESS BLUSHES

Mayor's Flattery Scores

By JOHN MIKA

Denmark's Princess Margrethe today walked through the hippies' stamping grounds here and not one of the "flower" people was there to greet her.

But she seemed more than happy with officialdom and the traditional bouquet presented by the traditional young girl at the City Hall steps.

And acting premier Robert Bonner also paid tribute to her good looks and told her she was welcome to come back anytime to dig B.C.—as an experienced archaeologist.

TOUCHED BY CHEERS

And Princess Margrethe obviously was touched by the brave cheers, handclapping and waving of a solitary Danish flag by a small knot of Danish-Canadians who watched her stride through Victoria Centennial Square for a visit to the senior citizens' recreational centre.

The princess, accompanied by the mayor, her husband Prince Henrik and a party of Danish and B.C. officials, spent 10 minutes in the centre meeting some of the 200 elderly there and examining them in action at an arts and crafts class.

Earlier, after receiving the bouquet of pink roses and carnations from 11-year-old Doreen Norgaard, 2631 Millstream, she exchanged gifts with Mayor Stephen in council chamber while aldermen, regional reeves and about 150 invited guests looked on.

Mayor Stephen presented Princess Margrethe with a book of Fenwick Lansdowne bird paintings and a plaque of the city's coat-of-arms, after making her blush with the words:

MAYOR DELIGHTED

"It is, if I may say so ma'am, a particular delight that in the late summer of our celebrations, when already the more sombre colors of the fall and winter are apparent, you should visit us and through your youth and beauty bring to us again a graceful reminder of the fresh and vibrant mood of early springtime."

Mayor Stephen noted that B.C. is larger than the kingdoms of Denmark, Norway, Sweden and The Netherlands put together but said it is only a miracle that has created its nationhood.

"In the achievement of this miracle we have welcomed as citizens men and women from every race and every nation," he said. ". . . In the rich colors of this national tapestry none shine with greater honor than those of Denmark whose people, particularly here in B.C., have added immeasurably to our stock, both of cultural and technical achievement."

Princess Margrethe responded with a book on Scandinavia she gave Mayor Stephen and the words:

'FROM OUR HEARTS'

"My husband and I must thank you from our very hearts for your kind words not only for ourselves but about our countrymen who have come here."

Later, at a gourmet luncheon in the Empress Hotel tendered by the provincial government, Mr. Bonner also praised her.

"The natural beauty of British Columbia has been enhanced by your presence in our midst and I know that this is one remark which 2,000,000 British Columbians would wish me to make today."

Mr. Bonner remarked that Canada has been the leading nation to which Danes have emigrated in the past 10 years and B.C. now has many of them among its population of about 100,000 of Scandinavian origin.

ANCIENT HABITATION

"Lest you might think, your royal highness, that all things are new in B.C., in acknowledging your keen personal interest in archaeology I should like to say that we have archaeological evidence of very ancient habitation by man in this vicinity.

"This is so particularly on Galiano in the Gulf Islands and also on the mainland at Yale where archaeological digs revealed the presence of man as far back as 9,000 years ago.

"Perhaps some day you could organize a little archaeological expedition to dig into British Columbia's past."

Mr. Bonner presented her with a Dogwood brooch and a hand-carved cedar plaque of the provincial coat-of-arms.

TAHSIS WEDNESDAY

He will be her host as president of the company when she flies to Tahsis Wednesday and on Thursday morning officially opens the $60 million pulp plant at Gold River.

She will spend a day of private rest on the Island before returning to Vancouver for visits with the Dansih community and her flight back to Denmark Saturday ending a two-week tour of Canada.

Shipyards Rush Freighter Jobs

Two Victoria shipyards have been awarded contracts for repairing the two freighters damaged in a collision last Wednesday.

Neither Yarrows nor Victoria Machinery Depot would reveal the amount of money involved but spokesmen for both yards said that workers who have been laid off will be rehired.

Yarrows expect to employ as many as 100 men, working two shifts to repair the bow damage to the Danish ship Marie Skou.

A VMD official said that his firm will work around the clock for about 10 days or two weeks, he hopes, to close the 20 by 40-foot hole in the forward end of the Japanese ship Chitose Maru.

Both ships have been discharging cargo since they limped into Victoria after colliding in smoke and fog in the Strait of Juan de Fuca shortly after midnight Wednesday.

Unloading of the 8,000-ton Danish ship, now in drydock, is expected to be completed by Thursday.

It will be about a week before any assessment of price or damage can properly be made. By that time drawings necessary to the estimates will have arrived from Denmark, say Yarrows.

It is expected that the whole forward end back to number one hold will have to be rebuilt.

REPAIRS BEGUN

Crews from VMD have already started work on the 40,000-ton Japanese ship and a company representative from Japan is in Victoria to supervise the work.

How long repairs will take depends on how much damage is revealed as the work progresses. It will take two or three days to remove debris from the Marie Skou which was left in the Japanese ship after the crash.

A full underwater inspection is awaited before it is decided whether the ship must go into drydock or not.

Food Clerks, Stores Fail In Wage Bid

A conciliation meeting Monday failed to resolve differences between supermarkets and the Retail Food and Drug Clerks Union, a spokesman said today.

Rudy Krickan, union secretary-treasurer, said "negotiations broke down completely.

"The operators refused to agree to anything. They are openly inviting problems. We feel we are going to be challenged to take strike action before we get talks."

He said the seven chain stores, which employ more than 2,000 clerks in Victoria and Vancouver, "seemed to have agreed to try us on for size. It is quite a serious thing."

Conciliation officer J. A. Laffling has 10 days to bring in his report on the dispute.

The employees are seeking an extra $1 an hour in a two-year contract with Safeway, Super-Valu, Dominion, Loblaw, Shop-Easy, IGA and High-Low.

Present wage rates range from $1.70 an hour to $2.95 an hour. Close to 30 stores in Greater Victoria are involved.

Settlement in Victoria-Vancouver stores will affect 5,700 food store workers in B.C. as the contract here is traditionally the pattern for other areas.

Ask The Times

Q. Which hockey team is Aut Erickson with this year and when is the first exhibition game in Victoria? B.A.

A. Erickson is now playing for the California Seals. The first exhibition game is Thursday, Sept. 28, between Seattle and Phoenix.

Q. How big was the egg of the dinosaur? P.S.

A. The only eggs found were about eight inches long. But there were hundreds of kinds of dinosaur ranging from 80 feet long to less than three feet. Not all laid eggs, scientists believe, but some probably gave live birth.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the question along to the Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

Fraud Charges To Be Aired In City Court

A preliminary hearing into fraud charges arising out of the multi-million-dollar Chateau Victoria development opened in magistrate's court today.

The Victoria Chateau development was to provide homes and facilities for older people. The scheme was to build the facilities on land near Royal Roads, and to pre-sell suites to interested people.

FORECLOSED

Crown prosecutor Lloyd McKenzie told the court the mortgage on the land involved was foreclosed in 1964.

"By the spring of 1964 nothing but the idea remained. The money had disappeared."

A second man involved, Charles Beeler, is now in the United States. Mr. McKenzie said extradition proceedings have been initiated.

Spark Costs Burner $50

Court was told William Higgs, 3136 Quadra, lit the incinerator without first obtaining a fire permit.

Fire department officials estimate $500 damage was caused to the roof and outside wall of the rest home as a result of the fire.

In fining Higgs, Magistrate Ostler commented "Do you realize the consequences if this fire got away at a rest home? It's terrible to contemplate."

Mrs. Art Nickerson, 1554 Athlone, was driving north on the Trans-Canada Highway when her car went out of control about four miles south of Duncan and left the road.

Mrs. Nickerson suffered pelvic injuries.

About $1,000 damage was done to the car.

School Board Night Classes Disclose Secret Dreams of 8,000 Adult Pupils

By DON VIPOND
Times Education Reporter

A second-floor room at the Ewing Building holds the secret to what Victorians really want from life.

The charts spread over the walls there are a psychologist's delight.

In row upon row they list the 240 or so evening courses offered by the adult education division of the Greater Victoria School Board.

Hundreds of Xs mark the people who are ready to pay money and take time to learn abut something. That's why it's a true sample of the tastes and wants of the community.

About 8,000 men and women will take at least an evening a week over the next few months to satisfy some hunger for learning. Each year that total creeps closer to the 11,000 plus students at all 13 junior and senior secondary schools in the district.

Courses to meet every requirement and interest is what the adult education program aims at. And trying to fill that kind of an order means staying quick on your feet, says Reg Mylrea, co-ordinator of adult classes in the evening division.

For the bewildering truth is that people's tastes change — violently sometimes, according to the charts in the operations room.

The picture isn't complete yet because courses start next week and there is still a steady stream of registrations. (For information, call 385-1411, locals 258 and 259).

There's a boom in Spanish Conversation. With only 18 pupils last year, there are 51 so far this year and a third class is being organized.

This one was predictable, says Mr. Mylrea. People will be headed for the Olympic Games in Mexico next year. The stampede for conversational French last year to equip the Expo visitors has tapered off.

●

Are Victorians prosaic? Maybe.

Last year Introduction to Magic drew one class. This year it had to be scratched. No one for magic, it seems.

●

All of which is not to say the community is not artistic. There will be four painting and oil classes. They are winners every year.

The creative writing class conducted by Times columnist Arthur Mayse filled up in just a few days. Many had to be turned away.

"In self-betterment courses we've never had such a response," says Mr. Mylrea, pointing particularly to courses with booming enrolments such as speed writing, effective (verbal) communications and effective supervision, human relations that is.

There are always exceptions.

●

A new course in Defensive Driving is having a lot of trouble getting into first gear. This despite a mail campaign to drivers who could use it.

●

Indoor golf, which used to be jammed, now has two of four classes almost empty. The two classes in indoor tennis, offered for the first time, are full, and another newcomer, fencing, is making a strong showing.

Fishermen favor the briney, it seems.

SHOPPING GUIDE

Day Off From Chores Results in Dividends

By Penny Saver

Very tired after seeing the family off on their various pursuits, I collapsed in a chair. Today was the day I'd hunt for those beauty treats I had promised myself weeks ago but hadn't tried yet. The family cat slept peacefully, Junior was staying overnight at a neighbor's house and hubby had gone fishing for the weekend. Everything was perfect for a leisurely day of listening to records, a long soak in the tub and going shopping. Having decided to try something new I headed downtown to see what I could find.

A small comb about six inches long was just what I needed for my purse. Made of nylon and having both fine and coarse teeth it is good for getting the tangles out of your hair as well as combing it into its final style. For someone like me who is always forgetting to put a comb in my handbag it is a good idea. The cost of this handy little comb is 29 cents.

Not being able to resist bubble baths of any kind I came home with a bubble bath powder in a fish bowl. While not in use it looks ornamental in the bathroom and when empty I think Junior will find good use for the bowl as a home for his guppies. This unique bath powder costs a very reasonable $1.49.

For keeping the dust off the records and cleaning the needle I found a very good cloth. Made especially for cleaning records it protects them and improves the sound. It can also be used for cleaning the needle. If you are like me you'll be very glad to find a cloth that will keep those favorite records from being damaged. This item is priced at 49 cents.

If you would like to know where I found these items give me a call at 382-3131.

THE BETTER HALF By Bob Barnes

DEAR ABBY . . .

Eliminate Pest In Superior Way

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I work in an office which employs mostly men. One of the men here is a great talker, and his favorite subject is sex. He doesn't ask, "How are you?" He asks, "How's your love life?"

He's forever stopping by my desk to tell me an off-color story. No matter what is said, he turns it into something personal and downright embarrassing. (If I say, "Good morning," he asks, "And what, pray tell, happened last night to make the morning so good?")

He can't possibly believe that I am not interested in discussing my private life with him because I have given him no encouragement whatsoever.

What should I do?

HELEN

DEAR HELEN: Tell the man that you find his off-color stories embarrassing and his personal references irksome. If he doesn't get the message, tell your superior. If he is your superior, there are other jobs.

DEAR ABBY: Being in the real estate business, I read with interest the letter from the real estate salesman who objected to the "lookers" who were in no position to buy a house, but wanted him to spend his time showing what was available anyway.

You should have told that salesman to ask those lookers exactly how much money they had to buy a house. It would save a lot of time, tires, and gasoline.

ALSO IN REAL ESTATE

DEAR ALSO: Sorry, but I wouldn't recommend that approach. Some lookers might find it insulting, and I wouldn't blame them. A good salesman will have learned how to size up a prospect by asking pertinent questions and drawing his own conclusions. Ask any successful oil man how many dry holes he drilled before he struck oil.

DEAR ABBY: I have a married daughter and a married son. Once they left home I began serious work on a creative project in which I had been interested for years.

My daughter and her husband fell into the habit of dropping in with their children any time they pleased, invading my workroom and disturbing my work. After repeated interruptions, I asked them to please telephone before coming over, but they continued to drop in whenever it suited them. I finally had to ask them to please come over by invitation only. The result: They became angry with me and we are not on good terms.

Now my son and his wife are doing the same thing. I do not want to drive them away, neither do I feel that I should be imposed upon by them. How do you tell married children that you are no longer holding open house? I might add, both these young couples were invited to dinner frequently and not once have I ever visited them without calling first to ask if it was convenient. What is the answer?

PUZZLED

DEAR PUZZLED: I happen to believe that mature and well-bred people respect the privacy and wishes of others, whether they are related or not. It is easy to understand why children continue to regard their parents' home as their own because that's the way it was for so long. But once told they should remember. It is unfortunate that your daughter and her husband became "angry" because you demanded the courtesy of a call before they dropped in. Unless you prefer the inconvenience of being interrupted in your "project" to being estranged with your son and wife, give them the same treatment.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Study after study have proven over and over again that the habit of skipping breakfast is not conducive to successful reducing.

To the contrary, the would-be reducer is apt to nibble during the day or to overeat at the other two meals. It has also been proven that this habit leads to less physical and mental efficiency during the later morning hours.

Lowman

Research indicates that the ideal plan is to eat a breakfast which contains about one-fourth of the daily calorie requirement and protein intake. I do not know why breakfast ever got such a black eye. I suppose it is because people are in such a rush getting off to work in the morning or getting the children off to school.

Neither do I know how the idea that cereal is fattening was promoted. I suppose it was because most folks like it with lots of cream and sugar. Actually, cereals are relatively low in calorie count because of their low fat content. They are important for their protein, minerals and vitamins, especially the B vitamins. They are splendid for those who are on a low cholesterol diet.

A breakfast of cereal, fruit and milk, and bread or toast with butter or margarine, is nutritious and satisfying, also convenient. It can be prepared in just a few minutes and all of the family can enjoy it. If there is a reducer among you, he or she can have a smaller helping of cereal, less sugar on it, skim milk instead of cream on the cereal, and to drink.

You can build up the calorie count for growing children or a thin member of the family by adding jam or jelly to the bread or toast and cream to the milk.

If you are to avoid that late morning drag and remain peppy and efficient until lunch time, eat a breakfast which contains approximately one-fourth of your daily calorie allowance and gives you at least 15 grams of protein.

If you would like my free leaflet "Count Your Calories" send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for it to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

RALPH-BISHOP WEDDING SERVICE

Appliques of white rosebuds trimmed the gown of white chiffon over satin worn by Sheryn Lynne Bishop when she became the bride of Gary James Ralph in Trinity Presbyterian Church.

Styled with a scalloped neckline and a bell-shaped skirt, the gown had rosebud appliques centred on pink tulle trimming the skirt and rosebuds on lace highlighting the sleeves which tipped the elbow. Two rosebuds, set in pink tulle, formed her headpiece, which held a veil of illusion net that misted to the shoulder. She carried a crescent bouquet of pink and white rosebuds with white ribbon streamers.

Rev. T. N. McAllister officiated at the service uniting the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert A. Bishop, 3425 Diana Road, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. David W. Ralph, 871 Pendene Place. Mr. Bishop gave his daughter in marriage.

ALL-WHITE DECOR

White gladioli, chrysanthemums and carnations decorated the church. Miss Sadie Bross sang "You'll Never Walk Alone" during signing of the register, accompanied by the organist, Mrs. A. Errington.

Maid of honor Miss Linda Bowbyes chose an afternoon dress styled on A-lines of mauve lace over taffeta en tone. Susie Mawer was flower girl for her cousin, gowned in a floor-length dress in similar tones which was highlighted by a lace inset.

Mrs. Danny Hartlen was bridesmatron and Miss Derby Mawer, a cousin of the bride, was junior bridesmaid. They had matching dresses of green chiffon lace over taffeta, also styled on A-lines. The senior attendants carried crescent bouquets of yellow and bronze chrysanthemums, and the flower girl carried a colonial arrangement of the same flowers.

At the reception following in the Olde England Inn, a wedding cake topped with pink carnations and white tulle centred the head table. The bride and groom cut the cake with a sword used at Queen Victoria's court. Doug Mawer proposed the toast to his niece.

For travelling on honeymoon to Vancouver, Seattle and the Gulf Islands, the new Mrs. Ralph chose a two-piece white brocade suit which she accented with brown and mushroom-toned accessories.

Combine Efforts to Give Many Bursaries

IODE CHAPTERS HELP STUDENTS

The impact of the assistance given students by members of the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire was fully felt on Saturday afternoon when a long list of current winners were honored at the 20th annual bursary tea, sponsored by the Municipal Chapter IODE and held in the faculty building of the University of Victoria.

Dr. Frederick Tyler, the university's dean of education, was guest speaker and emphasized the need for adaptation to new concepts brought about by a rapidly changing world. He was introduced by Miss Lorna Langley and thanked by Mrs. V. H. V. Shepperd, the chapter's first vice-regent.

Seated with Dr. Tyler on the platform were Miss Christine MacNab, municipal regent; Mrs. J. F. McIntyre, educational secretary of the provincial chapter, and chairman, Mrs. Tom Lumsden, municipal chapter's educational secretary, who gave the closing remarks.

Mrs. McIntyre presented awards certificates of $1,250 to Carolyn Zaph and Lorna Cue. Miss MacNab presented seven local senior secondary students with $100 municipal bursaries. They were Dorothy Chattell, Linda Wilkinson, Dierdre Ogden, Joan Davidson, Judy Lee, Arthur Chin, Gordon Robinson. Doris Armstrong received a special award to assist with studies at the Institute of Adult Studies. Uvic students receiving $100 municipal scholarships were Richard Gee (for general proficiency) and Rodney Whitfield (for excellence in Canadian history).

In addition, many students were assisted by bursaries and awards, given by local primary IODE chapters.

Peter Song, a student at S. J. Willis Junior Secondary School, received $100 from Camosun Chapter while Florence Nightingale Chapter presented two $100 scholarships to student nurses. Miss Christine Scott, a second-year student at St. Joseph's Hospital received one, the other went to Mrs. Lynn Cole, Royal Jubilee Hospital, for proficiency in bedside nursing.

Esquimalt Chapter announced that it would present $100 to an Esquimalt Senior Secondary School student, a $25 award to a Head Street Junior Secondary School student and a good citizenship trophy to a student of Lampson Street School.

Miss Helen Rattray presented Royal Roads Chapter's award of $150 for the George H. Gardiner Bursary to Miss Linda Burkholder. The chapter has also given ballet student Miss Coleen de Court a $100 bursary.

Mrs. A. Marquis, did the honors for Major John Hebden Gillespie Chapter, presenting Miss Mary Chard with $200 for musical studies at the Victoria School of Music. Mrs. E. Dainty Rose Appliques Enhance Gown of White Satin and Lace Delicate white roses appliqued the skirt of her floor-length gown of white satin and lace when Diane Valerie Viggers became the bride of Michael John Simmons at St. Aidan's United Church.

The gown, designed and made by the bride, was styled on empire lines with a lace train sweeping back from the high waistline. The bodice featured a high jewel neckline and long lace sleeves. A tiered veil, appliqued with white roses, misted from a bud and petal tulle headpiece.

Rev. A. J. MacLeod officiated at the service uniting the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Viggers, 3330 Cedar Hill Road, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. V. Simmons, 325 Moss Street. Chrysanthemums in fall colors and white heather decorated the church.

Matron of honor Mrs. M. Dohn and bridesmaid Miss Joanne Pistell wore matching sleeveless floor-length gowns of yellow chiffon styled on empire lines en train and featuring scoop necklines. They carried bouquets of gold chryanthemums, edged with white heather.

Bob Alton was best man and ushering the guests were Frank Viggers and Brian Simmons.

For travelling on honeymoon the new Mrs. Simmons chose a two-piece blue silk dress with matching coat and hat. Black accessories complemented her outfit and she wore golden roses en corsage.

After a honeymoon in San Francisco, the couple will live at Wedgewood Terrace Apts., Chambers Street.

PIPER PLAYS A SALUTE

Guard of Honor for Newlyweds

A Canadian Scottish guard of honor and Pipe Major Ray Gandy greeted newlyweds Mr. and Mrs. John Edward Jacobson as they left St. John's Anglican Church after their wedding service.

The bride, the former Teresa Irene Musgrave, wore a white satin gown styled on empire lines which was enhanced by a lace coat fashioned with sleeves ending in lily points. Matching lace and seed pearl appliques trimmed the gown. A Canadian Scottish sash was draped across her shoulder, held by a cairngorm belonging to her grandmother which was a "something old" token. A white velvet and leaf headpiece held her shoulder-length veil. She carried a bouquet of yellow carnations and white heather, brought from Ireland for the wedding.

Canon Grahame Baker heard vows uniting the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Musgrave, 4505 Pipeline Road, and the son of Mrs. M. Jacobson, 1813 Quadra Street, and the late Mr. Jacobson. Mr. Musgrave gave his daughter in marriage.

Standard baskets of white gladioli and yellow chrysanthemums decorated the altar, and white chrysanthemums formed the pew markers.

The Misses Jean and Patti Musgrave attended their sister. They wore matching gowns of yellow taffeta encaged in chiffon styled on empire lines. As jewelry accents they wore gold necklaces, gifts of the bride. Yellow ribbons were woven in their hair and they carried bouquets of bronze and yellow chrysanthemums.

S. Sgt. Charles Mitchell acted as best man, and WO Harold Whittla ushered guests.

At the reception following in Holyrood House a three-tier wedding cake, made by the bride's aunt, Mrs. H. Burleigh, centred the head table. It was decorated with yellow roses and white doves. Vases of yellow roses decorated the table. Howard Burleigh proposed the toast to his niece.

Travelling from Vancouver to attend the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. H. Burleigh with Shelly, and Mrs. Irene Howell.

The new Mrs. Jacobson chose a yellow wool dress and coat ensemble which she accented with black patent accessories for travelling on honeymoon to Seattle. Her only jewelry accent was a string of pearls, a gift of the groom, and a corsage of yellow and bronze chrysanthemums completed her costume.

On their return the newlyweds will make their home in the El Corted Apartments.

Toastmistress Club Meets

The theme, "A Summer to Remember" was chosen when the Arbutus Toastmistress Club held a meeting in its new headquarters, The Inn, with Mrs. G. H. Love presiding. Four speakers talked on their busiest summer, most exciting summer, the summer they would like to live over again, and the one they're least likely to forget.

The talks formed the table topic evaluated by Mrs. M. F. J. Dearman, a former member, who was there as a guest.

Toastmistress, Mrs. R. S. Butt, introduced two new members, Miss Neanie Brown and Mrs. J. A. Miller, who gave introductory speeches. Miss Brown spoke on "What's in a Name?" and Mrs. Miller, "Why Did You Join a Public Speaking Club?"

Mrs. Harry Winstone gave an impromptu speech on "Summer on a Mountain" and Mrs. Cook gave a similar one on "Summer in the Park." Mrs. L. R. Hammett and Mrs. H. L. Clarkson gave evaluations and Mrs. E. R. Ashbridge assessed grammar and words used during the evening.

Mrs. S. M. McCulloch was general evaluator, awarding the oscar to Mrs. Winstone and the spur for the most improved speaker to Mrs. Hammett, for her evaluation.

Members were reminded that meetings will be held on the first and third Thursday of every month. Visitors and prospective members will be welcomed. For further particulars, interested women should phone Mrs. Love at 479-6301 or Mrs. Winstone at 386-2739.

A GUIDE FOR THE MARRIED MAN

Sophisticated Sex Comedy
Royal Theatre

A bevy of beautiful girls, with little on their minds and less on their bodies, wiggle their way through this ultra-sophisticated sex comedy from the 20th Century-Fox studios.

The story is as light as the cast is heavy with stars, and is concerned with a variety of extra-marital situations involving restless hubbies and detached wives.

There are some hilarious moments and plenty in the way of bedroom comedy — but it is comedy without depth and the dialogue is more slick than clever.

The story opens with a quote from Oscar Wilde: "The one charm of marriage is that it makes a life of deception absolutely necessary for both parties."

Between these opposing views is the tale of a suburban husband (Walter Matthau) who has been happily married for 12 years but now wonders what it would be like to have an affair.

Amusingly, Walter is a dry old stick who lies in bed reading a book while his lovely wife (Inger Stevens) pirouettes around him in flimsy neglige. And he goes on reading!

But, intrigued by the thought of an affair, he becomes painfully sensitive to the physical endowments of women around him. And he is encouraged by a colleague with a wandering eye (Robert Morse) who teaches him the techniques of high infidelity.

Like most modern teachers, Morse goes in for visual aids and every time he demonstrates a new technique the screen lights up with a vivid sketch from "life."

Some 13 stars, including Terry Thomas, Lucille Ball, Jack Benny, Polly Bergen and the late Jayne Mansfield, have cameo roles in these sketches, but are listed as "technical advisers."

Perhaps the funniest of all is a fast-moving bedroom scene involving Terry Thomas, Jayne Mansfield and the loss of a bra which could incriminate him for life.

'Warrendale' Wins

TORONTO (CP)—Warrendale, a feature-length document film about emotionally disturbed children in Ontario, won the Film of the Year and best feature film awards Saturday at the 19th annual Canadian Film Awards.

UNVEILING of bronze statues of Dr. Roger Bannister and John Landy will take place in Vancouver Wednesday to commemorate their famous mile race 13 years ago in which the two runners both shattered the four-minute mile. Dr. Bannister and Landy will do the unveiling. (CP Wirephoto.)

Province Stays Out Of Kindergarten

That was the word in a recent circular letter sent to B.C. school boards by Education Minister Leslie Peterson.

"It does not seem the proper time to make a change," he said in answer to a B.C. School Trustees Association resolution asking that government grants give the same financial support to kindergarten classes as regular school classes.

Mr. Peterson noted that the few school districts which have instituted kindergarten programs on their own are having difficulty finding qualified staff.

He added there is no consensus yet that kindergartens are essential in a school program and "any distribution of financial resources of the province must take into consideration essential education needs of the whole province."

However, Mr. Peterson said a request for assistance for kindergarten classes for deprived and retarded children is being considered.

Charges to Be Laid

HINTON, Alta. (CP)—Charges will be laid against several men who refused to fight a forest fire last week, an RCMP spokesman said Monday. Under the Forests Act, a person convicted of the offence is liable to a fine of not less than $25 and not more than $300.

STUDENTS DEMONSTRATE IN MONTREAL

MONTREAL (CP) — About 250 students demonstrated in central Montreal Monday for a second French-language university in the city, and placed a symbolic first stone on the site that has been touted as the university's possible home.

Led by Pierre Lefrancois, president of the Union generale des etudiants du Quebec — a Quebec student union — the demonstrators signed a petition demanding immediate action from the government.

Mr. Lefrancois said that although the University of Montreal will hold 25,000 students by 1975, by 1971 there will be at least 26,000 more seeking admission.

Suicide Reported Of Controversial China Playwright

MOSCOW (AP) — A Communist Chinese playwright, whose allegorical attack on Mao Tse-tung was said to have sparked the current powers struggle in China, was reported Monday to have mysteriously commited suicide.

The Soviet News agency Tass said playwright Wu Han and two other persons who had been targets of Communist party chairman "cultural revolution" were reported to have killed themselves the same day. It quoted unidentified foreign correspondents' reports of Canton wall posters.

The three were reported to have committed suicide "because they did not repent their deeds," Tass said.

The other two were said to be Teng To, former chief editor of the Chinese Communist party newspaper, and historian Liao Mo-sha.

NEWEST ADDITION to the musical life of this city is Raymond Ovens who arrived last week to take over the important post of concert master in the Victoria Symphony Orchestra. Mr. Ovens was associate leader of the City of Birmingham Symphony Orchestra prior to coming to Victoria. His professional orchestra career began when he left the Royal Academy of Music in 1952 and joined the London Symphony. From 1957 to 1964 he was a member of the Royal Philharmonic and became principal of the second violin section under Sir Thomas Beecham. He was a regular recitalist for the BBC.

Ontario Officials Veto Adoption Application

PRESTON, Ont. (CP)—Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Timbrell's application to adopt two little girls who have been living with them for the last six months has been rejected.

The Timbrells, who are Anglican, sought to adopt the two Roman Catholic children after the Children's Aid Society decided to place them in separate homes.

The sisters, Peggy, 5, and Valerie, 3, were to be removed in August, but Mrs. Timbrell refused to give them up.

"I have no idea what to do now," she said after receiving a registered letter from W. A. Hunsberger, director of the Waterloo County Children's Aid Society, telling her to produce the children at the society's Kitchener office Thursday.

In a statement issued in Kitchener, Mr. Hunsberger said the CAS had decided, after "exhaustive evaluation" of their needs, that the interests of the children would best be met in a home other than the Timbrells'.

"For this reason they have been asked as foster parents to return the children to the CAS," he said. "Mrs. Timbrell and the public must be aware that custody of the children remains with the CAS through the Crown guardianship as awarded by the court."

Andy Stephen Looks at TV

CBC-TV's newest public affair program, The Way It Is, hit the air Sunday with run-of-the-mill topics and up against some very tough competition.

The program is the successor to Sunday of last season and This Hour has Seven Days.

Stephen

For those who like to associate things nationally to local areas, the host is Prof. John Saywell, dean of arts and sciences at Toronto's York University. He is a native of Lake Cowichan.

The only familiar face among the many interviewers performing their duties was Patrick Watson. The others will probably grow on you, although there is nothing distinctive about them physically or otherwise.

The topics were nothing exceptional in our modern world. In fact, some of them have been handled with much more superior skill on other programs of similar ilk.

Such as coeds at a contraceptive teach-in discussing the rights or wrongs of the pill. "Better to be safe than sorry," said one cutie.

Or, Negro militants being taught commando tactics. "First, you grab him down here and tear his —— out, then you clip . . ."

Shocking? Well, maybe. But two years ago, This Hour Has Seven Days had the country sitting on the edge of its respective seat with such revelations.

Today's world is conditioned to such matters.

The program also ran smack-dab up against Mutiny On The Bounty on CTV and ABC-TV. It starred Marlon Brando and Trevor Howard and an all-star hip-shaking cast.

The movie, which cost $18 million and three years to make, had already had the audience with its from 8 p.m., and was only in the middle of its telling when The Way It Is hit the air.

Even though Ford did its best to kill it with too many commercial breaks, a far cry from the tasteful handling of The Bridge On The River Kwai last season, the public knew the movie was to be shown on this night many months ago.

Surely, CBC knew it too. But, then, that's the way it is.

Trustees and Teachers Poised to Negotiate

Both the Greater Victoria School Board and teachers hope to negotiate next year's contract without arbitration.

At the same time, teachers [illegible] all three capital region school districts have served notice they want increased pay and better working conditions in their 1968 contracts.

No details have been spelled out in letters sent to school boards but bargaining has begun.

This will likely be delayed until after the convention of the B.C. School Trustees' Association in Vancouver Oct. 4 to 6.

It was an arbitration board last December which awarded Greater Victoria teachers a pay increase averaging 8 per cent. The teachers wanted 15 per cent and the board at first offered 5.34 per cent.

TEACHERS' GOALS

The B.C. Teachers' Federation last month urged district teachers' associations to seek "significant" salary increases. It also advised them to bargain for supplementary sick leave benefits, shared-cost group life insurance and provisions for detached duty.

In Greater Victoria a teacher with two years at university and no classroom experience earns $4,400. A teacher with at least six years at university and 14 years classroom experience is paid $10,840.

About 24 of the district's 1,200 teachers are earning this maximum. Pay rates for teachers in Sooke and Saanich are slightly less.

Oct. 31 is the deadline for school boards and teachers' associations to arrive at contract terms.

Failing agreement, a conciliator is appointed and if he fails to produce a contract by Nov. 14, the issue goes to a three-man arbitration board which will dictate a contract by the end of the year.

STRIKE OUTLAWED

Teachers are forbidden to strike by law but could adopt other tactics such as mass resignations.

In Greater Victoria, trustees and teachers' representatives met informally two weeks ago and both sides agreed a negotiated settlement was highly desirable.

At the moment, Mrs. Kory Regan, president of the Greater Victoria Teachers' Association, said teachers' negotiators are waiting word from the board following the association's letter sounding the first note in contract negotiations.

Forged Documents Charged in Case

KIMBERLEY (CP) — Ronald Ivan MacDonald, recently hired as a psychologist by the Kimberley school board, has been remanded until Friday on a charge of false pretences and two charges of uttering forged documents.

MacDonald was released on $2,000 bail.

Harvey Drdul school district secretary-treasurer, said in an interview an applicant was interviewed on Aug. 18 and subsequently hired, but that charges were laid Friday following an investigation involving qualifications.

Kimberley is a southeastern British Columbia community.

PERSON INTERVIEWED

Mr. Drdul said board members who did the interviewing were satisfied with the applicant.

"The interview had been backed up with impressive credentials, recommendations from doctors of psychiatry from McGill University and a transcript of academic standing bearing the university seal."

The applicant started work Sept. 18.

Mr. Drdul said suspicions were aroused last Thursday by a call from a man who had moved to the area from Port Arthur.

After an investigation, it was found the employee had no qualifications, Mr. Drdul said.

"The district school superintendent and myself had a private discussion with him, but we cannot say what was said.

"After the discussion the matter was placed in the hands of the RCMP and Friday morning he was taken into custody and charged."

Repairmen Win Boost In Minimum

A new minimum wage of $2 an hour for electronic technicians effective Oct. 30 was announced Monday by the labor department.

The new order replaces a previous minimum wage of $1.50 an hour. It also stipulates overtime of time and a half after 40 hours in any one week.

It is applies to technicians employed in designing, repairing, adjusting and installing short wave and ultra-high frequency receiving and transmitting equipment and radio and electronic equipment including home radio receivers, televisions, record players, public address and audio-amplifier systems and industrial electronic equipment.

Persons employed as electronic technicians in radio broadcasting stations are exempt from the order because they come under federal, not provincial, jurisdiction.

Red Guards 'Rampaging' In Tibet

NEW YORK (Reuters)—Chinese Red Guards rampaging through Tibet had reduced the country to a bloody battlefield of sacked monasteries and temples, says Gyalo Thondup, brother of Tibet's exiled Dalai Lama.

"Tibet is today a vast prison for the Tibetan people who have been completely subjugated by the Chinese," he told a press conference Monday.

Chinese occupation forces, which maintain a tight grip on the mountain nation, have killed and imprisoned thousands of Tibetans while rival Red Guards fought among themselves and destroyed priceless works of art, books and religious objects, he said.

Thondup, who is here to seek support among United Nations delegates for his country's fight for freedom, said the Chinese conquered Tibet because of its strategic location.

Today, Tibet is turned into an impregnable and gigantic military base from which the Chinese can invade and threaten other countries such as India, Nepal and Burma, he said.

King Blasts Church Silence

King said church bodies were "too busy with ecclesiastical machinery."

He said the silence of church bodies sanctions the war in Vietnam.

The civil rights leader said when he first took his stand against the Vietnam war, only 21 per cent of the American people opposed it.

"Now," he said, "the latest poll shows 54 per cent against it and many more confused by the whole situation."

"The largest Protestant denomination in America, the Southern Baptist Convention, will spend millions on missionary work in Africa. But if an African came to worship in their churches on Sunday, 90 per cent of them would kick the Negro out," he said.

Embezzlement Charge

CHILLICOTHE, Ohio (UPI)—A slender blonde Sunday school teacher, described as "deeply religious," was arraigned today on charges she embezzled nearly half a million dollars from the bank where she was head bookkeeper. Mrs. Betty Storer, 37, was arrested Monday by the FBI and charged with making false entries totaling $427,053 in the records of the Peoples Bank and Trust Co. of Belpre, Ohio.

Full Slates For Liberals, CCF in Sask.

REGINA (CP) — The Liberal party, in power for 3½ years, and the CCF party they deposed, were the only parties with full slates of candidates as 165 hopefuls filed official nomination papers Monday for Saskatchewan's Oct. 11 general election.

The total was two more than for the 1964 election and short of the record of 225 set in 1960.

The Progressive Conservative party will contest 41 of the 59 seats at stake. The Social Credit party has six candidates.

Party standing when the legislature was dissolved was Liberal 31, CCF 26, Progressive Conservative one, and one vacant.

Two CCF supporters filed as CCF-NDP candidates. Russ Brown in Souris-Estevan and Walter Mills in Nipawin.

Sailor Rescued

CHATHAM, Mass. (AP) — A 64-year-old Chicago man, adrift in the Atlantic aboard his yacht for 10 weeks after it was damaged in a storm en route to Sweden, was rescued Sunday off the Chatham coast. Nels B. Nelson and his 30-foot yawl, Savina, were towed to shore by a U.S. Coast Guard lifeboat after being spotted by a fishing vessel. With him was his pet beagle.

COLD STARE and firm grip was policeman's response to motorcycle gang member Peter Lordon, of Hamilton, when he puckered up and made kissing noises. Lordon was one of 64 members of "Satan's Choice" gang arrested in 84-man police raid in Markham, Ont., outside Toronto, where group was holding its first "annual convention". (CP Wirephoto.)

Industrial Park Law Same for Everyone

No exceptions to landscaping regulations will be permitted in Esquimalt's industrial park and the by-law will not be changed.

This was the decision of the municipality's zoning committee Monday night.

Edward Liersch, a property owner in the area, said the by-law requiring landscaping and a 25-foot setback is discouraging building plans and buyers.

He reported his property is triangular shaped and unsuitable for such regulations.

"There should be some consideration given in the by-law for odd shaped lots," he said.

But Coun. Roy Elphick opposed any exception.

"If an exception came in one case, the by-law would soon be worthless."

The committee agreed the price of property in the area had increased since the passing of the by-law and decided this was the limiting factor in the growth of the area, not the by-law itself.

. . . CARTER

Carter proposals to rescind special tax holidays for newly-opened mines. The tax concession was important for Alberta and B.C. because, without the mining industry, they would be thrown back on agriculture as their industry base—"and where would the government get its tax dollars, then?"

"I don't think that Carter is going to be implemented as a package. I don't think the people or the politicians want it.

CONDUCTED SURVEYS

"In the sampling we did in Vancouver, mainly through radio hot-lines and that sort of thing, we were convinced that once the people know what are the Carter proposals, nine out of 10 of them would be opposed."

British Columbia's economy was sensitive to federal tax law, "and we're scared," the board's spokesman added. "We don't feel we can gamble in this guinea-pig approach."

Mr. Barbeau said the Vancouver Board of Trade agreed with the Carter report that there should be a standard rate of corporate taxation, and the low rate of 21 per cent for companies earning under $35,000 a year should be ended.

Capital gains should be taxed at a flat rate no higher than the U.S. rate, and should not be taxed at the full rate of normal income as proposed by Carter, he added.

Rites for Woman Who Won Unique Honor by Sailing

Funeral services were held Monday from McCall Bros. for Miss Bella Rose Chisholm, 88, the only woman who had ever been a life member of the Thermopylae Club.

Miss Chisholm qualified for the unique honor because she sailed with her father, Capt. Dan Chisholm, between Nova Scotia and the Caribbean on trading missions.

Miss Chisholm, who died in a private hospital here last week, was born at Great Village, near Truro, N.S., and came to Vancouver Island 40 years ago.

B.C. Tories Gain

VANCOUVER (CP)—The provincial leader of the Progressive Conservatives said Sunday his party's change of national leadership has prompted a surge of new members in B.C. Malcom Wickson said that since the leadership convention chose Robert Stanfield, his office has been receiving four or five calls a day from persons wanting to join the party.

CHURCH GROUP ASKS STUDY OF SEXUALITY

By JO-ANN PRICE
Special to the Washington Post

SEATTLE, Wash. — The Episcopal House of Deputies last week debated and adopted a measure calling on the church's executive council to initiate studies expressing "Christian attitudes" to human sexuality.

The deputies' action, now up for concurrence by the House of Bishops at the Episcopal general convention, asked for church-wide study of the findings.

Approval by both laymen and clergy in the House of Deputies came after debate in which a report attached to these resolutions came under attack by Federal District Judge Oliver Gasch of Washington, D.C.

The report scored "self-centred uses of sex."

Judge Gasch, who is chancellor of the diocese of Washington, maintained that the report appeared at several points to be "contrary" to statements made in the New Testament about fornication and adultery.

The document took note of the so-called "new morality" and observed that "the traditional and often stereotyped attitudes of the churches may no longer provide guidance for people today." As a result, the church appears to many youths as "puritanical, censorious, and somehow unreal."

It is the place of the church to take note of the broader implications of sexuality, the report said, and help men and women to avoid "exploitive" uses of sex and to engage in "satisfying, self-fulfilling and responsible ways of expressing their sexuality."

In an apparent reference to homosexuality, the document said the church must take a positive stand in "forgiving and assisting those who have suffered from censures or other consequences of their behavior."

The preamble of the resolution approved by the deputies inferentially took note of proposals that criminal penalties for homosexual acts between consenting adults be eliminated from state laws. It said civil laws should make a distinction between those laws "which are necessary for the protection of society and those which attempt to regulate private moral choice."

Thursday the House of Bishops approved and sent to the deputies a measure initiated by the diocese of Long Island, N.Y., calling for abortion law reforms along lines recommended by the American Law Institute. The resolution condemned "abortions of convenience," but supported those needed to protect a prospective mother's physical or mental health.

APPOINTED chief justice of the Ontario High Court by Prime Minister Pearson is Mr. Justice Dalton C. Wells.

. . . OPPOSITION

Defence Minister Leo Cadieux. All were absent engaged on government business.

When opposition members complained over the number of vacant Cabinet benches, Mr. Pearson suggested sarcastically that if the opposition members would give the Cabinet notice of "important questions" that it intends to ask, members of the cabinet could ensure they would be present. As it was, he pointed out, the niceties of giving "notice" of questions had been forgotten.

When the House opened there were polite formalities and speeches of praise about the former leader of the opposition, the former transport minister and the promotions received by some members of the Cabinet. As soon as the formalities were dispensed with up jumped George Chatterton, Conservative backbencher for Esquimalt-Saanich.

Mr. Chatterton moved for the immediate adjournment of the regular business to discuss a matter of urgent public importance—namely—housing. He complained that the housing crisis was getting rapidly worse and the government was apparently doing little to meet the situation.

NDP leader Douglas leaped to his feet ot say he had planned to move such a motion. Obviously the NDP had hoped to pick up the ball and run away from the official opposition but the Conservatives anticipating such a ploy by the socialists had outmanouevred them.

Liberal House Leader Allan MacEachen attempted to handle the united opposition attack. He aroused hoots and shouts of derision. When the government came under fire over wheat the opposition was hard after the prime minister again. It was a rough day.

So steady was the assault on the government benches and so often did Mr. Pearson have to rise to fend off the barrage of questions that a young Conservative MP apologized when he rose to put yet another question. He prefaced his query with the "hope" that it was not "exhausting" the prime minister.

Mr. Pearson gave his awry grin.

SAN FRANCISCO PUTS VIETNAM ON BALLOT

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The San Francisco registrar of voters has certified the question of whether the United States should withdraw from the war in Vietnam for inclusion on the November municipal ballot.

The board of supervisors was informed Monday that the initiative petitions carried far in excess of the 11,900 valid signatures needed to put it on the ballot.

The question will be known as Proposition P and will read:

"Should the United States withdraw its armed forces from Vietnam?"

Fewer B.C. Strikes Reported This Year

Strikes in B.C. are down sharply this year compared with the first six months of last year.

Figures from the federal labor department reflect the quiet contract-renewal year compared with last year, when many major and minor contracts came open and were generally renewed for two years.

Cumulative figures are not available, but the individual monthly statistics for B.C. show that in only one of the six months this year were there more strikes than in the corresponding period last year.

Completed figures will not be available until early next year. The provincial labor department does not issue monthly figures but waits until about February to give the full year's picture.

Also only in one month this year did the number of man-days lost by strikes exceed the corresponding month last year. In several months the decrease this year was sharp — only 6,870 days in June compared with 88,810 days in June, 1966, and only 650 days last January compared with 9,250 days in January, 1966.

The number of workers involved in strikes was also down in four months this year but up slightly in the other two. The number in June was only 710 compared with 15,708 workers out in June of 1966.

Nationally, the trend was more mixed but generally showed an increase in both numbers and effects this year compared with last, reflecting the number of disputes in the east.

More strikes began during four of the first six months last year than this but more workers were involved in four of the first six months of this year than last.

Time lost was up in four of the six months this year when compared with the same period last year and also the percentage of total time worked.

The percentage of time lost through strikes against total time worked ranged from a low of 0.07 per cent in March to a high of 0.5 per cent in June.

Last year, the range was from 0.12 per cent in January to 0.38 per cent in April.

Draft-Dodger Aid Wins Backing Of United Church

TORONTO (CP) — The United Church of Canada Monday issued a statement recommending that Canadians welcome Americans who "for reasons of conscience refuse to do military service in the war in Vietnam."

The board of evangelism and social service passed a resolution which suggested that Canadians should give the Americans:

- Temporary residence in their homes;
- Practical and financial support during the time of adjustment to their new surroundings;
- Employment according to the individual's training and skills, and the job availability on the Canadian labor market.

The board also suggested that Americans coming to Canada should apply for proper legal status as "landed immigrants" and that a $1,000 grant be given to local volunteer groups who provide assistance to them.

WORTH HIS WEIGHT IN GOLD is Tiger, the chief and the only mouser at the Lockheed Propulsion Company's test facility at Potrero, Calif. Company officials place his worth at about $25,000. They say mice caused $1,800 worth of damage annually to miles of wiring at the facility where countdowns for rocket motor tests are preformed. That was before Tiger appeared on the scene. Now mice are a thing of the past. Tiger often sleeps in the "out" basket alongside the master console and microphone where countdowns are announced. (CP Photo.)

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and of the second question a World Book Atlas or Globe.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Kathy Johnston, age 11, of Richmond, Virginia, for her question:

Are diatoms plants or animals?

A microscope reveals that a tiny diatom lives inside a tiny flass house made from a pair of shells. Many animals, of course, build nests and burrows and many others have shells, for houses. But most people would pooh-pooh the idea of a shell-building plant. Nevertheless, a diatom is a plant.

Diatoms are related to the floating seaweeds and other members of the alga plant family. They are single-celled plants, and the naked eye sees them as tiny dots. The microscope reveals them to be shaped like exquisite little jewel boxes. At least 10,000 different varieties have been classified and choosing the most beautiful would be impossible. Diatoms, like seaweeds, are water plants. They teem in the oceans and rivers, in streams and creeks, in stagnant ponds and pools. Medium-sized diatoms measure 1.000 to an inch and there is no end to the variety of their shapes and delicate designs.

Each little jewel box is a pair of shells made mostly from silica. This durable mineral is dissolved from rocks by running streams, and invisible fragments are dumped into the sea. The single-cell diatom plant extracts silica from water, fragment by fragment, and uses it to build two almost identical shells around itself. The shells are like two tiny trays, joined together by a slender seam to form a box. This is the basic plan. But every variety of diatom adds to its with delicate artwork.

Being a plant, the diatom contains green chlorophyll, which it uses in the presence of sunlight to manufacture its basic food from carbon dioxide and water. As a rule, the diatom also contains a yellowish pigment called diatomin. This may mask its chlorophyll green with amber. A tinge of green or brownish yellow shows through the glassy shell, and teeming diatom populations sometimes color the surface of seas and rivers.

Food for Fish

You are not surprised to learn that the diatom shells are glassy because we use sand to make glass, and sand, remember, is made mostly of silica. We can make dozens of different shapes of glass and have countless designs to add to its natural beauty. But in the field of glassy artwork, the little diatoms can outdo the best of us. Among them we find squares and triangles, ovals and oblongs, globes and dew drops, sticks and sickles, full moons and half moons, discs and daintily pointed doilies. Each of these basic shapes is further adorned with its own delicate design — with buttons, and bumps, pits and pockets, grooves and ridges. And some are etched with lacy nets of the finest lines.

But nature, it seems, does little or nothing to cherish this miniature artwork. The diatom's main purpose in life is to provide food for the fish and other water dwelling creatures. Diatoms by the ton are a vital link in the food chain that sustains life in the hungry ocean. They are rich in plankton, the food of the balleen whale. So you see, the world's biggest animal depends on some of the world's tiniest plants.

Diatoms need light to make their food and hence they must live near the sunlit surface of the sea. They also need carbon dioxide, and the ocean surface teems with fish that add their waste carbon dioxide to the water. The diatoms use it and return fresh oxygen for the fish. This parallels the give-and-take of these gases between plant and animal life on land. Every season, zillions of diatoms perish — and their durable shells sink to the bottom. Some of these diatom deposits are mined and used to make cleaning powders and dozens of other useful items.

And sends a World Book Atlas to Ritchie Belyea, age 10, of St. Catharines, Ontario, Canada, for his question:

Where do tornadoes start to form?

The weather must set up a huge stage in order to create a little tornado. Great air masses form a weather front hundreds of miles long. There is warfare along the battle front between warm air and cool air, damp air and dry. Winds stir up more trouble, blowing in from the sidelines. As a rule, a strong, warm wind blowing down from the western mountains is needed to complete the blustery stage. And when all is set, the huge weather front creates not just one, but often dozens of twisting tornadoes.

Each tornado is a small item in the massive weather picture. It begins to form in stormy clouds high above the ground. The turbulent winds form a twisting spiral that twirls faster and faster. The centre is a column of light, very thin air that is almost a vacuum. It works like a house-cleaning vacuum, sucking particles of the dark cloud, raindrops and perhaps hailstones, into its centre. The young tornado hatches and pokes its wild, whirling finger down toward the ground. As a rule, the dark funnel dangles in the sky. But if it dips low enough to touch the ground, it leaves a narrow path of total destruction.

The Wonderful World of Animals

By DR. FRANK MILLER

DEAR DR. MILLER: We have a puppy less than three months old. She doesn't cause much trouble except she growls and snaps when we bother her even a little, for no reason. This worries us because her sister never does this. Why does she do it?—F.C.

DEAR F.C. Perhaps you shouldn't bother her for no reason. Even so, you should be concerend about her behavior. A pup displaying temper tantrums at this tender age could become practically impossible later on. First step: Have her veterinarian be sure there is no physical reason for her irritability. Next, give her plenty of love, spiced with discipline whenever her temper flares. Start her on a regular training program early, to help channel her energy into constructive channels.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Having heard Siamese kittens require more extras for bone growth, I've been giving ours extra Vitamin D. The kitten doesn't ever get outside so I figured this would make up for no sunshine.—T. B.

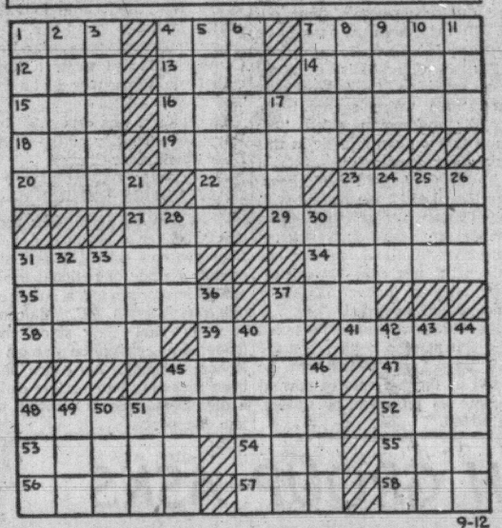

DEAR T.B.: Growing Siamese (felines) do require a high level of available bone-building materials, especially calcium. While some Vitamin D might be beneficially added if the feline fare were unusual, most diets contain adequate amounts. Besides, this vitamin, overdosed, is highly toxic, causing potentially fatal kidney damage. Bone building additives may be a good idea for your kitten, but the emphasis should be on additional calcium. The safest approach is to have a veterinarian prescribe a supplement and dosage.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Two years ago I was given Maggie, a big, ugly-green, irascible parrot. The woman who gave her to me moved before I could give her back and I was stuck. In the last two months, we are getting to understand each other and she has calmed down—physically if not vocally. But in this time her toenails have been getting awfully long and need cutting. I have a pair of regular toenail clippers. Would they do the job? And more importantly, should I try to do it?—F. McF.

DEAR F. McF.: Those nail clippers would do the job all right, but I don't think you should try wielding them. Maggie would undoubtedly resist your efforts even if you didn't cut her nails too short. She has a pretty potent pair of nippers herself and could be expected to try pruning you down to size at the same time. To avoid mental and physical trauma on both sides, I'd recommend you have her nails trimmed by an expert.

He Blew the Bite Back Into His Dog

COVINA, CALIF. (AP) — Cliff McAdams says he now has paid his debt to his dog by performing mouth-to-mouth resuscitation. The dog bit him four times during the process, but revived.

Four years ago Teddie, a shepherd - chow combination, saved McAdams and other members of the family who slept while their home filled with gas from a leak.

"All day Sunday Teddie was very sick," McAdams related.

"His breathing was heavy and we were afraid he was dying."

"Teddie apparently was dead. I began breathing into his mouth, putting my mouth inside his, and about three minutes later I felt a slight quiver in his lips.

"Then he went into convulsions. That's when he hit me, superficially on the cheeks and once clear through my upper lip. I kept on breathing into him."

Teddie had suffered a severe heart attack.

Lieutenant-Governor turns on charm.

SCHOLAR, JU-JUTSU ADHERENT

Practical Princess Dainty Guest

By NORMAN CRIBBENS

So this was the princess who blistered her hands digging for history in the ruins of Ancient Egypt.

This was the princess who practised ju-jitsu, who speaks five languages and is a scholar in philosophy, political science, archaeology and state law.

It was hard to believe.

The tall winsome young woman, with the nut-brown hair, who came to Victoria Monday afternoon looked rather like a hot-house flower.

'You Are Most Kind'

Her dainty checkered beret, carnation-pink suit and shapely silken legs were the ultimate in femininity, as were her tiny black shoes.

"Your are most kind," she told Mr. Pearkes as he welcomed her to British Columbia.

But the shy smile expanded when a tiny Danish girl — two-and-a-half-year-old Karen Huus — stepped forward to present her with a bouquet of marguerites, her favorite flower.

Karen waved the rose in one hand and a small Danish flag in the other as the princess left the airport. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. K. Huus who came to Victoria from Denmark eight years ago.

Before leaving, Princess Margrethe and her hansome dark-suited husband, Prince Henrik, went through the protocol of greeting government officials and their wives assembled alongside the aircraft.

They included Attorney-General and Mrs. Robert Bonner, Mayor and Mrs. Hugh Stephen of Victoria, Provincial Secretary L. J. Wallace and William Budd, executive assistant to Premier Bennett, now visiting Europe.

Prince Henrik walked a pace behind the princess but without any air of apology. Until his marriage to Princess Margrehte last June he was Count Henri de Laborde de Monpezet — an acknowledged French diplomat.

Only the Danish flag — a white cross on a red field — was flown at the airport when the royal couple arrived. This was in contrast to earlier royal visits when the Maple Leaf, the Royal Ensign, the Centennial flag and the B.C. Sunset flag were flown in unison.

No Royal Guard

There was no royal guard of honor and no 21-gun salute.

One Centennial official said these recognitions were reserved for British royalty. Another said it was considered "too expensive." A third pointed out that Princess Margrethe and her husband had already received the royal treatment when they arrived in Ottawa last week.

The royal couple travelled to Government House via a scenic route that includes Beach Drive and the Dallas Road waaerfront and, at odd points, they were welcomed with quiet cheers and the waving of small flags.

Down to Earth

At Government House they were hosted at a small but very exclusive black-tie banquet.

When UNESCO appealed for assistance to preserve Ancient Egyptian sites from oblivion, the princess went to Nubia with a Scandinavian expedition and helped in the rescue work.

In 1963 she went to Paris to learn more French and in 1965, between official duties, she studied at the London School of Economics.

"It is easier for me to do this sort of thing abroad than it is at home because I am not so well known abroad," the princess said.

Of her experiences as an archaeologist, the princess is quoted as saying:

"One experiences the joy of literally seeing the past grow forth from the ground. There is a sensation of contributing to the writing of history, even though the objects one finds are only one of the countless pieces that form the history of mankind."

Princess Margrethe is the only daughter of King Frederick and Queen Ingrid to study at Denmark's two universities — Copenhagen and Aarhus.

Her interest in archaeology is attributed to her grandfather — King Gustaf of Sweden — whom she accompanied many times on study trips to Italy.

Solidarity Shaky Says IWA Chief

BERGER
. . . at next session

VANCOUVER CP) — The retiring president of the International Woodworkers of America said Monday labor unions are either falling behind or becoming stagnant in their fight for solidarity.

A. F. Hartung of Portland, Ore., speaking at the regional convention of the IWA here, said solidarity is weaker than it has ever been in the past and it seems harder to get through to the young people who may be interested in unionism.

"They don't appreciate the problem as we older people do," he said. "They have all the modern conveniences we didn't have and had to fight for."

Mr. Hartung said if every labor man in the United States and Canada refused to handle any commodity produced by scab labor then the reactionary forces could never break a strike.

"These big corporations will soon own us, lock stock and barrel. And there is nothing being done to stop them. Financiers are running all over the continest looking for operations to buy and the prices they are paying are about 40 per cent above the value of the operations."

The 200 delegates attending the meeting adopted a resolution asking that a price review board be established to control prices and product labelling.

A five-point IWA program includes:

Public hearings to focus on unjustifiable price increases;

Regulating packaging and labelling;

Establishing a research staff to study pricing, packaging and labelling;

Development of a full scale consumer information program.

"Huge corporation profits are taking the lions' share of the wealth produced by workers," he said.

Murray Drew, president of the Victoria local, proposed formation of an international strategy committee to standardize wages among woodworkers in Canada and the U.S.

He said the committee should set its aims of making sure that all workers receive the same wages for the same work.

"This is not going to be any easy task," Mr. Drew said, "but it is one that must be tackled if we are to survive and grow as we should."

Tenant Rights Bill Proposed

VANCOUVER (CP) — Vancouver Burrard MLA Tom Berger said Sunday he will introduce a Tenant's Bill of Rights during the next legislative session.

Speaking at a meeting of the Vancouver Centre NDP Mr. Berger said it is absurd to apply a 250-year-old English act to B.C.'s existing urban, industrial and mobile society.

He said the new bill would stipulate that the rent for any home, suite or apartment could not be raised for a period of one year after a new tenant moved in.

"And in view of the current housing shortage existing throughout the province, I would also include that two months notice would have to be given when tenants decide to move," he said.

Mr. Berger said his bill would also outlaw discrimination, give caretakers a better salary and compel the landlord to keep up repairs to the dwelling.

Arab Rivals Agree

CAIRO (Reuters)—South Arabia's two rival nationalist organizations called a ceasefire Monday in their civil war and agreed to meet in this Egyptian capital Oct. 3 to discuss formation of a government to take over when Britain quits the federation Jan. 9.

Right to Strike Seen in Danger

VANCOUVER (CP) — A warning that "powerful forces" in British Columbia are trying to bring in compulsory arbitration to set wages instead of collective bargaining was given Monday by a leading labor official.

Jack Moore, regional president of the International Woodworkers of America, told the union's regional convention that these forces must be resisted.

He said the forces want compulsory arbitration to take away a worker's right to strike.

A resolution calling for arbitration in disputes involving civic workers introduced at last week's Union of British Columbia Municipalities convention in Prince George was defeated only through votes from delegates from the ranks of labor, he said.

"If the government of this province continues the program it has at the present time we are going to be saddled with compulsory arbitration," Mr. Moores aid.

"The way the government has manipulated things in the Interior we have come the closest to compulsory arbitration that we have seen in this industry.

"The government is determined to force unsatisfactory recommendations on people in the Interior and has refused to give them the right to withdraw their labor legally to better their wages and working conditions."

Mr. Moore was referring to the current wage dispute between Interior lumber operators and the IWA. The union rejected an industrial inquiry commission report that recommended a 44-cent-an-hour wage boost for the Interior workers.

The current Interior base rate is $2.26 an hour but the union is seeking a 50-cent wage hike to gain parity with coastal woodworkers.

Earlier, Murray Drew, president of the Victoria local, welcomed delegates and called for a drive by the union to standardize its wage rates throughout Canada and the U.S. with those in B.C. shows how little the union has done in this province.

FROM S. DAKOTA

Language Scholar Retires to Victoria

A leading figure in Scandinavian languages and literature in North America has chosen Victoria as his home in retirement.

Dr. Richard Beck, 70, retired last spring after 38 years at the University of North Dakota where he served for nine years as chairman of the department of modern and classical languages.

Last week he and Mrs. Beck moved into their new home at 28 Marlborough Street.

Victoria is a natural choice for the native of Iceland.

"I appreciate it's old world charm," he said today, "which is not to suggest it is not progressive too."

For Mrs. Beck the choice was even easier. The former Margaret Brandson, she was born here. Her parents moved from Iceland to Victoria in 1887.

Dr. Beck graduated from the state college at Reykjavik, the capital of Iceland. He came to Winnipeg in 1921 and a year later went to Cornell University at Ithica, N.Y., for graduate work in English and Scandinavian languages and literatures.

He received his MA degree in 1924 and his doctorate two years later, joining the staff at the University of North Dakota in 1929.

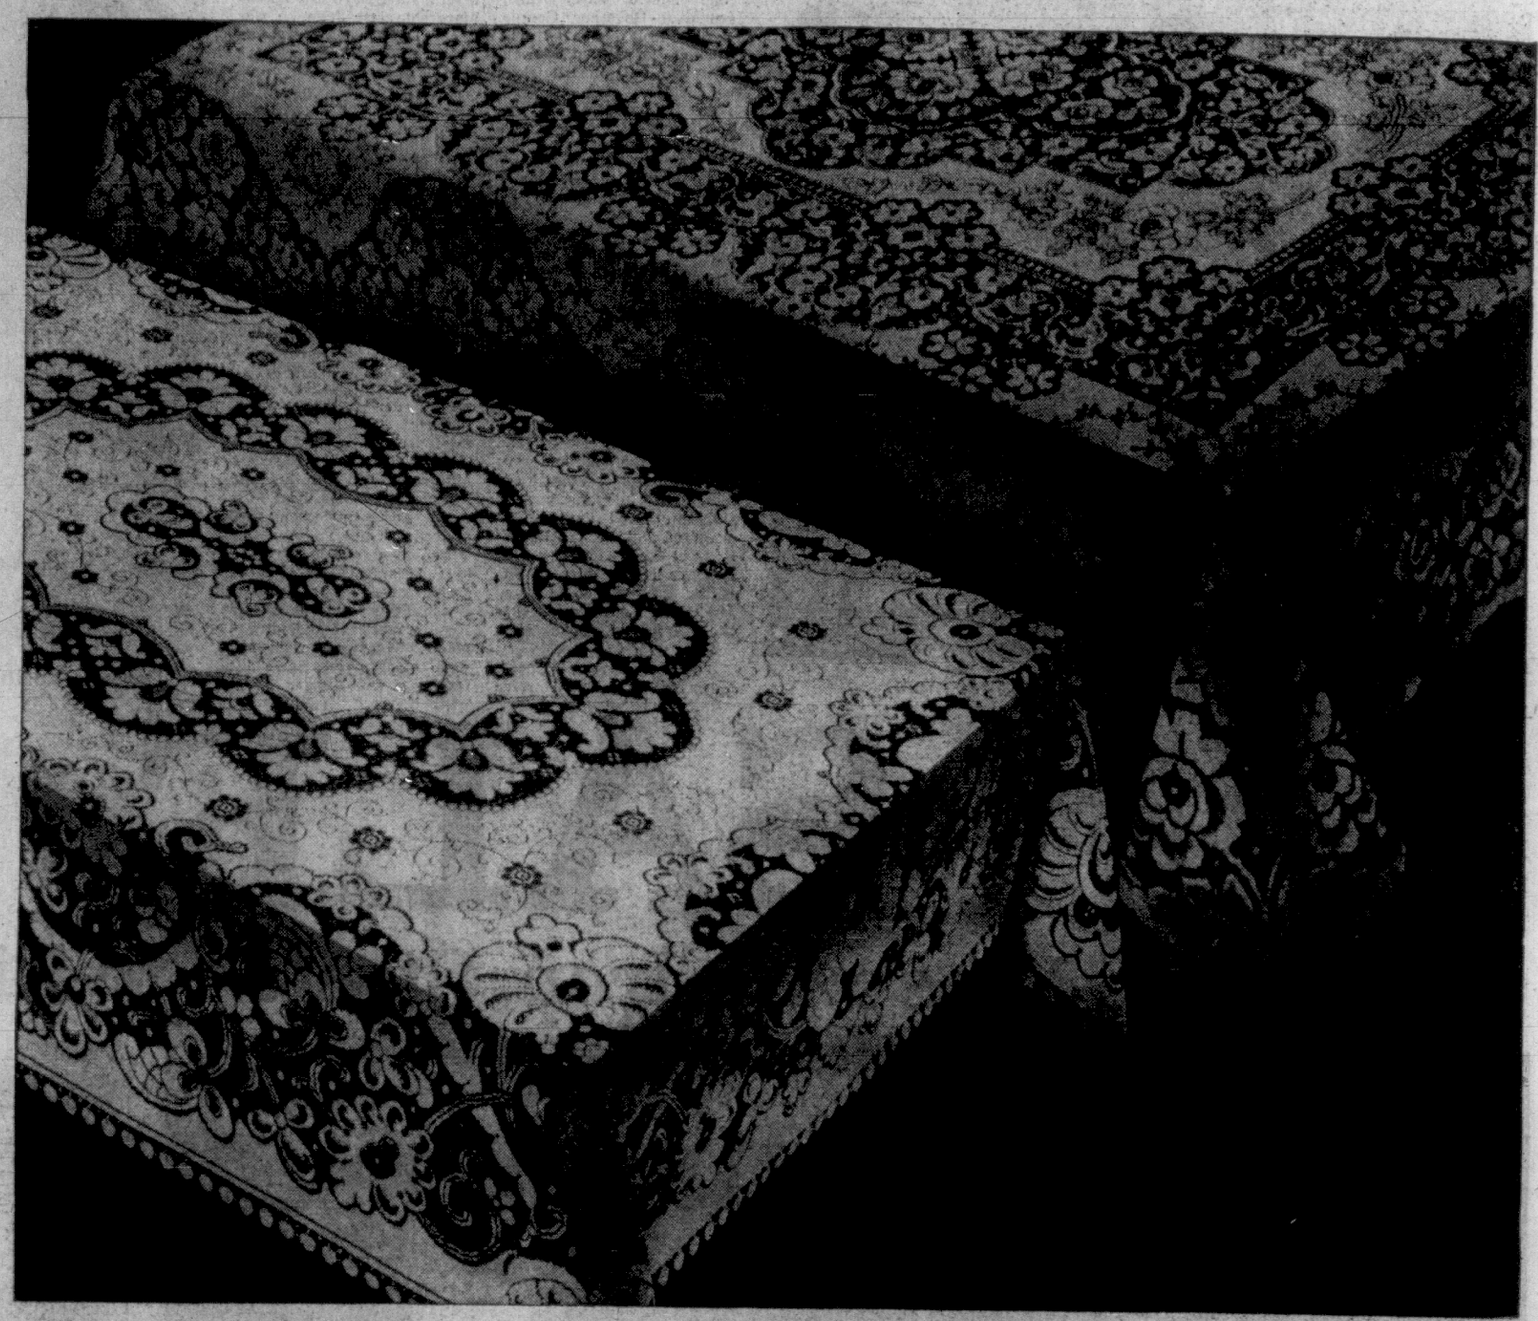

An internationally known scholar and productive writer, he is author of numerous articles and book reviews on Scandinavian subjects, especially Icelandic and Norwegian. He has delivered over 1,200 addresses in many parts of the U.S., Canada, Norway and Iceland.

While the Becks intend to enjoy their favorite park at Beacon Hill to the full, the linguist said he wants to write a detailed study of the late B.C. Premier Byron Johnson, the son of Icelandic pioneers.

He also wants to write about other Icelandic pioneers who made the Victoria area their home.

The Becks settled in Victoria after spending several summers here. They have two nieces living in the city and other relatives at Nanaimo and Vancouver.

United Appeal

SIX ON TARGET FOR START OF DRIVE

By TED GASKELL

Six divisions of the United Red Feather-Red Cross appeal had filled their quotas and poured $9,000 into the appeal's coffers by the time the drive was officially opened at an 8 a.m. breakfast today.

Mayor Hugh Stephen officially opened the drive proclaiming October and November as United Appeal months. He stressed that this is the most important year in the appeal's history and urged the public to think of "mankind as a club to which we owe a subscription."

●

He named six divisions who earned achievement scrolls.

One of them was the staff of the Handicapped Children's Clinic, new agency this year, who donated its full quota of $365.

First returns in were from the department of revenue and taxation division with $1,870 from its 114 employees.

Others reaching 100 per cent are Imperial Equipment, $269.40; Smith Cedar Products, $2,925; Standard Furniture, $1,500 and participating for the first time, Woolco with $2,200.

G. F. Auchinleck, campaign chairman, told the 175 division chairmen and award winners from last year, that this is a Appeal which faces its toughest challenge ever faced in Victoria.

He was referring to the inclusion of the Red Cross in the United Appeal for the first time and the fact that the target this year is increased from $450,000 in 1966 to $600,000.

"Success in reaching the goal will prove that we are ready to take yet another major step towards establishing a truly United Appeal here in Victoria," he said, adding that in other parts of Canada where Red Cross and Red Feather have joined full support by communities has been received.

He urged canvassers and firm executives to concentrate on communication. He said the executive's attitude will be reflected in the employees' attitude. He told canvassers that knowledge of the 24 participating agencies is important and a correct and ready answer might mean the difference between a one dollar donation and $10.

●

"People like to know where their money is going. You can't sell United Appeal on the basis that it happens every fall like the World Series and is a good thing," he warned.

He reported that a number of companies had donated increased amounts this year. One was one third higher, another 75 per cent more, one 60 per cent and another gave 40 per cent more this year.

"Results to date indicated that we have not tackled a monster this year. The general public is behind us in our step towards a truly United Appeal and if we have a sense of urgency that will make us push a little harder, there is no doubt that we will go over the top," Mr. Auchinleck said.

LIFTED from 58-day stay in 60-foot cocoanut tree is Quirino Berja, 48, who went into the tree in July fearing that men who killed his son were after him too. President Marcos of the Philippines ordered an air force helicopter to make the rescue 100 miles north of Manila in response to pleas from the man's family. Postal Rate To Be Hiked On Letters

HARLINGEN, Tex. (AP)—Rio Grande floodwaters surged into downtown Harlingen today and crept over roofs in some residential sections as runoff rainwater loosed by Hurricane Beulah thundered toward the Gulf of Mexico.

At least 200 homes, some of them in the $50,000 class, were inundated. More than 5,000 persons, or one out of eight in this southern Texas city of 41,000, were evacuated.

Damage estimates went past the $1,000,000,000 mark for devastation wrought since the gigantic storm, one of history's most powerful hurricanes, slammed into the Texas-Mexico coast Wednesday.

Commons Approval Required

OTTAWA (CP) — The government served notice today it will raise first-class postal rates in Canada by 1 cent, to 5 cents for local in-town delivery, and to 6 cents for out-of-town letters.

The new rates are to become effective when passed by Parliament.

Rates for first class letters mailed to destinations abroad may also be increased, but these aren't controlled by the Post Office Act which the government is asking the Commons and Senate to amend. They are set by international agreement.

At present, first class letters for local or in-town delivery cost four cents for the first ounce and two cents for each additional ounce.

COTE GAVE NOTICE

The notice given the Commons by Postmaster-General Cote said a measure would be introduced to amend the Post office Act to increase "by one cent the postage rate for letters posted in Canada for delivery in Canada."

The government has previously announced it will also increase rates for newspapers and periodicals.

The post office had a deficit of about $30,000,000 in the 1965-66 fiscal year, the last year for which figures are available, the department sources said.

It would be the first change in first-class postal rates since 1954, when the rate was boosted to five cents from four for out-of-town letters and to four from three for local letters.

BOOST CONFIRMED

Senior post office officials said it is likely that the rates for postcards will go up as well. These could be changed by departmental regulation.

Parliament and the post office department were criticized by the public accounts committee of the House of Commons last October for paying insufficient attention to the loss incurred in handling second-class mail, the category covering newspapers and periodicals.

The committee declared it essential that ways be found to cover this loss "without this being done at the expense of other classes of mail, keeping in mind, however, the need of assistance to small independently owned newspapers circulating in rural areas."

Early House Attack Stuns Government

By VICTOR J. MACKIE
Times Ottawa Bureau

The opposition benches, Conservative, New Democratic Party, Creditiste and Social Credit—but particularly the Tories—pounded questions across at the government benches. They hit hard and continuously.

The government appeared to be caught off balance. Several of the key ministers were absent from the House—away on government business. But it left the burden on the shoulders of Mr. Pearson. It was a heavy load to carry.

The Conservatives, for the first time in many months, were a well-organized team. The NDP, which had hoped to seize the initiative from the Tories, found themselves hard pressed to keep up with the revived and belligerent Official Opposition.

Prime Minister Pearson, without External Affairs Minister Paul Martin (flying to New York) and with J. W. Pickersgill, no longer a member of the House, gone to take a post as head man with the Canadian Transport Commission, had to field many of the questions. He bore up well under the prolonged attack. At one point he grinned and shouted, "same old bunch."

This drew a laugh from both sides of the Commons. It was a bit of repartee John Diefenbaker used to hurl at the Grits when they were hammering him with questions when he was prime minister. Mr. Diefenbaker was not in the House. He is in Saskatchewan and will return to the Commons later.

The Conservatives immediately supported him.

In the Gallery, Stanfield Beamed

Seated in the opposition's gallery above the heads of the Liberal members and facing the Conservative benches, new national Conservative leader Robert Stanfield beamed over the performance of his "boys." Michael Starr, the acting official opposition leader until Mr. Stanfield can get into the Commons, later chuckled outside the House over the discomfiture of the government.

"Did the government expect us to roll over and play dead?" he asked. Barry Mather (NDP—New Westminster) told newsmen after the question period. "I think the government looked pretty weak today."

Only 17 of its 27-member Cabinet were in their seats to answer questions. A total of 28 different subjects were dealt with in the questions. Some of them red-hot issues such as the housing shortage and the soaring cost-of-living.

Striving to handle numerous questions on the price of what and why had it fallen, Mr. Pearson wistfully said he wished Trade and Commerce Minister Robert Winters was in the House to handle the queries. He later explained that Mr. Winters was out of town on government business.

His good humor departed for a brief moment when T. C. Douglas, national leader of the NDP, dug up old election promises to remind Mr. Pearson that he had at one time assured the farmers they would be guaranteed $2 wheat. Mr. Pearson snappishly suggested the NDP leader should not unearth "old election controversies."

E. D. Fulton (PC—Kamloops) enquired immediately if the prime minister's dismissal of that old election promise was an indication of how all his election promises should be regarded?

Among the absentees on the Cabinet benches were Transport Minister Paul Hellyer, Finance Minister Mitchell Sharp, Labor Minister J. R. Nicholson and

Brown Urges Vietnam Talks

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — British Foreign Secretary George Brown called today for immediate peace talks on Vietnam, but said that North Vietnam has "declined to grasp the many opportunities to negotiate that have been offered."

In a wide-ranging policy speech before the 122-nation United Nations General Assembly, Brown appealed again for a settlement of the war on the basis of the Geneva conference on Indochina.

"Both the United States and South Vietnam have said that this basis would be acceptable to them," he said.

As co-chairman of the Geneva conference, the Soviet Union and Britain have the authority to bring Vietnam before that body. But Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko remained adamant against the idea when Brown sounded him out over the weekend.

Brown said during the last year abortive efforts to achieve a Vietnam settlement had been overshadowed by death and destruction.

"There has been no progress in the fighting," he said. "There has been no progress toward a solution."

The gloomy picture he painted reflected conclusions Brown and U.S. State Secretary Dean Rusk reached after private talks Monday that prospects for a Vietnam agreement at this stage are "none too bright."

Rusk and Gromyko conferred three hours Monday night and informants said the Soviet minister hinted he would not be too tough about Vietnam during the current assembly session.

Vietnam is expected to come under examination again tonight when the Big Four Foreign Ministers — Rusk, Brown, Gromyko and France's Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville—are guests of UN Secretary-General U Thant at a dinner discussion.

On the Israeli-Arab confrontation Brown reiterated Britain's

GIVES WORD TO LIBERAL CAUCUS

Pearson Plans to Stay Until Unity Issue Solved

By VICTOR J. MACKIE
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Prime Minister Pearson made it clear to a private Liberal caucus dinner over the weekend that he plans to remian as leader of the party until the national unity problems in Canada have been settled to his satisfaction.

Indications were today that Mr. Pearson is confident that the Quebec situation is now rapidly coming to a head and that it should be resolved within a year.

That would mean he would be retiring from the office of prime minister and national leader in the summer of 1968 and a national leadership convention would be held in the fall or in the winter of 1968-69.

Reports that the Liberal members of parliament and senators attending the dinner cheered a resolution endorsing his leadership and Mr. Pearson's declaration that he would be carrying on were described as "accurate" by several who attended the function.

About 100 to 125 attended the dinner. They had earlier listened in the caucus to Senator David Croll urge Mr. Pearson to settle once and for all the question of whether he would be retiring this fall or carrying on in office. Senator Croll said the Liberal party was in a difficult situation because of the growing crop of rumors that Mr. Pearson would be soon retiring.

HAS QUEBEC CONFIDENCE

The caucus had discussed the "difficult" and "grave" situation in Quebec. The caucus had heard Justice Minister Pierre Elliot Trudeau declare that Prime Minister Pearson enjoyed the confidence of Quebec.

Mr. Pearson told the caucus he would deal with the rumors about his early retirement at the private dinner after the caucus.

He did. He indicated that he felt he had a mandate to unify the country and intended to carry on as leader until he had fulfilled that mandate.

His declaration was enthusiastically applauded. Members of Parliament after the dinner and Monday were privately discussing Mr. Pearson's indication that he would be continuing in office for some time to come.

There were differing interpretations however of just how far he had gone in his declaration

(See Also Page 3)

OTTAWA (CP)—A spokesman for the Vancouver Board of Trade, who spent nearly five hours Monday discussing the Carter royal commission report on taxation with the government, said today he is convinced the controversial Carter proposals are dead.

The government is more interested in reforming the present tax law framework than adopting the radically new proposals proposed by the commission last spring, said Jacques Barbeau, chairman of the Vancouver group's tax committee.

Mr. Barbeau said he came to this conclusion after he and a delegation spent 2 hours Monday with Robert Bryce, deputy finance minister, and officials of the finance department studying the Carter plan, and brief with Revenue Minister Benson, Energy Minister Pepin, and Resources Minister Laing for more than two hours.

"The ministers went to great lengths to emphasize that the Carter report is not the government's report, and that a white paper will be issued this winter which will not be the final outline of tax policy either.

SPEAKS TO PRESS

Mr. Barbeau told a press conference the sweeping proposals of the royal commission headed by Toronto tax consultant Kenneth Carter "allows no regional differences."

"While we are not looking for concessions for British Columbia, the Carter proposals would have far less impact on, say, Ontario, than it would on the Maritime provinces or B.C., he said.

He cited as an example the

11 Children Die of Poisoning in Tijuana

TIJUANA, Mexico (AP) — Eleven children have died from a mystery illness that swept swiftly through poor neighborhoods of this city on the U.S. border. More than 200 persons are in hospital.

Health authorities on both sides of the border made allout efforts today to identify the cause of the ailment that appears to strike mainly at the young.

The authorities' first step was to check milk supplies. But the hunt for the death cause now has spread to water sources and other foodstuffs.

About 20 dairy operators, store owners and vendors were detained by police Monday as part of the investigation. No charges have been filed against them, but police questioned them in the search for the cause of the outbreak.

The dead youngsters, ranging in age from one to 11, come mostly from an area not far from the international border.

Deputy District Attorney Hector Valdivia confirmed that 11 children have died. Hospital authorities said several other children are critically ill.

Scores of children crammed the wards of the city's hospitals, some two to a bed. One hospital reported three dead and more than 60 ill. Doctors worked feverishly to save the ailing children, but said several of them would not survive.

Physicians used universal antidotes and anti-histamines to treat the poisoning, after pumping out the stomach of each child. They said milk was found in the stomach of every child treated.

Dr. Jorge Salas Cepeda said six adults were suffering from the same symptoms as the children. He said the victims suffer from vomiting, diarrhea and general weakness.

Pedro Luna Sanchez said his 10-year-old son developed the symptoms within a half hour after he had a breakfast of bread and milk.

Luna Sanchez, father of 11, said: "It seemed strange. Three other children who had milk from the same bottle did not become sick."

Sanchez said most of the victims seemed to come from a neighborhood known as Calonia Libertad, a hilly residential district that provides a home for many of Tijuana's poor.

Dr. James B. Askew, health director of San Diego, Calif., county said several milk samples have been sent to San Diego for analysis. He said it would be 48 hours before the results were known. San Diego is 15 miles from Tijuana.

The bodies of eight of the victims were sent to San Diego for post - mortem analysis.

Dr. Askew said he believes the poisoning was caused by a chemical poison, rather than a naturally occurring one such as bacteria.

"It's my understanding that the milk was delivered and consumed since Sunday," Dr. Askew said. "Any poisoning this soon would be too fast to be due to an infection.

"It could be any protoplasmic poison, from arsenic, to an insecticide to cyanide."

The first case of poisoning was reported early Monday at the Red Cross hospital. The number of cases increased rapidly until all three of Tijuana's hospitals and several clinics were swamped with sick children and worried parents.

SANDOWN PARK

Analyst's Comments — Wednesday

By HAL MALONE

FIRST RACE — Starlea and Coquahalla are the early steamrollers. Both gave way grudgingly. Chief Malarkey ran into a firecracker in Parisienne Pixie and if you look at the time he's a big danger. Satin's Kin and Ellabhai obviously like the track. The latter made a bold move against easier and is a possibility at a price. Jayie takes a class drop. So does Sikanni Chief but he may need a race over the track. In a cluster . . . STARLEA, Chief Malarkey, Satins Kin.

SECOND RACE — There isn't much to choose between Gernfield Extra and Jokellina. The former didn't break all that well but showed speed and tenacity. Jokellina switches from Sam to Ronald Arnold and may have an edge at the weights. If Miss Mystic goes with Bernfield Extra it would help Jokellina's chances; if Bernfield Extra can draw clear he might stick it out. Concise Answer has an outside chance if the leaders throw it up . . . JOKELLINA, Bernfield Extra, Miss Mystic.

THIRD RACE — If Chocolate Lily gets a free run we look for her and Primali to hook up early. Prince Scorpion is running out of excuses; he's been favored his last three outs and hasn't got the job done. But the spot isn't too hard. Highest Reward gets Harris and used to like the distance. Shodan acts like the mile is perfect but most invaders need a race to get acclimatized. The way she's travelling it's hard to see them holding off Punter's Joy in the stretch if Broomfield can get a clear path . . . PUNTER'S JOY, Prince Scorpion, Shodan.

FOURTH RACE — It will be interesting to see who they put on Velvet Morn. She was beaten by a good one in Alcaloe and if she runs that race back the marbles could be hers. Trineo has been running in the bushes; the package may weigh him down. Red Repulse has a modest charge. Mr. Dixon and Dark Susan like to grapple for the lead with the latter more tenacious. If Sly Alibi had a race over the track she might be the sound one. She may be even without an outing but it's asking a lot. Bo Jester, like Velvet Morn, grinds them down in the stretch. . . . VELVET MORN, Sly Alibi, Bo Jester.

FIFTH RACE — Pils Friday will probably try and steal a long lead and holds the key to the outcome. If they don't run with him they're dead; if they do they might succumb from fatigue. Jakes Special has won twice on the lead and should improve. Brown Wheat is better than her last shows. First Blessing drops and gets Frazier. Grand Idea could awaken under Phillips' baton. The Jones' had a sprint warmup and has met better. One to fear is Sir Silver Scot. He can lay close and come on . . . SIR SILVER SCOT, Pils Friday, Jake's Special.

SIXTH RACE — Look for a dazzling early dogfight here. Littlebitofsugar gets the rider for her style. Trusteen cut out fast fractions in her last and Seemingly improves every race. Frisky Admiral can also hum but the outside hurts. Peaceman hasn't been beating this kind but he's extremely honest and lowers the boom in the last eighth. Taylor Way is also a danger late. In a driving finish. . . . LITTLEBITOFSUGAR, Peace-man, Trusteen.

SEVENTH RACE — They finally dropped Regal Hawk to his seemingly correct social level and he showed tremendous run. This time with a six-pound shift in weights with Hay Billy he may come right back. Red Ensign is in good hands and certainly belongs but gets the worst of the weights. Jubilee's Image has won five and can't be overlooked but like Wifflaw lacks a race here. Glencar ran a dazzler against easier and may be underrated. Panamount fits in an open race . . . REGAL HAWK, Hay Billy, Red Ensign.

EIGHTH RACE — If horses could talk this would be a fine time for Davianna to speak up. If he's right it might be all over. One start isn't much to go on but it was good enough to handle these. G. Day has fair prairie form and Harris helps. Mr. True Blue will be plodding when many are staggering and could share. Laros Boy and Hi-Ma-Dan have some lick. Souzem and Irish Jubilee could make it sticky if they draw in. . . DAVIANNA, G. Day, Souzem.

U.K. Outlaws Ban On Reviving Sick

LONDON (Reuters) — The British health ministry came out during the weekend against any general rule in hospitals forbidding doctors to revive certain patients whose hearts have stopped.

The ministry told the country's 2,500 state hospitals in a letter the decision whether to revive a patient should be made by the doctor handling the case on an individual basis.

The age of the patient, the nature of the underlying disease and the chance of a successful operation should be taken into account, the ministry added.

The letter was the latest move in a national controversy aroused by a typewritten order on a London hospital noticeboard banning attempts to revive certain categories of patients after heart failure.

The notice at Neasen Hospital forbade doctors or nurses to revive the hearts of patients over 65, or those suffering from chronic chest complaints, malignant diseases or kidney diseases.

SELDOM EFFECTIVE

The letter said any form of general instruction is "wholly unacceptable" and added that there are very few cases where resuscitation of the heart is effective.

An investigating committee of the controlling board of the hospital said Friday that a decision on each patient should be made at the highest possible medical level and should not be left to nursing staff.

It commended hospital superintendent Dr. William McMath, 66, for his initiative in laying down a policy, but said the wording of the instruction was unfortunate.

FARMS STAY SMALL

Protest 'Paper Death'

DUESSELDORF (Reuters)—Several hundred demonstrators protested last week the closure here of the popular daily tabloid newspaper Der Mittag by West German press magnate Axel Springer. The demonstrators, led by printing union officials, demanded the nationalization of Springer's press empire which, until now, controlled 31 per cent of daily newspaper sales in West Germany.

and how far into the future that would carry him as leader.

It is known that for some time Mr. Pearson has been viewing with grave concern the developments in Quebec. There has been an escalation of the serious separatist statements in the French-speaking province since President Charles de Gaulle cried out for a free Quebec when he visited Montreal this summer.

FEELS RESPONSIBILITY

Mr. Pearson feels that as prime minister it is his responsibility to carry forward the fight for a unified Canada.

Any plans the prime minister might have had to step into retirement this fall with a leadership convention set for the early months of 1968 have gone by the board.

The seriousness of the separatist developments in Quebec have made him determined to stay as Liberal leader because at this stage he sees no one in sight who could succeed him and cope with the Quebec situation.

He is worried that if he retired now it would aggravate the Quebec situation and might even lead to the province separating from Canada.

One Liberal, high in the party's ranks, volunteered the information that he would not be surprised to see Mr. Pearson continuing in office to lead the party into the 1969 general election on the issue of national unity.

But he said he understood the prime minister was hopeful the Quebec situation could be settled within 12 months enabling him to retire before the next general election.

The drive to get a declaration from Mr. Pearson that he would continue in office was spearheaded by Senator Croll, it is understood, during the weekend of caucus sessions.

TRY TO STOP DRIVE

There were moves from supporters of Finance Minister Mitchell Sharp and Transport Minister Paul Hellyer to try and block the drive. Mr. Sharp and Mr. Hellyer are unofficial candidates to succeed Mr. Pearson as national leader.

Adding strength to the report that Mr. Pearson will be carrying on were reports today that he has cancelled for the time being plans for visiting Australia and New Zealand.

He has been contemplating going to those countries this winter as part of a leisurely preparation for the announcement that he would be resigning with a leadership convention in the spring.

Now he has dropped the Australian plans, indicating that this will be a busy winter for the prime minister.

Forgery Alleged

JOHANNESBURG (UPI)—The Danish-born director of a local printing works today appeared in criminal court charged in connection with the alleged forging of revenue stamps worth more than 3.5 million pounds (10 million dollars). Kai Henry Larsen, 45, was ordered held in custody until Oct. 16.

Newspaper Suspended

SAIGON (AP) — The South Vietnamese government suspended another newspaper today, the fourth this month. The latest was the anti-government Thoi Dai Epoch, a 10,000-circulation Vietnamese-language daily. Its indefinite suspension left the city with 23 dailies.

SAIGON — (UPI)— Militant Buddhists today called for nationwide demonstrations Thursday against President-elect Nguyen Van Thieu. Prime Minister Nguyen Cao Ky warned he would crush them if they got out of hand.

Quebec's Goal 'Independence Or Equality'

QUEBEC (CP)—Gabriel Loubier, Quebec minister of tourism, fish and game, said Monday night the province will demand its independence if it does not achieve "equality" in a few years.

"Equality or independence, that is what we are asking for," he said. "If we do not obtain equality here in a few years—and I don't mean 10 years—we will ask for independence."

Quebec will not wait 10 years without seeking to become independent if the province "does not succeed in negotiating equality of treatment with the Anglo-Canadian nation," he said in an interview.

stand that war should not be the means of settling such disputes and no nation should be allowed to extend its frontier as a result of armed victory.

"But equally," he said, "Israel's neighbors must recognize its right to exist, and it must enjoy security within its frontiers."

He said the complex problem of the Middle East may require "a wider United Nations presence."

Brown said: "A settlement in the Middle East can only come through our United Nations organization."

Brown denounced the manhandling of British mission personnel during recent Red Guard rampages in Peking.

"The attack and burning of our diplomatic Mission in Peking, the manhandling of our charge d'affaires and his staff were matters of grave concern," he said.

He made plain, however, that Britain still believes Communist China should have a seat in the UN.

"Her indefinite exclusion from the international community will benefit neither the people we represent here, nor, for that matter, the Chinese people themselves."

BATTERED CON THIEN FORTRESS

Shells Pour on Marines

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. marines at the strategic northern outpost of Con Thien today took the brunt of the heaviest sustained Communist firepower in Vietnam since the French defeat at Dien Bien Phu. The marines hurled back 10 shells for each one fired at them.

More than 1,000 shells fell Monday on Con Thien, a scarred fortress 2½ miles south of the demilitarized zone and the key to the marine defences astride Communist invasion routes to the South. The marines reported two dead and 202 wounded, and said they believed enemy losses are running high.

Sixty-three Americans have been killed around Con Thien in the three weeks since the North Vietnamese started a battle of attrition.

German Spies Nabbed

BONN (UPI) — West German counter intelligence has cracked five East German spy rings in recent weeks and so far arrested 12 agents, the interior ministry announced Monday.

A spokesman said the 12, among them four women and three married couples, were "highly qualified agents" who had been trained in East Germany and then filtered into West Germany to build up various spy networks.

VICTORIA, B.C., TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 26, 1967—PAGE 17

AN EYE ON THE HAT and a hand on the money was campaign chairman G. F. Auchinleck's way of mixing business with pleasure at a breakfast this morning to officially open the United Red Feather-Red Cross Appeal. The cheque is the Victoria Press, Ltd., donation of $4,800 (up one-third from last year's $3,600) handed over by comptroller Jack Melville. The boudoir cap is worn by public information Phoebe Noble, who wore the cap and a housecoat with the comment "What could be more appropriate for breakfast at 8 o'clock in the morning". Big Brother Tactics In Port Alberni Jail

Television, Bugs Used Says MLA

The provincial government has adopted a "big brother is watching" policy in its jails, Alex MacDonald, New Democratic Party deputy house leader said today.

He told a public meeting here that the new Port Alberni public safety building has been equipped with closed circuit television and listening devices to keep prisoners under surveillance.

Mr. MacDonald said that a letter from the assistant deputy attorney-general "makes it clear that this has been done with this department's full approval and it will be carried out in all of the jails of the province where not already in effect."

He said the installation of the equipment is "a gross abuse of the personal privacy of persons awaiting trial or serving sentences."

'CRUEL'

"Surely it is cruel and unusual punishment when, for every minute of the day and night, there is no privacy of conversation or living."

Mr. MacDonald said the attorney-general's department claims the legal profession favors this surveillance "in the interests or security — I do not believe it."

"Industrial and private snooping is increasing in this province and now the government itself, instead of preventing it, joins in."

Mr. MacDonald also supported Social Credit MLA Cyril Shelford's bid to have the government implement the recommendations on the Morrow royal commission report on gasoline prices.

The disclosure comes 13 months after a major outcry developed over "bugging" equipment in Victoria's Fisgard Street police station.

The city's police commission in August 1966 ordered wire-tapping equipment taken out of the station's visitor-prisoner intercom and other parts of the building where a search revealed it.

Police Chief John Gregory said at the time that listening devices in the building were installed as an experiment.

Only the jail and what was referred to as the security section of the building retained listening equipment as a protection to prisoners and an aid to police in maintaining order in the lock-up.

Under the system currently in use in the second-floor jail, a switch can be thrown by the jailor before he enters the cells. This enables officers on duty on the first floor to listen in case the jailor is attacked by prisoners or requires help for any reason.

Hepatitis Still Unabated In This Area

169 Known Cases To Date This Year

Metropolitan health officer J. L. M. Whitbread said today it is indicated there will be more than 200 cases recorded before the end of 1967.

The most recent week of record—the week ending September 15 — showed 10 new cases. There were 12 reported the previous week.

Prior to the end of August there were 147 cases in this area. Throughout all of 1966 there were only 146.

Dr. Whitbread emphasized in interview that the best way to fight infectious hepatitis is to ensure that all districts are sewered and that personal hygiene is observed.

PATTERN NATIONAL

At the same time, the disease is following a pattern all across Canada—a pattern which appears to repeat itself every seven or 10 years.

Throughout Canada there have been 5,064 cases this year to date. During all of 1966 there were only 3,087 cases.

Throughout the province this year to date there have been 1,065 cases reported. The total for 1966 was 547.

Most of the cases locally are being treated in their homes although many have been admitted to hospital.

The disease can be passed from person to person, mainly by food handlers. It can cause a long illness—of several weeks duration — depending on the severity of the case.

NORWAY'S PRINCE TO VISIT

Crown Prince Harald of Norway will spend two days here next week.

He will arrive at 5:45 p.m. Thursday at Patricia Bay airport aboard a Canadian government aircraft from Quebec.

He will leave at 3 p.m. Friday for a private fishing trip after having been a guest at Government House, visiting the Legislative Buildings and City Hall and being the guest of honor at a state dinner and a government luncheon.

COMING home after service at sea, at Halifax, Ottawa and Borden, Ont. for three years, is Lieut.-Commander Robert H. Jones, 2933 Oldcorn Place. He is new administrative officer to the regional surgeon, Maritime Forces, Pacific.

GOING to Germany to serve with First Canadian Air Division at Lahr is Lieut. Archibald G. Isherwood of 1742 Garnet. For the past two years he has served here as Postmaster, Forces Mail Office.

PRINCESS BLUSHES

Mayor's Flattery Scores

By JOHN MIKA

Denmark's Princess Margrethe today walked through the hippies' stamping grounds here and not one of the "flower" people was there to greet her.

But she seemed more than happy with officialdom and the traditional bouquet presented by the traditional young girl at the City Hall steps.

And acting premier Robert Bonner also paid tribute to her good looks and told her she was welcome to come back anytime to dig B.C.—as an experienced archaeologist.

TOUCHED BY CHEERS

And Princess Margrethe obviously was touched by the brave cheers, handclapping and waving of a solitary Danish flag by a small knot of Danish-Canadians who watched her stride through Victoria Centennial Square for a visit to the senior citizens' recreational centre.

The princess, accompanied by the mayor, her husband Prince Henrik and a party of Danish and B.C. officials, spent 10 minutes in the centre meeting some of the 200 elderly there and examing them in action at an arts and crafts class.

Earlier, after receiving the bouquet of pink roses and carnations from 11-year-old Doreen Norgaard, 2631 Millstream, she exchanged gifts with Mayor Stephen in council chamber while aldermen, regional reeves and about 150 invited guests looked on.

Mayor Stephen presented Princess Margrethe with a book of Fenwick Lansdowne bird paintings and a plaque of the city's coat-of-arms, after making her blush with the words:

MAYOR DELIGHTED

"It is, if I may say so ma'am, a particular delight that in the late summer of our celebrations, when already the more sombre colors of the fall and winter are apparent, you should visit us and through your youth and beauty bring to us again a graceful reminde of the fresh and vibrant mood of early springtime."

Mayor Stephen noted that B.C. is larger than the kingdoms and Denmark, Norway, Sweden and the Netherland put together but said it is only a miracle that has created its nationhood.

"In the achievement of this miracle we have welcomed as citizens men and women from every race and every nation," he said. ". . . in the rich colors of this national tapestry none shine with greater honor than those of Denmark whose people, particularly here in B.C., have added immeasurably to our stock, both of cultural and technical achievement."

Princess Margrethe responded with a book on Scandinavia she gave Mayor Stephen and the words:

'FROM OUR HEARTS'

"My husband and I must thank you from our very hearts for your kind words not only for ourselves but about our countrymen who have come here."

Later, at a gourmet luncheon in the Empress Hotel tendered by the provincial government, Mr. Bonner also praised her.

"The natural beauty of British Columbia has been enhanced by your presence in our midst and I know that this is one remark which 2,000,000 British Columbians would wish me to make today."

Mr. Bonner remarked that Canada has been the leading nation to which Danes have emigrated in the past 10 years and B.C. now has many of them among its population of about 100,000 of Scandinavian origin.

ANCIENT HABITATION

"Lest you might think, your royal highness, that all things are new in B.C., in acknowledging your keen personal interest in archaeology I should like to say that we have archaeological evidence of very ancient habitation by man in this vicinity.

"This is so particularly on Galiano in the Gulf Islands and also on the mainland at Yale where archaeological digs revealed the presence of man as far back as 9,000 years ago.

"Perhaps some day you could organize a little archaeological expedition to dig into British Columbia's past."

Mr. Bonner presented her with a Dogwood brooch and a hand-carved cedar plaque of the provincial coat-of-arms.

TAHSIS WEDNESDAY

He will be her host as president of the company when she flies to Tahsis Wednesday and on Thursday morning officially opens the $60 million pulp plant at Gold River.

She will spend a day of private rest on the Island before returning to Vancouver for visits with the Dansih community and her flight back to Denmark Saturday ending a two-week tour of Canada.

Shipyards Rush Freighter Jobs

Two Victoria shipyards have been awarded contracts for repairing the two freighters damaged in a collision last Wednesday.

Neither Yarrows nor Victoria Machinery Depot would reveal the amount of money involved but spokesmen for both yards said that workers who have been laid off will be rehired.

Yarrows expect to employ as many as 100 men, working two shifts to repair the bow damage to the Danish ship Marie Skou.

A VMD official said that his firm will work around the clock for about 10 days or two weeks, he hopes, to close the 20 by 40-foot hole in the forward end of the Japanese ship Chitose Maru.

Both ships have been discharging cargo since they limped into Victoria after colliding in smoke and fog in the Strait of Juan de Fuca shortly after midnight Wednesday.

Unloading of the 8,000-ton Danish ship, now in drydock, is expected to be completed by Thursday.

It will be about a week before any assessment of price or damage can properly be made. By that time drawings necessary to the estimates will have arrived from Denmark, say Yarrows.

It is expected that the whole forward end back to number one hold will have to be rebuilt.

REPAIRS BEGUN

Crews from VMD have already started work on the 40,000-ton Japanese ship and a company representative from Japan is in Victoria to supervise the work.

How long repairs will take depends on how much damage is revealed as the work progrsses. It will take two or three days to remove debris from the Marie Skou which was left in the Japanese ship after the crash.

A full underwater inspection is awaited before it is decided whether the ship must go into drydock or not.

Food Clerks, Stores Fail In Wage Bid

A conciliation meeting Monday failed to resolve differences between supermarkets and the Retail Food and Drug Clerks Union, a spokesman said today.

Rudy Krickan, union secretary-treasurer, said "negotiations broke down completely.

"The operators refused to agree to anything. They are openly inviting problems. We feel we are going to be challenged to take strike action before we get talks."

He said the seven chain stores, which employ more than 2,000 clerks in Victoria and Vancouver, "seemed to have agreed to try us on for size. It is quite a serious thing."

Conciliation officer J. A. Laffling has 10 days to bring in his report on the dispute.

The employees are seeking an extra $1 an hour in a two-year contract with Safeway, Super-Valu, Dominion, Loblaw, Shop-Easy, IGA and High-Low.

Present wage rates range from $1.70 an hour to $2.95 an hour. Close to 30 stores in Greater Victoria are involved.

Settlement in Victoria-Vancouver stores will affect 5,700 food store workers in B.C. as the contract here is traditionally the pattern for other areas.

Ask The Times

Q. Which hockey team is Aut Erickson with this year and when is the first exhibition game in Victoria? B.A.

A. Erickson is now playing for the California Seals. The first exhibition game is Thursday, Sept. 28, between Seattle and Phoenix.

Q. How big was the egg of the dinosaur? P.S.

A. The only eggs found were about eight inches long. But there were hundreds of kinds of dinosaur ranging from 80 feet long to less than three feet. Not all laid eggs, scientists believe, but some probably gave live birth.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the question along to the Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

Fraud Charges To Be Aired In City Court

A preliminary hearing into fraud charges arising out of the multi-million-dolar Chateau Victoria development opened in magistrate's court today.

The Victoria Chateau development was to provide homes and facilities for older people. The scheme was to build the facilities on land near Royal Roads, and to pre-sell suites to interested people.

FORECLOSED

Crown prosecutor Lloyd McKenzie told the court the mortgage on the land involved was foreclosed in 1964.

"By the spring of 1964 nothing but the idea remained. The money had disappeared."

A second man involved, Charles Beeler, is now in the United States. Mr. McKenzie said extradition proceedings have been initiated.

Spark Costs Burner $50

A spark from an incinerator which started a fire at a Quadra St. rest home Aug. 26 cost a man $50 in magistrate's court Monday.

Court was told William Higgs, 3136 Quadra, lit the incinerator without first obtaining a fire permit.

Fire department officials estimate $500 damage was caused to the roof and outside wall of the rest home as a result of the fire.

One Sailing Daily

M.V. Evergreen State will sail from Anacortes daily at 9:15 a.m., and from Sidney daily at 1 p.m.

City Woman Hurt in Crash Near Duncan

A Victoria woman is in satisfactory condition in King's Daughters' Hospital, Duncan, after a car accident at about 9 a.m. today.

Mrs. Art Nickerson, 1554 Athlone, was driving north on the Trans-Canada Highway when her car went out of control about four miles south of Duncan and left the road.

Mrs. Nickerson suffered pelvic injuries.

About $1,000 damage was done to the car.

Horseshoe Meeting

Annual general meeting of the Greater Victoria Horseshoe Pitching Association will be held Sunday at Hampton Park, starting at 1 p.m. All interested persons are invited to attend.

School Board Night Classes Disclose Secret Dreams of 8,000 Adult Pupils

By DON VIPOND
Times Education Reporter

A second-floor room at the Ewing Building holds the secret to what Victorians really want from life.

The charts spread over the walls there are a psychologist's delight.

In row upon row they list the 240 or so evening courses offered by the adult education division of the Greater Victoria School Board.

Hundreds of Xs mark the people who are ready to pay money and take time to learn abut something. That's why it's a true sample of the tastes and wants of the community.

About 8,000 men and women will take at least an evening a week over the next few months to satisfy some hunger for learning. Each year that total creeps closer to the 11,000 plus students at all 13 junior and senior secondary schools in the district.

Courses to meet every requirement and irterest is what the adult education program aims at. And trying to fill that kind of an order means staying quick on your feet, says Reg Mylrea, coordinator of adult classes in the evening division.

For the bewildering truth is that people's tastes change — violently sometimes, according to the charts in the operations room.

The picture isn't complete yet because courses start next week and there is still a steady stream of registrations. (For information, call 385-1411, locals 258 and 259).

There's a boom in Spanish Conversation. With only 18 pupils last year, there are 51 so far this year and a third class is being organized.

This one was predictable, says Mr. Mylrea. People will be headed for the Olympic Games in Mexico next year. The stampede for conversational French last year to equip the Expo visitors has tapered off.

●

Are Victorians prosaic? Maybe.

Last year Introduction to Magic drew one class. This year it had to be scratched. No one for magic, it seems.

●

All of which is not to say the community is not artistic. There will be four painting and oil classes. They are winners every year.

The creative writing class conducted by Times columnist Arthur Mayse filled up in just a few days. Many had to be turned away.

"In self-betterment courses we've never had such a response," says Mr. Mylrea, pointing particularly to courses with booming enrolments such as speed writing, effective (verbal) communications and effective supervision, human relations that is.

There are always exceptions.

●

A new course in Defensive Driving is having a lot of trouble getting into first gear. This despite a mail campaign to drivers who could use it.

The sports scene has some surprises.

●

Indoor golf, which used to be jammed, now has two of four classes almost empty. The two classes in indoor tennis, offered for the first time, are full, and another newcomer, fencing, is making a strong showing.

Fisherman favor the briney, it seems.

Saltwater fishing classes are filled while a class on freshwater fishing is only half full and may not start. And an old regular, Fly-tying, won't make it this year.

"Surely it is cruel and unusual punishment when, for every minute of the day and night, there is no privacy of conversation or living."

Mr. MacDonald said the attorney-general's department claims the legal profession favors this surveillance "in the interests or security — I do not believe it."

"Industrial and private snooping is increasing in this province and now the government itself, instead of preventing it, joins in."

Mr. MacDonald also supported Social Credit MLA Cyril Shelford's bid to have the government implement the recommendations on the Morrow royal commission report on gasoline prices.

The disclosure comes 13 months after a major outcry developed over "bugging" equipment in Victoria's Fisgard Street police station.

The city's police commission in August 1966 ordered wire-tapping equipment taken out of the station's visitor-prisoner intercom and other parts of the building where a search revealed it.

Police Chief John Gregory said at the time that listening devices in the building were installed as an experiment.

Only the jail and what was referred to as the security section of the building retained listening equipment as a protection to prisoners and an aid to police in maintaining order in the lock-up.

Under the system currently in use in the second-floor jail, a switch can be thrown by the jailor before he enters the cells. This enables officers on duty on the first floor to listen in case the jailor is attacked by prisoners or requires help for any reason.

NORWAY'S PRINCE TO VISIT

Crown Prince Harald of Norway will spend two days here next week.

He will arrive at 5:45 p.m. Thursday at Patricia Bay airport aboard a Canadian government aircraft from Quebec.

He will leave at 3 p.m. Friday for a private fishing trip after having been a guest at Government House, visiting the Legislative Buildings and City Hall and being the guest of honor at a state dinner and a government luncheon.

COMING home after service at sea, at Halifax, Ottawa and Borden, Ont. for three years, is Lieut.-Commander Robert H. Jones, 2933 Oldcorn Place. He is new administrative officer to the regional surgeon, Maritime Forces, Pacific.

GOING to Germany to serve with First Canadian Air Division at Lahr is Lieut. Archibald G. Isherwood of 1742 Garnet. For the past two years he has served here as Postmaster, Forces Mail Office.

Shipyards Rush Freighter Jobs

Two Victoria shipyards have been awarded contracts for repairing the two freighters damaged in a collision last Wednesday.

Neither Yarrows nor Victoria Machinery Depot would reveal the amount of money involved but spokesmen for both yards said that workers who have been laid off will be rehired.

Yarrows expect to employ as many as 100 men, working two shifts to repair the bow damage to the Danish ship Marie Skou.

A VMD official said that his firm will work around the clock for about 10 days or two weeks, he hopes, to close the 20 by 40-foot hole in the forward end of the Japanese ship Chitose Maru.

Both ships have been discharging cargo since they limped into Victoria after colliding in smoke and fog in the Strait of Juan de Fuca shortly after midnight Wednesday.

Unloading of the 8,000-ton Danish ship, now in drydock, is expected to be completed by Thursday.

It will be about a week before any assessment of price or damage can properly be made. By that time drawings necessary to the estimates will have arrived from Denmark, say Yarrows.

It is expected that the whole forward end back to number one hold will have to be rebuilt.

REPAIRS BEGUN

Crews from VMD have already started work on the 40,000-ton Japanese ship and a company representative from Japan is in Victoria to supervise the work.

How long repairs will take depends on how much damage is revealed as the work progrsses. It will take two or three days to remove debris from the Marie Skou which was left in the Japanese ship after the crash.

A full underwater inspection is awaited before it is decided whether the ship must go into drydock or not.

Fraud Charges To Be Aired In City Court

A preliminary hearing into fraud charges arising out of the multi-million-dollar Chateau Victoria development opened in magistrate's court today.

The Victoria Chateau development was to provide homes and facilities for older people. The scheme was to build the facilities on land near Royal Roads, and to pre-sell suites to interested people.

FORECLOSED

Crown prosecutor Lloyd McKenzie told the court the mortgage on the land involved was foreclosed in 1964.

"By the spring of 1964 nothing but the idea remained. The money had disappeared."

A second man involved, Charles Beeler, is now in the United States. Mr. McKenzie said extradition proceedings have been initiated.

Spark Costs Burner $50

A spark from an incinerator which started a fire at a Quadra St. rest home Aug. 26 cost a man $50 in magistrate's court Monday.

Court was told William Higgs, 3136 Quadra, lit the incinerator without first obtaining a fire permit.

Fire department officials estimate $500 damage was caused to the roof and outside wall of the rest home as a result of the fire.

One Sailing Daily

M.V. Evergreen State will sail from Anacortes daily at 9:15 a.m., and from Sidney daily at 1 p.m.

Food Clerks, Stores Fail In Wage Bid

A conciliation meeting Monday failed to resolve differences between supermarkets and the Retail Food and Drug Clerks Union, a spokesman said today.

Rudy Krickan, union secretary-treasurer, said "negotiations broke down completely.

"The operators refused to agree to anything. They are openly inviting problems. We feel we are going to be challenged to take strike action before we get talks."

He said the seven chain stores, which employ more than 2,000 clerks in Victoria and Vancouver, "seemed to have agreed to try us on for size. It is quite a serious thing."

Conciliation officer J. A. Laffling has 10 days to bring in his report on the dispute.

The employees are seeking an extra $1 an hour in a two-year contract with Safeway, Super-Valu, Dominion, Loblaw, Shop-Easy, IGA and High-Low.

Present wage rates range from $1.70 an hour to $2.95 an hour. Close to 30 stores in Greater Victoria are involved.

Settlement in Victoria-Vancouver stores will affect 5,700 food store workers in B.C. as the contract here is traditionally the pattern for other areas.

City Woman Hurt in Crash Near Duncan

Mrs. Nickerson suffered pelvic injuries.

About $1,000 damage was done to the car.

Horseshoe Meeting

Annual general meeting of the Greater Victoria Horseshoe Pitching Association will be held Sunday at Hampton Park, starting at 1 p.m. All interested persons are invited to attend.

Ask The Times

Q. Which hockey team is Aut Erickson with this year and when is the first exhibition game in Victoria? B.A.

A. Erickson is now playing for the California Seals. The first exhibition game is Thursday, Sept. 28, between Seattle and Phoenix.

Q. How big was the egg of the dinosaur? P.S.

A. The only eggs found were about eight inches long. But there were hundreds of kinds of dinosaur ranging from 80 feet long to less than three feet. Not all laid eggs, scientists believe, but some probably gave live birth.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the question along to the Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

PRINCESS BLUSHES

Mayor's Flattery Scores

By JOHN MIKA

But she seemed more than happy with officialdom and the traditional bouquet presented by the traditional young girl at the City Hall steps.

And acting premier Robert Bonner also paid tribute to her good looks and told her she was welcome to come back anytime to dig B.C.—as an experienced archaeologist.

TOUCHED BY CHEERS

And Princess Margrethe obviously was touched by the brave cheers, handclapping and waving of a solitary Danish flag by a small knot of Danish-Canadians who watched her stride through Victoria Centennial Square for a visit to the senior citizens' recreational centre.

The princess, accompanied by the mayor, her husband Prince Henrik and a party of Danish and B.C. officials, spent 10 minutes in the centre meeting some of the 200 elderly there and examining them in action at an arts and crafts class.

Earlier, after receiving the bouquet of pink roses and carnations from 11-year-old Doreen Norgaard, 2631 Millstream, she exchanged gifts with Mayor Stephen in council chamber while aldermen, regional reeves and about 150 invited guests looked on.

Mayor Stephen presented Princess Margrethe with a book of Fenwick Lansdowne bird paintings and a plaque of the city's coat-of-arms, after making her blush with the words:

MAYOR DELIGHTED

"It is, if I may say so ma'am, a particular delight that in the late summer of our celebrations, when already the more sombre colors of the fall and winter are apparent, you should visit us and through your youth and beauty bring to us again a graceful reminder of the fresh and vibrant mood of early springtime."

Mayor Stephen noted that B.C. is larger than the kingdoms of Denmark, Norway, Sweden and The Netherlands put together but said it is only a miracle that has created its nationhood.

"In the achievement of this miracle we have welcomed as citizens men and women from every race and every nation," he said. ". . . In the rich colors of this national tapestry none shine with greater honor than those of Denmark whose people, particularly here in B.C., have added immeasurably to our stock, both of cultural and technical achievement."

Princess Margrethe responded with a book on Scandinavia she gave Mayor Stephen and the words:

'FROM OUR HEARTS'

"My husband and I must thank you from our very hearts for your kind words not only for ourselves but about our countrymen who have come here."

Later, at a gourmet luncheon in the Empress Hotel tendered by the provincial government, Mr. Bonner also praised her.

"The natural beauty of British Columbia has been enhanced by your presence in our midst and I know that this is one remark which 2,000,000 British Columbians would wish me to make today."

Mr. Bonner remarked that Canada has been the leading nation to which Danes have emigrated in the past 10 years and B.C. now has many of them among its population of about 100,000 of Scandinavian origin.

ANCIENT HABITATION

"Lest you might think, your royal highness, that all things are new in B.C., in acknowledging your keen personal interest in archaeology I should like to say that we have archaeological evidence of very ancient habitation by man in this vicinity.

"This is so particularly on Galiano in the Gulf Islands and also on the mainland at Yale where archaeological digs revealed the presence of man as far back as 9,000 years ago.

"Perhaps some day you could organize a little archaeological expedition to dig into British Columbia's past."

TAHSIS WEDNESDAY

He will be her host as president of the company when she flies to Tahsis Wednesday and on Thursday morning officially opens the $60 million pulp plant at Gold River.

She will spend a day of private rest on the Island before returning to Vancouver for visits with the Danish community and her flight back to Denmark Saturday ending a two-week tour of Canada.

School Board Night Classes Disclose Secret Dreams of 8,000 Adult Pupils

By DON VIPOND
Times Education Reporter

A second-floor room at the Ewing Building holds the secret to what Victorians really want from life.

The charts spread over the walls there are a psychologist's delight.

In row upon row they list the 240 or so evening courses offered by the adult education division of the Greater Victoria School Board.

Hundreds of Xs mark the people who are ready to pay money and take time to learn abut something. That's why it's a true sample of the tastes and wants of the community.

About 8,000 men and women will take at least an evening a week over the next few months to satisfy some hunger for learning. Each year that total creeps closer to the 11,000 plus students at all 13 junior and senior secondary schools in the district.

Courses to meet every requirement and interest is what the adult education program aims at. And trying to fill that kind of an order means staying quick on your feet, says Reg Mylrea, coordinator of adult classes in the evening division.

For the bewildering truth is that people's tastes change — violently sometimes, according to the charts in the operations room.

The picture isn't complete yet because courses start next week and there is still a steady stream of registrations. (For information, call 385-1411, locals 258 and 259).

There's a boom in Spanish Conversation. With only 18 pupils last year, there are 51 so far this year and a third class is being organized.

This one was predictable, says Mr. Mylrea. People will be headed for the Olympic Games in Mexico next year. The stampede for conversational French last year to equip the Expo visitors has tapered off.

●

Are Victorians prosaic? Maybe.

Last year Introduction to Magic drew one class. This year it had to be scratched. No one for magic, it seems.

●

All of which is not to say the community is not artistic. There will be four painting and oil classes. They are winners every year.

The creative writing class conducted by Times columnist Arthur Mayse filled up in just a few days. Many had to be turned away.

"In self-betterment courses we've never had such a response," says Mr. Mylrea, pointing particularly to courses with booming enrolments such as speed writing, effective (verbal) communications and effective supervision, human relations that is.

There are always exceptions.

●

A new course in Defensive Driving is having a lot of trouble getting into first gear. This despite a mail campaign to drivers who could use it.

The sports scene has some surprises.

●

Indoor golf, which used to be jammed, now has two of four classes almost empty. The two classes in indoor tennis, offered for the first time, are full, and another newcomer, fencing, is making a strong showing.

Fishermen favor the briney, it seems.

Saltwater fishing classes are filled while a class on freshwater fishing is only half full and may not start. And an old regular, Fly-tying, won't make it this year.

Postal Letter Rate Will Be Increased

Effective On House Approval

OTTAWA (CP) — The government served notice today it will raise first-class postal rates in Canada by 1 cent, to 5 cents for local in-town delivery, and to 6 cents for out-of-town letters.

The new rates are to become effective when passed by Parliament.

Rates for first class letters mailed to destinations abroad may also be increased, but these aren't controlled by the Post Office Act which the government is asking the Commons and Senate to amend. They are set by international agreement.

At present, first class letters for local or in-town delivery cost four cents for the first ounce and two cents for each additional ounce.

COTE GAVE NOTICE

The notice given the Commons by Postmaster-General Cote said a measure would be introduced to amend the Post Office Act to increase "by one cent the postage rate for letters posted in Canada for delivery in Canada."

The government has previously announced it will also increase rates for newspapers and periodicals.

The post office had a deficit of about $30,000,000 in the 1965-66 fiscal year, the last year for which figures are available, the department sources said.

It would be the first change in first-class postal rates since 1954, when the rate was boosted to five cents from four for out-of-town letters and to four from three for local letters.

BOOST CONFIRMED

Senior post office officials said it is likely that the rates for postcards will go up as well. These could be changed by departmental regulation.

Parliament and the post office department were criticized by the public accounts committee of the House of Commons last October for paying insufficient attention to the loss incurred in handling second-class mail, the category covering newspapers and periodicals.

The committee declared it essential that ways be found to cover this loss "without this being done at the expense of other classes of mail, keeping in mind, however, the need of assistance to small independently owned newspapers circulating in rural areas."

Early House Attack Stuns Government

By VICTOR J. MACKIE
Times Ottawa Bureau

The opposition benches, Conservative, New Democratic Party, Creditiste and Social Credit—but particularly the Tories—pounded questions across at the government benches. They hit hard and continuously.

The government appeared to be caught off balance. Several of the key ministers were absent from the House—away on government business. But it left the burden on the shoulders of Mr. Pearson. It was a heavy load to carry.

The Conservatives, for the first time in many months, were a well-organized team. The NDP, which had hoped to seize the initiative from the Tories, found themselves hard pressed to keep up with the revived and belligerent Official Opposition.

Prime Minister Pearson, without External Affairs Minister Paul Martin (flying to New York) and with J. W. Pickersgill, no longer a member of the House, gone to take a post as head man with the Canadian Transport Commission, had to field many of the questions. He bore up well under the prolonged attack. At one point he grinned and shouted, "same old bunch."

This drew a laugh from both sides of the Commons. It was a bit of repartee John Diefenbaker used to hurl at the Grits when they were hammering him with questions when he was prime minister. Mr. Diefenbaker was not in the House. He is in Saskatchewan and will return to the Commons later.

OTTAWA (CP) — Speaker Lucien Lamoureux ruled out of order today an Opposition motion to set aside the regular business of the Commons so MPs could discuss a decline in wheat prices.

He said an offer by Government House Leader Mac-Eachen to provide an opportunity for a special wheat debate Wednesday left him no alternative but to reject the motion. New Democrat Leader Douglas had called for the emergency debate.

In the Gallery, Stanfield Beamed

Seated in the opposition's gallery above the heads of the Liberal members and facing the Conservative benches, new national Conservative leader Robert Stanfield beamed over the performance of his "boys." Michael Starr, the acting official opposition leader until Mr. Stanfield can get into the Commons, later chuckled outside the House over the discomfiture of the government.

"Did the government expect us to roll over and play dead?" he asked. Barry Mather (NDP—New Westminster) told newsmen after the question period, "I think the government looked pretty weak today."

Only 17 of its 27-member Cabinet were in their seats to answer questions. A total of 28 different subjects were dealt with in the questions. Some of them red-hot issues such as the housing shortage and the soaring cost-of-living.

Striving to handle numerous questions on the price of what and why had it fallen, Mr. Pearson wistfully said he wished Trade and Commerce Minister Robert Winters was in the House to handle the queries. He later explained that Mr. Winters was out of town on government business.

Analyst's Comments — Wednesday Entries

By HAL MALONE

FIRST RACE — Starlea and Coquahalla are the early steamrollers. Both gave way grudgingly. Chief Malarkey ran into a firecracker in Parisienne Pixie and if you look at the time he's a big danger. Satin's Kin and Ellabhai obviously like the track. The latter made a bold move against easier and is a possibility at a price. Jayle takes a class drop. So does Sikanni Chief but he may need a race over the track. In a cluster . . . STARLEA, Chief Malarkey, Satins Kin.

SECOND RACE — There isn't much to choose between Gernfield Extra and Jokellina. The former didn't break all that well but showed speed and tenacity. Jokellina switches from Sam to Ronald Arnold and may have an edge at the weights. If Miss Mystic goes with Bernfield Extra it would help Jokellina's chances; if Bernfield Extra can draw clear he might stick it out. Concise Answer has an outside chance if the leaders throw it up . . . JOKELLINA, Bernfield Extra, Miss Mystic.

THIRD RACE — If Chocolate Lily gets a free run we look for her and Primali to hook up early. Prince Scorpion is running out of excuses; he's been favored his last three outs and hasn't got the job done. But the spot isn't too hard. Highest Reward gets Harris and used to like the distance. Shodan acts like the mile is perfect but most invaders need a race to get acclimatized. The way she's travelling it's hard to see them holding off Punter's Joy in the stretch if Broomfield can get a clear path . . . PUNTER'S JOY, Prince Scorpion, Shodan.

FOURTH RACE — It will be interesting to see who they put on Velvet Morn. She was beaten by a good one in Alcaloe and if she runs that race back the marbles could be hers. Trineo has been running in the bushes; the package may weigh him down. Red Repulse has a modest charge. Mr. Dixon and Dark Susan like to grapple for the lead with the latter more tenacious. If Sly Alibi had a race over the track she might be the sound one. She may be even without an outing but it's asking a lot. Bo Jester, like Velvet Morn, grinds them down in the stretch. . . . VELVET MORN, Sly Alibi, Bo Jester.

FIFTH RACE — Pils Friday will probably try and steal a long lead and holds the key to the outcome. If they don't run with him they're dead; if they do they might succumb from fatigue. Jakes Special has won twice on the lead and should improve. Brown Wheat is better than her last shows. First Blessing drops and gets Frazier. Grand Idea could awaken under Phillips' baton. The Jones' had a sprint warmup and has met better. One to fear is Sir Silver Scot. He can lay close and come on . . . SIR SILVER SCOT, Pils Friday, Jake's Special.

SIXTH RACE — Look for a dazzling early dogfight here. Littlebitofsugar gets the rider for her style. Trusteen cut out fast fractions in her last and Seemingly improves every race. Frisky Admiral can also hum but the outside hurts. Peaceman hasn't been beating this kind but he's extremely honest and lowers the boom in the last eighth. Taylor Way is also a danger late. In a driving finish. . . . LITTLEBITOFSUGAR, Peace-man, Trusteen.

SEVENTH RACE — They finally dropped Regal Hawk to his seemingly correct social level and he showed tremendous run. This time with a six-pound shift in weights with Hay Billy he may come right back. Red Ensign is in good hands and certainly belongs but gets the worst of the weights. Jubilee's Image has won five and can't be overlooked but like Wifflaw lacks a

Pearson Plans to Stay Until Unity Issue Solved

By VICTOR J. MACKIE
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Prime Minister Pearson made it clear to a private Liberal caucus dinner over the weekend that he plans to remian as leader of the party until the national unity problems in Canada have been settled to his satisfaction.

Indications were today that Mr. Pearson is confident that the Quebec situation is now rapidly coming to a head and that it should be resolved within a year.

That would mean he would be retiring from the office of prime minister and national leader in the summer of 1968 and a national leadership convention would be held in the fall or in the winter of 1968-69.

Reports that the Liberal members of parliament and senators attending the dinner cheered a resolution endorsing his leadership and Mr. Pearson's declaration that he would be carrying on were described as "accurate" by several who attended the function.

About 100 to 125 attended the dinner. They had earlier listened in the caucus to Senator David Croll urge Mr. Pearson to settle once and for all the question of whether he would be retiring this fall or carrying on in office. Senator Croll said the Liberal party was in a difficult situation because of the growing crop of rumors that Mr. Pearson would be soon retiring.

The caucus had discussed the "difficult" and "grave" situation in Quebec. The caucus had heard Justice Minister Pierre Elliot Trudeau declare that Prime Minister Pearson enjoyed the confidence of Quebec.

Mr. Pearson told the caucus he would deal with the rumors about his early retirement at the private dinner after the caucus.

He did. He indicated that he felt he had a mandate to unify the country and intended to carry on as leader until he had fulfilled that mandate.

His declaration was enthusiastically applauded. Members of Parliament after the dinner and Monday were privately discussing Mr. Pearson's indication that he would be continuing in office for some time to come.

There were differing interpretations however of just how far he had gone in his declaration

Minnesota Twins All Alone at Top

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—Minnesota reclaimed possession of first place in the American League pennant race today, riding a pair of Harmon Killebrew's home runs and a homer and triple by Bob Allison to a 7-3 comeback victory over California.

The win lifted the Twins out of a first-place tie with Boston, which lost 6-3 to Cleveland, and into a one-game lead over the Red Sox and Chicago White Sox now virtually tied for second.

Chicago, which took over second place by one percentage point plays a night game at Kansas City. Chicago and Boston are one game behind the Twins. Fourth-place Detroit, trailing Minnesota by two games, played a night game against the Yankees in New York.

Killebrew's 435-foot two-run homer after Cesar Tovar singled ignited a four-run Twin's rally in the sixth inning that wiped out a 3-2 California lead.

Carter Report 'Dead' Says B.C. Tax Expert

(See Also Page 3)

OTTAWA (CP)—A spokesman for the Vancouver Board of Trade, who spent nearly five hours Monday discussing the Carter royal commission report on taxation with the government, said today he is convinced the controversial Carter proposals are dead.

The government is more interested in reforming the present tax law framework than adopting the radically new proposals proposed by the commission last spring, said Jacques Barbeau, chairman of the Vancouver group's tax committee.

Mr. Barbeau said he came to this conclusion after he and a delegation spent 2½ hours Monday with Robert Bryce, deputy finance minister, and officials of the finance department studying the Carter plan, and then discussing the board's brief with Revenue Minister Benson, Energy Minister Pepin, and Resources Minister Laing for more than two hours.

"The ministers went to great lengths to emphasize that the Carter report is not the government's report, and that a white paper will be issued this winter which will not be the final outline of tax policy either.

SPEAKS TO PRESS

Mr. Barbeau told a press conference the sweeping proposals of the royal commission headed by Toronto tax consultant Kenneth Carter "allows no regional differences."

"While we are not looking for concessions for British Columbia, the Carter proposals would have far less impact on, say, Ontario, than it would on the Maritime provinces or B.C., he said.

He cited as an example the

MILK SUPPLIES SUSPECTED

11 Children Die of Poisoning in Tijuana

TIJUANA, Mexico (AP) — Eleven children have died from a mystery illness that swept swiftly through poor neighborhoods of this city on the U.S. border. More than 200 persons are in hospital.

Health authorities on both sides of the border made allout efforts today to identify the cause of the ailment that appears to strike mainly at the young.

The authorities' first step was to check milk supplies. But the hunt for the death cause now has spread to water sources and other foodstuffs.

About 20 dairy operators, store owners and vendors were detained by police Monday as part of the investigation. No charges have been filed against them, but police questioned them in the search for the cause of the outbreak.

The dead youngsters, ranging in age from one to 11, come mostly from an area not far from the international border.

Deputy District Attorney Hector Valdivia confirmed that 11 children have died. Hospital authorities said several other children are critically ill.

Scores of children crammed the wards of the city's hospitals, some two to a bed. One hospital reported three dead and more than 60 ill. Doctors worked feverishly to save the ailing children, but said several of them would not survive.

Physicians used universal antidotes and anti-histamines to treat the poisoning, after pumping out the stomach of each child. They said milk was found in the stomach of every child treated.

Dr. Jorge Salas Cepeda said six adults were suffering from the same symptoms as the children. He said the victims suffer from vomiting, diarrhea and general weakness.

Pedro Luna Sanchez said his 10-year-old son developed the symptoms within a half hour after he had a breakfast of bread and milk.

Luna Sanchez, father of 11, said: "It seemed strange. Three other children who had milk from the same bottle did not become sick."

Sanchez said most of the victims seemed to come from a neighborhood known as Calonia Libertad, a hilly residential district that provides a home for many of Tijuana's poor.

Dr. James B. Askew, health director of San Diego, Calif., county said several milk samples have been sent to San Diego for analysis. He said it would be 48 hours before the results were known. San Diego is 15 miles from Tijuana.

The bodies of eight of the victims were sent to San Diego for post-mortem analysis.

Dr. Askew said he believes the poisoning was caused by a chemical poison, rather than a naturally occurring one such as bacteria.

"It's my understanding that the milk was delivered and consumed since Sunday," Dr. Askew said. "Any poisoning this soon would be too fast to be due to an infection.

"It could be any protoplasmic poison, from arsenic, to an insecticide to cyanide."

The first case of poisoning was reported early Monday at the Red Cross hospital. The number of cases increased rapidly until all three of Tijuana's hospitals and several clinics were swamped with sick children and worried parents.

United Appeal

SIX ON TARGET FOR START OF DRIVE

By TED GASKELL

Six divisions of the United Red Feather-Red Cross appeal had filled their quotas and poured $9,000 into the appeal's coffers by the time the drive was officially opened at an 8 [illegible] last [illegible] Mayor Hugh Stephen officially opened the drive proclaiming October and November as United Appeal months. He stressed that this is the most important year in the appeal's history and urged the public to think of "mankind as a club to which we owe a subscription."

●

He named six divisions who earned achievement scrolls.

One of them was the staff of the Handicapped Children's Clinic, new agency this year, who donated its full quota of $365.

First returns in were from the department of revenue and taxation division with $1,870 from its 114 employees.

Others reaching 100 per cent are Imperial Equipment, $269.40; Smith Cedar Products, $2,925; Standard Furniture, $1,500 and participating for the first time, Woolco with $2,200.

●

G. F. Auchinleck, campaign chairman, told the 175 division chairmen and award winners from last year, that this is an Appeal which faces its toughest challenge ever faced in Victoria.

He was referring to the inclusion of the Red Cross in the United Appeal for the first time and the fact that the target this year is increased from $450,000 in 1966 to $600,000.

"Success in reaching the goal will prove that we are ready to take yet another major step towards establishing a truly United Appeal here [illegible]," he said, adding that in other parts of Canada where Red Cross and Red Feather have joined full support by communities has been received.

He urged canvassers and firm executives to concentrate on communication. He said the executive's attitude will be reflected in the employees' attitude. He told canvassers that knowledge of the 24 participating agencies is important and a correct and ready answer might mean the difference between a one dollar donation and $10.

●

"People like to know where their money is going. You can't sell United Appeal on the basis that it happens every fall like the World Series and is a good thing," he warned.

He reported that a number of companies had donated increased amounts this year. One was one third higher, another 75 per cent more, one 60 per cent and another gave 40 per cent more this year.

"Results to date indicated that we have not tackled a monster this year. The general public is behind us in our step towards a truly United Appeal and if we have a sense of urgency that will make us push a little harder, there is no doubt that we will go over the top," Mr. Auchinleck said.

'Secret Plan' Claimed For Independence

QUEBEC (CP) — The daily newspaper l'Action says Quebec's Union Nationale party has a "secret plan" to bring about the province's independence in a Canadian economic union within five years.

The evening newspaper publishes in its final edition the story about the Union Nationale party that came into office in Quebec last year.

The newspaper says the Union Nationale's plan is laid out in a confidential document drafted by some 40 specialists, a number of them not engaged in politics but invited to be part of an advisory committee that prepared the Union Nationale program before provincial elections in June, 1966.

and how far into the future that would carry him as leader.

It is known that for some time Mr. Pearson has been viewing with grave concern the developments in Quebec. There has been an escalation of the serious separatist statements in the French-speaking province since President Charles de Gaulle cried out for a free Quebec when he visited Montreal this summer.

FEELS RESPONSIBILITY

Mr. Pearson feels that as prime minister it is his responsibility to carry forward the fight for a unified Canada.

Any plans the prime minister might have had to step into retirement this fall with a leadership convention set for the early months of 1968 have gone by the board.

The seriousness of the separatist developments in Quebec have made him determined to stay as Liberal leader because at this stage he sees no one in sight who could succeed him and cope with the Quebec situation.

He is worried that if he retired now it would aggravate the Quebec situation and might even lead to the province separating from Canada.

One Liberal, high in the party's ranks, volunteered the information that he would not be surprised to see Mr. Pearson continuing in office to lead the party into the 1969 general election on the issue of national unity.

But he said he understood the prime minister was hopeful the Quebec situation could be settled within 12 months enabling him to retire before the next general election.

The drive to get a declaration from Mr. Pearson that he would continue in office was spearheaded by Senator Croll, it is understood, during the weekend of caucus sessions.

TRY TO STOP DRIVE

There were moves from supporters of Finance Minister Mitchell Sharp and Transport Minister Paul Hellyer to try and block the drive. Mr. Sharp and Mr. Hellyer are unofficial candidates to succeed Mr. Pearson as national leader.

Adding strength to the report that Mr. Pearson will be carrying on were reports today that he has cancelled for the time being plans for visiting Australia and New Zealand.

He has been contemplating going to those countries this winter as part of a leisurely preparation for the announcement that he would be resigning with a leadership convention in the spring.

Now he has dropped the Australian plans, indicating that this will be a busy winter for the prime minister.

Quebec's Goal 'Independence Or Equality'

QUEBEC (CP)—Gabriel Loubier, Quebec minister of tourism, fish and game, said Monday night the province will demand its independence if it does not achieve "equality" in a few years.

"Equality or independence; that is what we are asking for," he said. "If we do not obtain equality here in a few years—and I don't mean 10 years—we will ask for independence."

Quebec will not wait 10 years without seeking to become independent if the province "does not succeed in negotiating equality of treatment with the Anglo-Canadian nation," he said in an interview.

". . . . and the count is two and one with the bases loaded."

Labor Peace Talks Set

OTTAWA (CP)—Plans for a government-sponsored series of regular meetings between senior labor and management representatives in federal industries were announced today by Labor Minister Nicholson.

He said the aim is to promote relations problems before they reach the critical stage.

Shells Pour on Marines

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. marines at the strategic northern outpost of Con Thien today took the brunt of the heaviest sustained Communist firepower in Vietnam since the French defeat at Dien Bien Phu. The marines hurled back 10 shells for each one fired at them.

More than 1,000 shells fell Monday on Con Thien, a scarred fortress 2½ miles south of the demilitarized zone and the key to the marine defences astride Communist invasion routes to the South. The marines reported two dead and 202 wounded, and said they believed enemy losses are running high.

Sixty-three Americans have been killed around Con Thien in the three weeks since the North Vietnamese started a battle of attrition.

German Spies Nabbed

BONN (UPI) — West German counter intelligence has cracked five East German spy rings in recent weeks and so far arrested 12 agents, the interior ministry announced Monday.

A spokesman said the 12, among them four women and three married couples, were "highly qualified agents" who had been trained in East Germany and then filtered into West Germany to build up various spy networks.

Brown Urges Vietnam Talks

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — British Foreign Secretary George Brown called today for immediate peace talks on Vietnam, but said that North Vietnam has "declined to grasp the many opportunities to negotiate that have been offered."

In a wide-ranging policy speech before the 122-nation United Nations General Assembly, Brown appealed again for a settlement of the war on the basis of the Geneva conference on Indochina.

"Both the United States and South Vietnam have said that this basis would be acceptable to them," he said.

As co-chairman of the Geneva conference, the Soviet Union and Britain have the authority to bring Vietnam before that body. But Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko remained adamant against the idea when Brown sounded him out over the weekend.

Brown said during the last year abortive efforts to achieve a Vietnam settlement had been overshadowed by death and destruction.

"There has been no progress in the fighting," he said. "There has been no progress toward a solution."

The gloomy picture he painted reflected conclusions Brown and U.S. State Secretary Dean Rusk reached after private talks Monday that prospects for a Vietnam agreement at this stage are "none too bright."

Rusk and Gromyko conferred three hours Monday night and informants said the Soviet minister hinted he would not be too tough about Vietnam during the current assembly session.

Vietnam is expected to come under examination again tonight when the Big Four Foreign Ministers — Rusk, Brown, Gromyko and France's Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville—are guests of UN Secretary-General U Thant at a dinner discussion.

On the Israeli-Arab confrontation Brown reiterated Britain's stand that war should not be the means of settling such disputes and no nation should be allowed to extend its frontier as a result of armed victory.

"But equally," he said, "Israel's neighbors must recognize its right to exist, and it must enjoy security within its frontiers."

He said the complex problem of the Middle East may require "a wider United Nations presence."

Brown said: "A settlement in the Middle East can only come through our United Nations organization."

Brown denounced the manhandling of British mission personnel during recent Red Guard rampages in Peking.

"The attack and burning of our diplomatic Mission in Peking, the manhandling of our charge d'affaires and his staff were matters of grave concern," he said.

He made plain, however, that Britain still believes Communist China should have a seat in the UN.

"Her indefinite exclusion from the international community will benefit neither the people we represent here, nor, for that matter, the Chinese people themselves."

Trustees and Teachers Poised to Negotiate

Both the Greater Victoria School Board and teachers hope to negotiate next year's contract without arbitration.

At the same time, teachers in all three capital region school districts have served notice they want increased pay and better working conditions in their 1968 contracts.

No details have been spelled out in letters sent to school boards and no bargaining has begun.

This will likely be delayed until after the convention of the B.C. School Trustees' Association in Vancouver Oct. 4 to 6.

It was an arbitration board last December which awarded Greater Victoria teachers a pay increase averaging 8 per cent. The teachers wanted 15 per cent and the board at first offered 5.34 per cent.

TEACHERS' GOALS

The B.C. Teachers' Federation last month urged district teachers' associations to seek "significant" salary increases. It also advised them to bargain for supplementary sick leave benefits, shared-cost group life insurance and provisions for detached duty.

In Greater Victoria a teacher with two years at university and no classroom experience earns $4,400. A teacher with at least six years at university and 14 years classroom experience is paid $10,840.

About 24 of the district's 1,200 teachers are earning this maximum. Pay rates for teachers in Sooke and Saanich are slightly less.

Oct. 31 is the deadline for school boards and teachers' associations to arrive at contract terms.

Failing agreement, a conciliator is appointed and if he fails to produce a contract by Nov. 14, the issue goes to a three-man arbitration board which will dictate a contract by the end of the year.

STRIKE OUTLAWED

Teachers are forbidden to strike by law but could adopt other tactics such as mass resignations.

In Greater Victoria, trustees and teachers' representatives met informally two weeks ago and both sides agreed a negotiated settlement was highly desirable.

At the moment, Mrs. Kory Regan, president of the Greater Victoria Teachers' Association, said teachers' negotiators are waiting word from the board following the association's letter sounding the first note in contract negotiations.

Forged Documents Charged in Case

KIMBERLEY (CP) — Ronald Ivan MacDonald, recently hired as a psychologist by the Kimberley school board, has been remanded until Friday on a charge of false pretences and two charges of uttering forged documents.

MacDonald was released on $2,000 bail.

Harvey Drdul school district secretary-treasurer, said in an interview an applicant was interviewed on Aug. 18 and subsequently hired, but that charges were laid Friday following an investigation involving qualifications.

Kimberley is a southeastern British Columbia community.

PERSON INTERVIEWED

Mr. Drdul said board members who did the interviewing were satisfied with the applicant.

"The interview had been backed up with impressive credentials, recommendations from doctors of psychiatry from McGill University and a transcript of academic standing bearing the university seal."

The applicant started work Sept. 18.

Mr. Drdul said suspicions were aroused last Thursday by a call from a man who had moved to the area from Port Arthur.

After an investigation, it was found the employee had no qualifications, Mr. Drdul said.

"The district school superintendent and myself had a private discussion with him, but we cannot say what was said.

"After the discussion the matter was placed in the hands of the RCMP and Friday morning he was taken into custody and charged."

Repairmen Win Boost In Minimum

A new minimum wage of $2 an hour for electronic technicians effective Oct. 30 was announced Monday by the labor department.

The new order replaces a previous minimum wage of $1.50 an hour. It also stipulates overtime of time and a half after 40 hours in any one week.

It is applies to technicians employed in designing, repairing, adjusting and installing short wave and ultra-high frequency receiving and transmitting equipment and radio and electronic equipment including home radio receivers, televisions, record players, public address and audio-amplifier systems and industrial electronic equipment.

Persons employed as electronic technicians in radio broadcasting stations are exempt from the order because they come under federal, not provincial, jurisdiction.

Red Guards 'Rampaging' In Tibet

NEW YORK (Reuters)—Chinese Red Guards rampaging through Tibet had reduced the country to a bloody battlefield of sacked monasteries and temples, says Gyalo Thondup, brother of Tibet's exiled Dalai Lama.

"Tibet is today a vast prison for the Tibetan people who have been completely subjugated by the Chinese," he told a press conference Monday.

Chinese occupation forces, which maintain a tight grip on the mountain nation, have killed and imprisoned thousands of Tibetans while rival Red Guards fought among themselves and destroyed priceless works of art, books and religious objects, he said.

Thondup, who is here to seek support among United Nations delegates for his country's fight for freedom, said the Chinese conquered Tibet because of its strategic location.

Today, Tibet is turned into an impregnable and gigantic military base from which the Chinese can invade and threaten other countries such as India, Nepal and Burma, he said.

King Blasts Church Silence

King said church bodies were "too busy with ecclesiastical machinery."

He said the silence of church bodies sanctions the war in Vietnam.

The civil rights leader said when he first took his stand against the Vietnam war, only 21 per cent of the American people opposed it.

"Now," he said, "the latest poll shows 54 per cent against it and many more confused by the whole situation."

"The largest Protestant denomination in America, the Southern Baptist Convention, will spend millions on missionary work in Africa. But if an African came to worship in their churches on Sunday, 90 per cent of them would kick the Negro out," he said.

Embezzlement Charge

CHILLICOTHE, Ohio (UPI)—A slender blonde Sunday school teacher, described as "deeply religious," was arraigned today on charges she embezzled nearly half a million dollars from the bank where she was head bookkeeper. Mrs. Betty Storer, 37, was arrested Monday by the FBI and charged with making false entries totaling $427,053 in the records of the Peoples Bank and Trust Co. of Belpre, Ohio.

Full Slates For Liberals, CCF in Sask.

REGINA (CP) — The Liberal party, in power for 3½ years, and the CCF party they deposed, were the only parties with full slates of candidates as 165 hopefuls filed official nomination papers Monday for Saskatchewan's Oct. 11 general election.

The total was two more than for the 1964 election and short of the record of 225 set in 1960.

The Progressive Conservative party will contest 41 of the 59 seats at stake. The Social Credit party has six candidates.

Party standing when the legislature was dissolved was Liberal 31, CCF 26, Progressive Conservative one, and one vacant.

Two CCF supporters filed as CCF-NDP candidates. Russ Brown in Souris-Estevan and Walter Mills in Nipawin.

Sailor Rescued

CHATHAM, Mass. (AP) — A 64-year-old Chicago man, adrift in the Atlantic aboard his yacht for 10 weeks after it was damaged in a storm en route to Sweden, was rescued Sunday off the Chatham coast. Nels B. Nelson and his 30-foot yawl, Savina, were towed to shore by a U.S. Coast Guard lifeboat after being spotted by a fishing vessel. With him was his pet beagle.

COLD STARE and firm grip was policeman's response to motorcycle gang member Peter Lordon, of Hamilton, when he puckered up and made kissing noises. Lordon was one of 64 members of "Satan's Choice" gang arrested in 84-man police raid in Markham, Ont., outside Toronto, where group was holding its first "annual convention". (CP Wirephoto.)

Industrial Park Law Same for Everyone

No exceptions to landscaping regulations will be permitted in Esquimalt's industrial park and the by-law will not be changed.

This was the decision of the municipality's zoning committee Monday night.

Edward Liersch, a property owner in the area, said the by-law requiring landscaping and a 25-foot setback is discouraging building plans and buyers.

He reported his property is triangular shaped and unsuitable for such regulations.

"There should be some consideration given in the by-law for odd shaped lots," he said.

But Coun. Roy Elphick opposed any exception.

"If an exception came in one case, the by-law would soon be worthless."

The committee agreed the price of property in the area had increased since the passing of the by-law and decided this was the limiting factor in the growth of the area, not the by-law itself.

. . . CARTER

Carter proposals to rescind special tax holidays for newly-opened mines. The tax concession was important for Alberta and B.C. because, without the mining industry, they would be thrown back on agriculture as their industry base—"and where would the government get its tax dollars, then?"

"I don't think that Carter is going to be implemented as a package. I don't think the people or the politicians want it.

CONDUCTED SURVEYS

"In the sampling we did in Vancouver, mainly through radio hot-lines and that sort of thing, we were convinced that once the people know what are the Carter proposals, nine out of 10 of them would be opposed."

British Columbia's economy was sensitive to federal tax law, "and we're scared," the board's spokesman added. "We don't feel we can gamble in this guinea-pig approach."

Mr. Barbeau said the Vancouver Board of Trade agreed with the Carter report that there should be a standard rate of corporate taxation, and the low rate of 21 per cent for companies earning under $35,000 a year should be ended.

Capital gains should be taxed at a flat rate no higher than the U.S. rate, and should not be taxed at the full rate of normal income as proposed by Carter, he added.

Rites for Woman Who Won Unique Honor by Sailing

Funeral services were held Monday from McCall Bros. for Miss Bella Rose Chisholm, 88, the only woman who had ever been a life member of the Thermopylae Club.

Miss Chisholm, who died in a private hospital here last week, was born at Great Village, near Truro, N.S., and came to Vancouver Island 40 years ago.

B.C. Tories Gain

VANCOUVER (CP)—The provincial leader of the Progressive Conservatives said Sunday his party's change of national leadership has prompted a surge of new members in B.C. Malcom Wickson said that since the leadership convention chose Robert Stanfield, his office has been receiving four or five calls a day from persons wanting to join the party.

SAN FRANCISCO PUTS VIETNAM ON BALLOT

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The San Francisco registrar of voters has certified the question of whether the United States should withdraw from the war in Vietnam for inclusion on the November municipal ballot.

The board of supervisors was informed Monday that the initiative petitions carried far in excess of the 11,900 valid signatures needed to put it on the ballot.

The question will be known as Proposition P and will read:

"Should the United States withdraw its armed forces from Vietnam?"

Fewer B.C. Strikes Reported This Year

Strikes in B.C. are down sharply this year compared with the first six months of last year.

Figures from the federal labor department reflect the quiet contract-renewal year compared with last year, when many major and minor contracts came open and were generally renewed for two years.

Cumulative figures are not available, but the individual monthly statistics for B.C. show that in only one of the six months this year were there more strikes than in the corresponding period last year.

Completed figures will not be available until early next year. The provincial labor department does not issue monthly figures but waits until about February to give the full year's picture.

Also only in one month this year did the number of man-days lost by strikes exceed the corresponding month last year. In several months the decrease this year was sharp — only 6,870 days in June compared with 88,810 days in June, 1966, and only 650 days last January compared with 9,250 days in January, 1966.

The number of workers involved in strikes was also down in four months this year but up slightly in the other two. The number in June was only 710 compared with 15,708 workers out in June of 1966.

Nationally, the trend was more mixed but generally showed an increase in both numbers and effects this year compared with last, reflecting the number of disputes in the east.

More strikes began during four of the first six months last year than this but more workers were involved in four of the first six months of this year than last.

Time lost was up in four of the six months this year when compared with the same period last year and also the percentage of total time worked.

The percentage of time lost through strikes against total time worked ranged from a low of 0.07 per cent in March to a high of 0.5 per cent in June.

Last year, the range was from 0.12 per cent in January to 0.38 per cent in April.

APPOINTED chief justice of the Ontario High Court by Prime Minister Pearson is Mr. Justice Dalton C. Wells.

. . . OPPOSITION

son that he had at one time assured the farmers they would be guaranteed $2 wheat. Mr. Pearson snappishly suggested the NDP leader should not unearth "old election controversies."

E. D. Fulton (PC—Kamloops) enquired immediately if the prime minister's dismissal of that old election promise was an indication of how all his election promises should be regarded?

Among the absentees on the Cabinet benches were Transport Minister Paul Hellyer, Finance Minister Mitchell Sharp, Labor Minister J. R. Nicholson and Defence Minister Leo Cadieux. All were absent engaged on government business.

When opposition members complained over the number of vacant Cabinet benches, Mr. Pearson suggested sarcastically that if the opposition members would give the Cabinet notice of "important questions" that it intends to ask, members of the cabinet could ensure they would be present. As it was, he pointed out, the niceties of giving "notice" of questions had been forgotten.

When the House opened there were polite formalities and speeches of praise about the former leader of the opposition, the former transport minister and the promotions received by some members of the Cabinet. As soon as the formalities were dispensed with up jumped George Chatterton, Conservative backbencher for Esquimalt-Saanich.

Mr. Chatterton moved for the immediate adjournment of the regular business to discuss a matter of urgent public importance—namely—housing. He complained that the housing crisis was getting rapidly worse and the government was apparently doing little to meet the situation.

NDP leader Douglas leaped to his feet ot say he had planned to move such a motion. Obviously the NDP had hoped to pick up the ball and run away from the official opposition but the Conservatives anticipating such a ploy by the socialists had outmanoeuvred them.

Liberal House Leader Allan MacEachen attempted to handle the united opposition attack. He aroused hoots and shouts of derision. When the government came under fire over wheat the opposition was hard after the prime minister again. It was a rough day.

So steady was the assault on the government benches and so often did Mr. Pearson have to rise to fend off the barrage of questions that a young Conservative MP apologized when he rose to put yet another question. He prefaced his query with the "hope" that it was not "exhausting" the prime minister.

Mr. Pearson gave his awry grin.

Draft-Dodger Aid Wins Backing Of United Church

TORONTO (CP) — The United Church of Canada Monday issued a statement recommending that Canadians welcome Americans who "for reasons of conscience refuse to do military service in the war in Vietnam."

The board of evangelism and social service passed a resolution which suggested that Canadians should give the Americans:

- Temporary residence in their homes;
- Practical and financial support during the time of adjustment to their new surroundings;
- Employment according to the individual's training and skills, and the job availability on the Canadian labor market.

The board also suggested that Americans coming to Canada should apply for proper legal status as "landed immigrants" and that a $1,000 grant be given to local volunteer groups who provide assistance to them.

CHURCH GROUP ASKS STUDY OF SEXUALITY

By JO-ANN PRICE
Special to the Washington Post

SEATTLE, Wash. — The Episcopal House of Deputies last week debated and adopted a measure calling on the church's executive council to initiate studies expressing "Christian attitudes" to human sexuality.

The deputies' action, now up for concurrence by the House of Bishops at the Episcopal general convention, asked for church-wide study of the findings.

Approval by both laymen and clergy in the House of Deputies came after debate in which a report attached to these resolutions came under attack by Federal District Judge Oliver Gasch of Washington, D.C.

The report scored "self-centred uses of sex."

Judge Gasch, who is chancellor of the diocese of Washington, maintained that the report appeared at several points to be "contrary" to statements made in the New Testament about fornication and adultery.

The document took note of the so-called "new morality" and observed that "the traditional and often stereotyped attitudes of the churches may no longer provide guidance for people today." As a result, the church appears to many youths as "puritanical, censorious, and somehow unreal."

It is the place of the church to take note of the broader implications of sexuality, the report said, and help men and women to avoid "exploitive" uses of sex and to engage in "satisfying, self-fulfilling and responsible ways of expressing their sexuality."

In an apparent reference to homosexuality, the document said the church must take a positive stand in "forgiving and assisting those who have suffered from censures or other consequences of their behavior."

The preamble of the resolution approved by the deputies inferentially took note of proposals that criminal penalties for homosexual acts between consenting adults be eliminated from state laws. It said civil laws should make a distinction between those laws "which are necessary for the protection of society and those which attempt to regulate private moral choice."

Thursday the House of Bishops approved and sent to th deputies a measure initiated by the diocese of Long Island, N.Y., calling for abortion law reforms along lines recommended by the American Law Institute. The resolution condemned "abortions of convenience," but supported those needed to protect a prospective mother's physical or mental health.
